Saved From Windy Channel

American Boat Owners Lose All as Vessel Burns at Sea

American boat owners were saved from the chilly winds of the Windy Channel yesterday by the timely arrival of a Canadian seine boat enroute to Prince Rupert.

The boat was partly insured. It is believed to be a total loss.

It is on the beach about a mile above Camp Point Light, 80 miles south of Prince Rupert, in Grenville Channel.

New District CNR Manager Visits City

James J. Behan, newly-appointed manager of the Canadian National Railways B.C. district, arrived in Prince Rupert today on his first visit to the city since assuming his position Oct. 1.

Mr. Behan, who is on his way back to headquarters at Vancouver after attending the PGE opening ceremonies at Prince George, has been a railroader for 41 years. Born in 1896 at Toronto, he joined the Canadian Northern Railway there in 1911. After war service overseas, he returned to railroading in eastern Canada where he remained until 1939 when he was transferred to the western region as CNR superintendent of car service.

Eight years later he was appointed assistant general superintendent of transportation and in 1949 became general superintendent of transportation for the western region with headquarters at Winnipeg, where he remained until his new appointment.

He succeeds Bernard Allen who retired this fall.

Mr. Behan will leave Vancouver by steamship tomorrow night.

Lands After Landing

A Norseman was blown down by dense fog in the Windy Channel yesterday as he landed at Ocean Falls.

The Norseman was blown from Kemano on Tuesday with seven men when forced to land in bad weather.

Air Taxi operators and the RCAF were sent out to search for the plane when word was received it was safe.

Ottawa Expects Relations With U.S. Remain Friendly

OTTAWA (CP)—Official circles in Ottawa today looked for a continuation of friendly co-operation under the Republican president in the United States.

"There's not the slightest doubt we will have the same friendly practical co-operation under a Republican president—especially one like Eisenhower—that we have had in the past," said one highly-placed minister.

Giant Tidal Wave Misses West Coast; Only Ripple

VANCOUVER—British Columbia prepared to meet a tidal wave last night but distance whittled the monster to a ripple.

Waves were launched by an earthquake near the southern tip of Kamchatka Peninsula, in Siberia, some 4,000 miles from here.

Huge waves struck Hawaii and the Aleutians but weather stations up-coast in British Columbia reported only "moderate swells," and for B.C., Washington Oregon and California any danger there was passed.

"The tidal wave was due here at 3:30 p.m. PST" a weather office spokesman in Vancouver said. "It would take delicate instruments which we haven't got to record whether it had arrived or not."

Former City Engineer, Pioneer Dies

W. V. Tattersall, pioneer cabinet maker and city engineer in the early days of Prince Rupert, died suddenly at his home here early this morning. He was 80 years old.

Mr. Tattersall came to this city from his hometown of Birkhead, England, in 1912 and was one of the original members of the carpenters' union here.

He was city engineer for only a short time before he went to work at the drydock, where he remained for 20 years, then opened a cabinet-making shop on Seventh Avenue East.

He operated his own business until the outbreak of the Second World War when he again went to work at the drydock, remaining on the job until 1946 when he retired.

Health Minister Postpones Tour

VICTORIA (CP)—Health Minister Eric Martin Tuesday announced he has postponed his tour through central and northern British Columbia for a survey of the government's hospital insurance services.

Mr. Martin, denying that he had changed his plans because of criticism by political opponents, explained he was delaying his tour because he plans to take part in the by-election campaign in Similkameen.

Boilermakers Accept Offer

VANCOUVER (CP)—Members of Marine Workers and Boilermakers Union Monday night voted to accept a 7½-cent wage increase offered by Vancouver shipyards.

The union is the largest of 10 unions that negotiated with Burrard and Pacific Drydock Companies. Six hundred men are affected.

Dirty Wash Saves Boy's Life

LIMA, O. (AP)—Mrs. Don Marshall was busy at her chores yesterday when she heard her three-year-old son Harry yell from the basement. "Mamma, Stevie's in the basement."

Knowing her year-old son, Stevie, could not walk down the basement stairs, she hurried down and found the little lad lying in a basket of soiled clothes. A disconnected joint in a furnace pipe showed how he got there.

Questioning her older son, Mrs. Marshall learned that Harry had dropped his belt in a register. When he pulled up the grid to get it out, down Stevie tumbled—head first.

He escaped with minor bruises.

Oldest building in the Tower of London, the White Tower was constructed between 1078 and 1098.

Pulp Mill Seeks Proxy On Schools

The board of school trustees would welcome a representative from Columbia Cellulose Company on Watson Island on the board but suggest that he, or she, gain the position in the same manner as other trustees.

At the regular meeting last night, a letter was read from the department of education advising trustees that a request from the company for a representative on the board was "reasonable" and asked further opinion from trustees.

The company suggested in a letter some time ago that because it pays the major portion of school taxes in its district that the company be given the privilege of appointing a representative to the board.

Trustees endorsed a motion by Bruce Brown which said the board is "quite in favor of Columbia Cellulose having a member on the board but they should go about it in the normal way." It was seconded by trustee A. Dominato.

During discussion of the request, Dr. R. G. Large, chairman, pointed out that members of the school board are elected representatives of the people and he suggested large corporations, regardless of the amount of taxes they pay, should have their representative elected in the same manner.

All trustees admitted that Columbia Cellulose pays a large portion of school taxes in the Port Edward area.

Trustee Joe Scott said he did not see "any harm" in the appointment, but other trustees pointed out that it would be setting a precedent if the request were granted.

4-Day Prison Riot Ends In Surrender

COLUMBUS (CP)—The four-day uprising of Ohio penitentiary inmates, a period filled with fire, rioting and death for one convict, appeared at an end Tuesday night.

The unruly convicts in four cellblocks out of control since rioting started Friday night, gave into a surrender ultimatum delivered by Warden Ralph W. Alvis.

Winnie's Tories Win By-Elections

LONDON (CP)—Winston Churchill's Conservatives retained two seats in by-elections yesterday.

At High Wycombe, John Hall polled almost 2,000 more votes than his Labor opponent, and at Belfast, Ireland, Sir David Campbell, Ulster Unionist (Conservative) won over Labor with a majority of 15,412.

The WEATHERMAN Says

A Pacific disturbance is approaching the north this morning. Increasing cloudiness is expected in most northern regions tonight and Thursday as the disturbance moves southward.

Forecasts
 A few clouds today, becoming overcast in the northern part this afternoon and in the southern part late this evening. Showers tonight and Thursday. A little milder. Winds light, increasing to southeast 20 by late evening. Low tonight and high tomorrow at Port Hardy, Sandspit and Prince Rupert, 42 and 48.

Buying Orders Flood New York Exchange

Landslide Victory Gives General Near-Record Vote

NEW YORK—Buying orders flooded the floor of the New York stock exchange early today in the aftermath of Eisenhower's election yesterday as first Republican president in 28 years.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's landslide victory ripped open the once-solidly Democratic south and shattered the 20-year Democratic hold on the White House.

Immediately the victory was known, Wall Street zoomed into activity at such a pace that the high speed ticker tape fell as much as two minutes behind in reporting actual transactions from the trading floor.

It is understood that three or four major U.S. industries planning development in Alaska have been holding off in the hope that a Republican administration would take over control at Washington. The election results are now expected to bring quick action in the advancement of their plans.

Early gains ranged between $4 and $5 at the outside in leading issues.

AVALANCHE
 In the election, there was nothing but all-out victory for the most popular man in the U.S.—Eisenhower.

The avalanche of votes—close to 6,000,000 more than gained by Democratic presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson—gave the 62-year-old General a tremendous mandate, but fell short of guaranteeing him a Republican-controlled Congress.

Noon returns from 121,250 of 146,361 voting units showed the popular vote as follows: Eisenhower 29,124,001; Stevenson 23,470,798.

Making a spectacular entry into politics after a 40-year military career, Eisenhower buried Governor Stevenson, his Democratic opponent, under a coast to coast swell of votes matching in volume that given Herbert Hoover, his last Republican predecessor in 1928, and rivalling some of those for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

CONGRESS CLOSE
 But while voters liked Ike in emphatic terms, they were somewhat less certain that it was "time for a change" in Congress which the Democrats have dominated for the last four years.

Control of the House of Representatives apparently hinged on the outcome of a half-dozen or more districts with only a vote or two likely to separate the two parties in the 435-seat house.

The senate contest was just as tight. One-third of the 96 Senate seats were up for re-election. On the basis of mid-morning returns, Republicans had won or were ahead in enough states to seat 48. This would leave Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, Republican until he switched to Stevenson and became Independent, to cast the decisive vote.

He refused to indicate how he will go.

STEVENSON OUT
 Stevenson was able to hold together only remnants of the once-solid south, plus possibly Kentucky and Missouri in the border states. His running mate, Senator John Sparkman, helped salvage his home state of Alabama, but not much else.

The Democratic campaign of "talking sense to the American people" had fizzled.

The Illinois governor, who reluctantly accepted the Democratic nomination, lost even in his own state.

With all the big states—New York, Michigan, California, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas and New Jersey—safely in the Republican column, Eisenhower had whopping total of the electoral vote.

He needed only 266 to win but was heading for possible total of 442. Stevenson had only 89.

In Springfield, Ill., Stevenson philosophically conceded the victory to Eisenhower, called on Americans to "close the ranks" and pledged his support to the winner.

IKE CHEERED
 Eisenhower, wildly cheered

STEVENSON
 ... loses in own state

when he appeared in a New York hotel ballroom, matched his opponent's unity plea, said it was a "day of dedication rather than triumph," and pledged that he never will give "short weight" to his responsibilities in Washington.

The General already had passed the record popular vote for a Republican—22,305,198 rolled up by Wendell L. Wilkie in 1940—and 27,751,597 amassed by Roosevelt in 1936.

However, Ike getting about 57 per cent of the popular vote, it is expected to be far in excess of 49,829,312 record cast in 1940.

WINS STATES
 In his sweep, Eisenhower carried two states the Republicans haven't been able to capture since 1924, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. He won or was out in front in 14 states where Republicans haven't had a presidential victory since 1928—Arizona, California, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia and Washington.

His landslide wasn't quite as widespread as that registered by Hoover over Al Smith, since Eisenhower couldn't break into West Virginia, Kentucky and North Carolina as the former president did in 1928.

In some respects, Eisenhower's was more of a personal than a party victory. Although he helped elect Republican administrations in many states, there was tough sledding for Republicans in the Senate and house battles and races for governors.

New Terrace Bank Branch Opens Nov. 10

Special to The Daily News
TERRACE—An important event for business here is scheduled to take place Nov. 10 when the Bank of Nova Scotia opens its large new office on Lakelse Ave.

Bright, modern and spacious, the new office replaces the small temporary building on Lakelse Ave. which has carried on the business of the bank since Aug. 1, 1951, when in a surprise move a branch was opened here.

Construction of the new headquarters was necessitated by the rapid growth of the branch's business, it is explained.

The branch will continue under the management of R. C. Sandover-Sly who opened the temporary office, and will operate with a considerably increased staff.
