"FIGHTING BUCKAROO" BATTLING RACE FOR GIRL AND GOLD MINE

Buck Jones in "The Fighting Buckaroo," will appear at the Westholme Theatre tonight. He takes full advantage of the wide possibilities in this vivid picture.

From the minute the buckaroo leaves the steamer gangplank on his return to the United States until he arrives at his Arizona ranch he is racing or fighting for a girl and a gold mine.

Sally Long has the role of Betty Gregory the society girl who owns the ranch where the mine has been located. Frank Butler has the part of Percy Wellington, an English friend of the buckaroo.

The trail from the steamer dock to the ranch leads through a fashionable hotel where the Englishman's efforts to introduce the buckaroo to the girl results in a fight with Glenmore Bradshaw and thugs whom he has hired to block the Arizonian's return to the ranch.

The Buckaroo eludes the police and after other escapades, en route, he saves the girl's jewels from the thugs and on a hand car they dash in the office of an Arizona attorney just in time to save the ranch and the mine.

"DEVIL'S CIRCUS" IS SIMPLE STORY

Film Has Drama and Melo-drama, Comedy and aPthos, All Skilfully Blended

"The Devil's Circus," comes to the Westholme Theatre Tuesday night and was accorded the acclaim of a signal success. Norma Shearer has the leading feminine role. A simple story simply told. The play has drama and melodrama, comedy and pathos.

The story concerns the life and romance of Mary, an orphan girl, played by Miss Shearer, who loves and is loved by the cook, Carlstop, played by Mack. Their romance is blighted when Carlstop is sent to prison for a crime and Mary joins a circus.

She becomes a conquest of Lieberkind, the villainous lion-trainer, played by John Miljan and incurs the jealous rage of his inamorata, Yonna, played by Carmel Myers, who deliberately cripples her by tampering with the trapeze on which she performs.

The representation of the European circus is colorful and interesting, particularly the beauty ballet of 100 girls said to be the pick of Hollywood's beauties, who portray a harem scene.

Released from prison, after a long stretch, Jensen finds Mary and, at the height of their happiness, learns of her affair with Lieberkind.

A spiritual theme is developed for the ending.

"STRONG MAN" HAS WELL BUILT PLOT

Harry Langdon has Many Predicaments in Laugh Riot Coming Wednesday

If you were looking for a girl, whom you knew only through letters and a worn photograph, how would you find her, especially if she had moved from her last address, and you couldn't even speak English?

Those are only a few of the predicaments which face Harry Langdon as the Belgian immigrant in "The Strong Man," his laugh riot, which comes to the Westholme Theatre Wednesday night.

The stranger got himself into many scrapes because of his inquiries for the girl, although his final discovery of her was worth all the trouble.

Langdon's search for the girl gives rise to the various backgrounds of the story, which include New York, a northern border town, and many intermittent localities.

Naturally Harry's face has a searching look, a wistful inquiry; and in this role he is hilariously pathetic.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY CONCERT THIS WEEK

New Feature to be Introduced at Annual Entertainment Under Auspices of Catholic Church

Something new in the way of a sketch is to be introduced at the annual St. Patrick's Day concert which will be held on Thursday night, the seventeenth of Ireland, in the Westholme Theatre. These concerts for many years have proven most popular events and this year's entertainment promises to equal and probably excel anything of the past.

The sketch will take up the second half of the evening's program. A pretty Irish coleen will be woven into the story which depicts the rehearsal at a young ladies academy for a concert coming on in the evening. By this means, opportunity will also be given for the introduction of a number of individual numbers including vocal solos by Mrs. Muldoon and Miss Charlebois, violin solo by Will Balagno and a dance by Miss Virginia Riel and Miss Lorna MacLaren.

The first part of the entertainment will be along the usual concert lines with Charles Balagno in charge of the arrangements.

THOMAS MEIGHEN IN "TIN GODS" COMING

Story of a Man Who Hit Bottom—and Fought Back

Dr. McCoy and the Padre watch Roger Drake enter a little church at Del Rio. It is built on a cliff projecting below a towering bridge. The priest asks about the man, and McCoy recounts his life.

A rising young engineer, Drake marries Janet Stone, ambitious daughter of a wealthy man. In the palatial home given them, Roger neglects his career. A baby boy is born.

Janet becomes a candidate for the State Assembly. Their home is a political stamping ground. Drake comes to blows with one of the habitues and Janet scathingly denounces his conduct.

One day, the child disturbs a meeting. Janet's secretary locks him in his nursery. The boy falls from an open window to his death and the couple decide to follow their own separate paths.

Drake secretly takes to drink and goes to construct a bridge at Del Rio, South America. Taciturn and disagreeable, Roger is the only man unaffected by the bandishments of Carita, a dancing girl. When stricken with black fever, it is she who cares for him.

Tony Santelli, the cafe proprietor, shows Carita a newspaper which gives an account of Janet's campaign. On being defeated, the latter decides to visit Drake and effect a reconciliation. Carita, thinking he still loves his wife, leaps from the bridge.

Roger returns each year to a chapel he has erected in memory of the one beautiful epistle of his life.

SEAL COVE FOOTPATH.

Editor Daily News.

I should like to say what an easy-going people there are around Seal Cove who put up with such a miserable apology for a footpath as that recently laid between Seventh and Eighth Avenues East. Surely some other way could have been found and one or two hundred dollars more or less spent on a good permanent walk such as would have been put in anywhere around Fourth or Fifth Avenues. It is a pity that some of our city businessmen do not have to use it every morning and evening. It would have been done altogether differently if they had to, let me assure you. We are entitled to have some money spent on improvements on this side of the creek.
