Both Indexes Show Living Cost Down

OTTAWA—Living costs reflected by the new consumer price index declined by one-tenth of a point during September to 116 from 116.1, the Statistics Bureau reported today.

The peak of the index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, was 118.2 last December.

The old index basis on 1935-39 prices, equalling 100, measured Septembers drop as 1.5 points, with the index declining to 185.0 from 186.5.

The old index now is actually obsolete, but the bureau decided to publish both, the old and new, simultaneously, for the next six months.

Strange Bird Poses Problem For City Woman; Can You Help?

Mrs. John Bremner of 323 Fifth Avenue East wonders if anyone can help her identify a strange-looking bird she saw from her front-room window yesterday.

The bird, a little larger than a robin but resembling one, was feeding on the berries of an ash tree in front of her house.

The color markings were: dark grey body, a deep red head and a blue ring around its neck. The beak resembled that of a robin's.

"I am very interested in birds and looked for identification of this one in my bird book, but couldn't find the answer," said Mrs. Bremner.

If any bird watchers, or ornithologists can help Mrs. Bremner, she will be delighted.

Threatened World Looks to Young Canadians for Peace, Freedom, Says Jaycee Speaker

The world is being threatened in the corner of the world today, said Mr. Aldous, Prince Rupert-born head of B.C. Jaycees, in his first address of an official tour across the province.

"But the world looks with a little suspicion on the United States, and looks to Canada for peace."

"There is no doubt we are losing our freedoms in every corner of the world, and to retain them, we need leadership among our young men."

"The Junior Chamber is the only organization which undertakes this serious charge."

Mr. Aldous stressed the importance of work done by the international body of Jaycees, organized to spread the movement of freedom and training young men for leadership all over the world.

He pointed to the president of JCI, Phil Pugsley, a Canadian, whose continuous travels take him to every country in the world outside the Iron Curtain to promote the work of J.C.

Mr. Aldous illustrated how Jaycees were responsible for the rehabilitation of war-torn capital of the Philippines, Manila, and the Islands generally.

A small group of young men there, pushed by a desire to recreate their small country, organized a Jaycee unit of 60 men. They promoted aid from where they could get it. They cleared many blocks of debris and began rebuilding Manila.

The Philippines were on the verge of turning en masse to Communism after the Second World War but the small Jaycee unit has grown to 6,000 members today who have all but stamped out the Red menace.

That story, said Mr. Aldous, "is a first hand report from the scene by Pugsley, J.C.I. president."

"That should illustrate in a small way how important is J.C. It isn't only a local club to which you and I belong, it covers the world, its responsibilities are of a world-wide magnitude."

Mr. Aldous praised the organizational work and completion of a project which will give letter carrier service to this city.

"That is one example to illustrate how necessary the Jaycees are. I warrant no other organization in your city would have undertaken to put up the street signs, necessary to give your community a very desirable service."

An alderman for the second year in North Vancouver, Mr. Aldous was the winner of the 1951 Jaycee oratorical contest in B.C., and was elected president of the B.C. region at the Trail convention last June.

He was born in this city but left at an early age.

He left early this morning by car to carry out an official tour of all Junior Chamber clubs in the province. There are 29.

If the order from her government comes through as expected in the next 24 hours, India will have a resolution to present to the political committee of the General Assembly, she added.

Operators Set Deadline For $6-Ton Herring Price

Fishermen Told to Start Nov. 16 Or Companies Withdraw Offer

By The Canadian Press

VANCOUVER—British Columbia herring fishermen Thursday were given until Nov. 16 to accept or reject the price offer from operators.

A spokesman for the Fisheries Association of B.C. said the operators have told United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union the offer will be withdrawn if fishing is not under way by that date.

"The Association pointed out that a late start in the operation reduced the oil yield in fish and adds to production costs," he said.

"At a meeting Thursday, operators advised the union's negotiating committee that unless fishermen and tendermen recognize that a reduction in price is essential, and unless companies are given room within the agreement to economize, there will be no herring operation this year."

The spokesman said operators proposed a price of $6 a ton compared to last season's $8.40. This would provide an average earning of $2,500 for the season to tendermen and fishermen, he said.

Strong Opposition to Liquor by Glass Voiced by Church Group

"There is no real need for wider avenues for liquor sales, nor is there any crying injustice in the lack of such avenues."

"Present conditions give ample freedom with a certain degree of protection, at least for the rising generation."

"No alteration in the present set of conditions can do other than to make liquor more expensive and more compulsive, without in reality making it more available."

The brief, one of several forwarded to E. W. C. Sharpe, secretary-solicitor of the commission at Vancouver, said "one of the most insidious things about the liquor plebiscite is that it keeps the thought of liquor before the mind of everybody" and goes on to state that the public "get more and more restless about an issue which becomes more of a social menace as it receives more attention and thought."

"... We submit that this June plebiscite was an unfortunate affair and improperly put to the people..."

"This group represents many churches that are teachers of total abstinence. Naturally, they are absolutely opposed to any loosening of the control over liquor sales."

"A serious study of the situation as it exists here reveals that Prince Rupert has a special problem in the large numbers of native people who use Prince Rupert for their shopping centre and general meeting place."

"Sales of liquor and wines by the glass in general eating places would create a serious problem of control in regard to the native people to whom liquor and wines are forbidden."

"There are private clubs licensed for the sale of liquor and wine by the glass in Prince Rupert and they are adequate for the demand that exists here."

"... At present in Prince Rupert there is not a solitary hotel serving meals. All meals are sold in restaurants and cafes. If it was the intention of the government to licence such places to sell liquor and wines by the glass, then it would also be necessary for the government to supply a policeman for each restaurant and cafe to ensure the elimination of minors."

"The problem would be worse than any present-day bootlegging. Juvenile delinquency is high now without adding to it."

The association said it is opposed to opening of further sales outlets and "deplores the present apparent inability of authorities to prevent sales of alcoholic beverages to minors and feel that any increase in sales outlets will further aggravate this situation."
