Perspiration odor so unpardonable
 Why risk it—when it's so easy to banish?

WE notice perspiration odor instantly in others, yet can not always tell when we offend.
 For even when we aren't conscious of perspiring, the pores constantly give off odor-causing moisture.
 Don't take needless chances—use Lifebuoy! Millions bathe with it daily, for it is so refreshing and gives lasting freedom from perspiration odor.
 For healthier complexions Lifebuoy's mild, antiseptic lather not only purifies body pores—it purifies face pores, too, keeping complexions clear, fresh and glowing with health.
 Better still, it helps safeguard family health by removing unseen disease germs that hands may carry home.
 Lifebuoy's clean, hygienic scent—which quickly evaporates after rinsing—tells you it gives greater safety. Yet Lifebuoy costs so little. It is orange-red, the color of its pure palm-fruit oils. Get it today.

LOSS SUSTAINED ON GRAND OPERA IN ENGLAND TODAY

LONDON, Aug. 1.—(Canadian Press).—The hope that 'Grand Opera' will ever be produced in London upon a paying basis seems a forlorn one, although it is likely that the loss upon the season at Covent Garden which has just finished will be smaller than usual. Last year's loss, moreover, was only half that of the year previously, and a hearer measure of public support has been extended this year.

"We are satisfied with the season's work," although the financial position will not be ascertained fully for some little time," declared a member of the London Opera Syndicate which now controls the season's performances at Covent Garden. "The two performances of the 'Ring' were particularly successful; we could have given a third and still filled the house."
 "The performances of the 20-odd English singers during the season have proved immensely popular, and we were glad to be able to include them."
 "The most popular operas? Well, that is rather difficult to decide. They have all been so ardently supported that comparisons are impossible. Perhaps 'Turandot' has created the greatest sensation."

AVERAGE VOCABULARY TEN THOUSAND WORDS
 Educated Man May Use Many at Fifty Thousand

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The "average man's" vocabulary is 10,000 words and that of the "educated man" 50,000 words, according to the learned doctors of the science. Trans-continental agreement on this was reached recently when Frank Horace Vizetelly, lexicographer, editor and author of New York, said he was in accord with H. W. Shryock, president of the Southern Illinois State Normal University, on the size of an educated man's vocabulary.

"But," said Mr. Vizetelly, "because a man doesn't command 50,000 words, he is certainly not, as Mr. Shryock said, 'intellectually poor.'"
 Mr. Shryock, addressing the convention of the National Educational Association in Seattle, said that a person was just that, if he did not recognize one out of nine words in a 450,000-word dictionary. But, said Mr. Vizetelly, there are any number of highly competent persons, in business and other special line, who have no greater command than the average 10,000 words, and if they were "intellectually poor" they would not have succeeded.

UNDERGROUND VAULTS BANK OF ENGLAND STRONGLY GUARDED

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Although workmen engaged on the new underground vaults of the Bank of England, where all Great Britain's gold reserve will rest, are guarded from prying eyes by armed policemen, some details have leaked out regarding what is said to be the world's hardest job of safe cracking.
 Underneath the present bank are concrete walls, fifty feet deep and seven feet eight inches thick. If somebody with felonious intentions were to tunnel through these he would come into a passage patrolled by guards and protected by every known alarm system around all four sides of the treasure.
 Once in this passage way the cracksmen would have to cut through double grills of steel. The next step approaching the swag of several hundreds of millions of dollars in gold would be to cut through doors of solid steel weighing 24 tons each. This would take oxy-acetylene drills, in the hands of experts at least three days. These doors can be swung with light pressure of one hand, if they are open. When they are locked it is different.

CHEERFUL THOUGHT

"How you bachelors get any enjoyment out of life is more than I can see," remarked Mrs. De Style.
 "That's easy," was the reply. "We just look at the expensive clothes you married women wear and then congratulate ourselves that we don't have to pay for them."—Blue Book

St. Catharines, Ontario, had the first electric railway in 1887. Ottawa followed in 1891 and Toronto and Montreal a year later.

FREE PORT PLAN IS TALKED ABOUT TO BE QUITE UNIQUE

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(Canadian Press) — The Journal of Commerce prints the following story from Buffalo, N.Y.—Plans to create a unique industrial free port, the first port in America, to be known as International City and to embrace 700 square miles of territory on both sides of the frontier, are being matured here.

Scores of committees, chambers of commerce, officials and business leaders have united in the project. Buffalo, as the metropolitan center of the area, is the nucleus, but the movement embraces even the agricultural back lands on both sides of the Niagara River.

Plans as announced contemplate the creation of a free port that would mean pushing back the customs lines to the boundaries of International City. The new city would not be a municipality, as such, but would be autonomous in all its component parts. The purpose, as announced at recent meetings is solely to effect an association of committees to the end of a huge industrial area organized to increase population, bring in new plants and enlarge the army of employed.
