CHURCH STARVES ITS CLERGYMEN

Details of a Curate's Living Allowance Brings Some Comment From Popular Bachelor Clergyman

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(By the Canadian Press).—The Bishop of London, in the Church Assembly, quoted what he described as "an East End Idyll" to support his assertion that the Church of England is starving its clergy.

"There was a curate in the East End who, as not infrequently, was courting his vicar's daughter. I called them Jacob and Rachel because for seven years this man waited for this girl. It was a very happy day for me when I could offer a living of £400 and a house to these patient people. I married them and baptized their first child.

"On Sunday I saw a baby trundled along. As bachelors can never resist looking at babies, I looked, and then saw that the mother was Rachel. She was looking five years older than when I married her two years ago. I had a talk, and then asked her to send me her balance sheet. This was her expenditure out of an income of £410 with a large house:

Rates	35	0	0
Water	4	0	0
Gas	30	0	0
Coal and Coke	10	0	0
Electricity	10	0	0
Income Tax	14	0	0
Maid	40	0	0
Cook	26	0	0
Nursemaid	26	0	0
Life insurance, repairs, etc.	8	0	0
Total	£224	0	0

"That leaves £186 to provide food for four people and a baby, and clothes and all necessaries of life for the family."

HAND LOOM WEAVING REVIVED IN SUSSEX

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Handloom craft is being revived in Winchelsea, Sussex, by the wife of Rigden Read, well-known artist. This is one of the oldest village industries in England. In Mrs. Read's studio is a hand loom exactly like those in use before the introduction of machinery, and on this she weaves from Sussex wool stout cloth which will stand far harder wear than factory-made material. She is one of the Romney Marsh weavers, who from their headquarters near Peasmarsh have done so much to teach the villagers the lost arts of spinning and weaving.

The wool comes from local flocks, and is spun in yarn by cottage firesides on old-fashioned spinnig wheels. It is then washed and dyed, both vegetable and modern synthetic dyes being used. The performance of the color is ensured by careful tests. The hand-loom on which the cloth is woven is constructed on the same principles as those discovered by primitive peoples in the dawn of history.

Mrs. Read has adopted the patterns invented by early settlers in Canada and the other Dominions. These have names such as "Honeysuckle," "Wind Flower," "Old Irish Quilt." Such was the quality of the work of the settlers that they made beautiful bed-spreads which were handed down as heirlooms from generation to generation.

Silk is also woven by Mrs. Read into scarves, jumpers, evening wraps, and dresses. The pure silk is spun by machine, and some is bought ready dyed, but special shades Mrs. Read dyes herself. The articles are in great demand and command high prices.

A particularly attractive basketball program is promised for tonight. The outstanding game will in all probability be that between the Elks and Native Sons of Canada in the Senior League. The Lodgemen, who are runnersup in the league, will make a final stand against the Canucks who have been cleaning them up so regular of late that they are firm in first place and will be almost hopelessly firmer if they win again tonight. NEWSPAPERMEN HONORED IN NAMING OF STREETS

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(By the Canadian Press).—The town of St. Helens, Lancashire, notable for the production of pills and of chemicals which are utilised in much more wholesome fashion, has been busy "christening" new streets upon different housing estates.

The patronymics of prominent politicians, local and otherwise, were drawn upon. The Committee then bethought themselves of the newspapermen of the town who had for years reported the doings of the Town Council and its committees. Three roads were accordingly christened Inman Avenue, Reynolds Avenue and Mather Avenue.

The town clerk, W. H. Andrew, coyly accepted a compromise by agreeing to one road being named St. Andrews Ave. Dr. Hauwell, the medical officer, blushingly accepted Hauwell Avenue.
