VOODOO CHARM BEING SOLD

Negro Indicted for Advertising Through Mails "Bring 'em Back Powder"

ST. LOUIS, July 7.—"Doctor" Samuel Kejoe Pearce, a negro, who, post office inspectors declared, had victimized hundreds of negroes in many states by selling them "voodoo" charms by mail, was indicted by a federal grand jury here last night on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Under the name of the West African Remedy Company, the Pearce Health Institute, the Oriental Institute of Science and the Africa-American Institute of Science, Pearce was said to have done a thriving business from his home here.

His stock in trade consisted of a "Tie 'em down powder guaranteed to keep your husband at home except in aggravated cases." The powder sold for $25 in lots of twenty-five. A "Bring 'em back powder, to be used in serious cases," was advertised at $50 for 25 powders.

Post office inspectors said Pearce admitted that he collected from $8 to $500 from each of his many customers throughout the country.

GUSHER IS STRUCK CALGARY OIL FIELD

CALGARY, July 7.—Oil circles here are seething with excitement following the announcement that Dalhousie No. 5 well located in the south end of Turner Valley and about a mile and a half north of the Home Well, came in with a flow of crude oil over the week-end at a depth of 4325 feet.

Rising rapidly in the 10-inch casing the oil gave every indication of a rich strike. Later the oil gushed up with terrific force into the derrick, splattering oil for many yards around the site.

UNIQUE PLAN SETTLEMENT

St. Paul Man Reclaims Land in Manitoba and Starts up Dairy Farmers

WINNIPEG, June 6. — (Canadian Press).—An American, W. P. Davidson, of St. Paul, Minnesota, has begun the operation of a unique agricultural project in Manitoba, which is being studied by those interested in colonization in Western Canada.

Several years ago Mr. Davidson, who has carried through large colonization projects in the Western States, bought 100,000 acres of swamp and marshy land near Marchand, 47 miles from Winnipeg. He at once began to reclaim the land by proper drainage and bring it into a state of good fertility, suitable for dairy farming and not for grain growing. This work was done at a cost of several thousands of dollars. The 100,000 acre tract, after being reclaimed, has been divided into 160-acre farms, each farm being sold on what is described as an "equitable co-partnership between capital and workers." Fifteen American and Canadian families have so far taken farms under the "Davidson plan," as it is popularly termed.

COMPLETELY EQUIPPED

Each farm is completely equipped with silo, barns, and a well-built house, 20 acres of land are broken before the settler takes possession. Each purchaser of a farm is allowed to choose from 10 to 20 Holstein cows from a herd of 1,000 head kept by Davidson, the largest herd of pure-bred Holsteins in Canada. A small payment on the land entitles the purchaser to secure the cows, for which he pays out of the receipts for his cream. No further payments on the land and buildings are required, after the first, for three years. The balance is then paid in 20 annual payments at a low rate of interest.

Good roads have been built through the settlement, a modern school house has been erected, and a teacher engaged. There is a ready market for all the dairy and other farm products the "Davidson" settlers can produce.

Only settlers with some experience in dairy farming with some capital and having the characteristics of integrity and industry are accepted on the Davidson Settlement.

CHASES GRIZZLY 150 YARDS ON STRAIGHTAWAY ROAD

NELSON, B.C., July 7.—Revealing that a young grizzly can run at a speed of 36 miles an hour for a considerable distance, two trucks driven by W. E. Watson and Harold Curran, pursued a three-year-old bear along a straight stretch of road for 150 yards. With the animal a couple of yards ahead of Watson's truck, the speedometer registered 30 miles an hour over the entire stretch.

The two men came upon the grizzly near a strawberry ranch, three miles this side of Lemon creek bridge. When they sighted the bear both drivers speeded up, sounding their horns, and the scared young animal showing an unbelievable burst of speed.

The chase ended at a curve when the cars slowed down, the bear going on a beeline that brought him into the timber on the left side of the road. Considering himself safely out of danger when the cars stopped, the bear turned around at the edge of the timber, growling with rage, although evidently unable to shake off fear of his late pursuers. He then slipped away into the timber with many a backward look and growl.

SPECIAL CONSTABLES TAKE EXCEPTION TO TRAFFIC REGULATION

LONDON, June 6.—(Canadian Press).—In most parts of the country there are corps of special constables, which are more or less a legacy from the General Strike, and are kept in being in order to cope with any emergency. The special constabulary of the Dorking and Leatherhead area of Surrey, however, are being called upon to cope with an emergency for which they never bargained when they undertook this form of service. The regular Surrey police are calling upon the specials to assist them in the control of the Sunday traffic, for the homeward-bound procession of motorists has become altogether too much for the professional policeman to manage without assistance.

Half the specials of Leatherhead declare that rather than undertake this duty they will resign forthwith. Many of them are tradesmen, who find Sunday is the only day upon which they can obtain rest and recreation.

SAN FRANCISCO MEN LOOK OVER SITE OF PROPOSED PAPER MILL

JUNEAU, July 7.—Enthusiastic over the favorable situation at Juneau for the manufacture of pulp and paper and confident that the project with which he is associated for the establishment of mills in this city would be pushed rapidly, George T. Cameron, publisher of the San Francisco Examiner, sailed on the Alaska for the south, accompanied by Mrs. Cameron, Col. and Mrs. D. C. Jackling, Jake Baum, business manager of the Los Angeles Times, and Frank Pfaffinger, treasurer of the Times.

"Conditions here are even more favorable for the pulp and paper industry which we hope to establish, than I had anticipated," said Mr. Cameron.
