Many New Features 1. 3 Year at Fair Which is to Open This Evening

Prince Rupert's fifteenth annual exhibition, under the auspices f the Northern British Columbia Agricultural & Industrial Assojation, will be opened at 8 o'clock tonight by J. C. Brady, M.P. for skeena and honorary vice-president of the association. There has been intense activity at the Fair Building for the past few days and, in the Brooklyn-Philadelphia game. y the time scheduled for the opening tonight, everything will be n readiness for the curtain to go up and an exhibition that bids fair to eighteen innings and beat them 12 o equal, if not surpass, any previous event of such a kind in the sistory of the city. Officers of the Association and exhibitors were *busy in the building until an early hour this morning, making final preparations ing to darkness. TELKWA HAS A for the big show.

It has been the purpose of the Fair Board this year to bring the Exhibition. as far as the interior of the Agricultural Hall is concerned, back to its original purpose as a display of the natural wealth, produce, crafts and arts of the Horse Races and Bucking Conpeople of Prince Rupert and district and, to that end, it has succeeded admirably as visitors to the Fair and its various departments will find after the opening tonight.

The support of the interior agricultural districts has been obtained once again Parade of Cowboys and Cowgirls and evidence of this will be found in fine district exhibits, one representing the Prince George country and another huge one to display the produce of the whole Skeena and Bulkley Valleys.

CHARLOTTE ON

Seen by Local Men Yesterday Afternoon Passing Hodgson Reef

J. A. Lindsay and party, returning last night from a fishing trip to Bill's Lake in the Warke Canal region, saw the steamer Princess Charlotte, which was wrecked near Wrangell, pass Hodgson Reef in tow of the tug Salvage King about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Pumps on the distressed vessel were apparently working for there was quite a fog of steam.

Officers of the steamer Princess Alice, arriving from the south this morning, reported having passed the Charlotte and tug down the coast at 5 a.m. They were judged to be making about seven knots an hour.

The salvage claim of $250,000 against the Charlotte, which had resulted in her seizure, was apparently settled before she left Wrangell. It was stated by arrivals from there on the Princess Louise on Saturday that the salvors were prepared to release the vessel on a bond being put up.
