

Guard Them - Those things that money can't buy

"It is an unpardonable crime" writes Mrs. Ethel Baillie, of Montreal, "to use any other suds than Lux, for the exquisite hand-made woolies, belonging to the 'Teenie Weenies,' the soft, dainty shirts, panties, jackets, booties, etc.

"They represent, besides the expense, many hours of skilful, patient work, done by the loving hands of adoring Grannies, Mothers and Aunts. To risk spoiling these lovely, delicate little garments, by using anything but Lux would be an unpardonable crime, for they cannot be replaced. Money cannot buy what love gives."

There is a lot of good common sense in this letter.

Mrs. Baillie is but one of the millions who has found by experience that when it comes to doing difficult as well as simple work — there is no substitute for Lux.

Sold only in the familiar LUX blue package.
