COUNCIL TALKS

NUMEROUS SITES MENTIONED IN DEBATE ON SUBJECT LAST NIGHT

The construction of a swimming tank and gymnasium was discussed by the city council last night when Alderman referred to the work of the committee which had considered the and decided that the property on Second Avenue between the post office and the store occupied by Thor Johnson was the best suited for the undertaking. Alderman Tinker said that these lots were favorable for the proposition and it had been decided to ask the city council to ask the provincial government to convey these either to the city or give a long term lease so that the city could then turn them over for the construction of the building. A canvass of the city would be undertaken in an effort to raise sufficient money to construct the building and possibly the city would consider the granting of tax exemption as well as free light and water. It was felt by the committee that this was a very important undertaking and pos- JOE SEIBERT WAS ONE OF MOST INsibly an instructor could be engaged who would have classes for the children as well as classes for older ones. Various sites had been considered by the committee who had decided that, in order to be attractive, the building must be central.

Mayor Newton asked if the committee had considered the sites adjacent to the acropolis hill where the overflow of the water from the reservoir might be used for the swimming tank. Ald erman Tinker said that the main drawback, in the opinion of the committee to such a site, was that it was far removed from the centre of population and it was felt that people would not go there. Athletic equipment had been placed in the building at Acropolis Hill but was not used as it was too far from the centre of the city.

ALD. STEPHENS

Alderman Stephens considered that anyone who wanted to swim would to the swimming tank. He was no of tax exemption on such property. He opposed the proposed site as, being in the business district, it would materially affect values af adjacent property. While in sympathy with the idea yet he was opposed to that particular site.

The plans called for a swimming pool on the first floor and an athletic room on the second floor according to Alderman Jos. Greer, who considered the thing would not be very popular people had to climb Acropolis Hill.

Mayor Newton then suggested that area immediately back of the fire hall which was being cleared and would be handy to the centre of the city. Sixth Avenue and McBride Street was mentioned by Alderman Brown as a central location and the city already had the property. Alderman W. J. Greer inquired as to whether the city engineer had made a report on the site and asked as to how it was planned to take care of the overflow.

After further discussion it was move Alderman Brown and carried that the various sites be considered by the city engineer and that he be asked to report to the board of works on the sub-

TERESTING CHARACTERS IN FAR NORTH

FORT SMITH, N.W.T., Feb. 22 .- One of the first white men to stake a claim in the famous Fort Norman oil rush of 1921, Joe Seibert, dropped dead here recently. With the passing of Mr. Seibert, the Far North lost one of its most interesting characters.

Always in the van of civilization, Seibert opened the first restaurant in Fort Smith, catering to the flood of prospectors and others who he knew would lungs, soothing and healing with every pass through the "Gateway to the breath. Mackenzie" in ever-growing numbers.

In the middle of the winter, the dog teams raced to be the first on the scene. Wada, the Jap prospector, made his spectacular run, filing claims for ter. himself and for many Edmonton and Vancouver speculators. Joe Siebert was among the first of the white men to stake his claim.

The fever increased in intensity and Seibert grasped the opportunity to sell out his claim for $5,000 in cash.

He was one of the few that came out with a profit from the oil fields. With Seibert money was of little interest, except as it brought him comfort and pleasure. Inside of three months, the money was all gone and the old pros-LITTLE FRIENDS occupation of catering.

The Moose will meet St. Andrew's in he billiard fixture tonight. The race s close and many of the players are getting in a few extra practices the few remaining games. The Terminals seemed to have a cinch on first place but have been slipping rapidly lately and there will be only two more fixtures in which they appear. The other four teams are bunched close together with only a small margin between each and it is just possible that any one of them may move into first place before the series is over.

The meeting of the basketball executive last night resulted in a new schedule which will be in effect for the remainder of the season. Reference was made to the- recent visit of an intermediate team to Port Simpson and the very sportmanlike way in which the locals had been treated by their opponents and friends in the Indian village. Nothing definite has been decided as to the series of games for the !adies' championship of N.B.C. although | Cold Storage Smithers has already decided to enter C.N. Operating a team.
