TURKISH WIVES CHEAP LABOR

Few Homes Have More Than One Mate for the Man

ANGORA, Aug. 11.—The once polygamous Turkish peasant is going to lose money by having fewer wives under Kemal Pasha's modernized standard of marriage and morals. The adage that "two can live more cheaply than one," is perhaps true only in the land of the Turks.

Peasant wives, even the men agree, do more work than the men. They do the housework, and the farm work and anything else. They get the small cup of strong, black, sugary coffee for their lord by the time he gets up shortly before sunrise, they out-labor him in the fields, serve him at dinner and altogether put in more and harder hours each day than he does.

Wives, in a word, are cheap labor for the Turkish peasant. Those who have a good supply may keep them under the new laws but the code says there may be no more polygamous marriages.

Each of these wives, even in peasant poverty, is supposed to have her own home, at least a corner of the house to herself. Long custom, religious influence and the approval of all wives for the addition of a new one, generally eliminated jealousy from the home.

One reason for taking a new wife by either rich or poor was the desire for children, particularly sons. If the first wife or wives did not meet this requirement it was customary for them to make room for someone else.

Plural marriages, however, have been by no means general, contrary to ancient belief abroad. The well-stocked harem was something known to few. Few city dwellers who had to earn their livings had more than one wife.

Miss Ruth McDonald of Vancouver, who has been visiting for the past three weeks with friends at Port Clements, is a passenger on the Prince Charles today returning to her home in the south.

MUCH TUBERCULOSIS AND MALARIA NOW IN RUSSIA; OTHERS LESS

Four Million Cases of Malaria Estimated in Soviet Republic Today

LENINGRAD, Aug. 11.—Malaria, tuberculosis and trachoma are ravishing Soviet Russia, it is stated by Dr. W. Horsley Gantt, a young physician from the United States, who has just completed an exhaustive two-volume work on health and sanitary conditions in Russia.

Dr. Gantt says there are more than 4,000,000 cases of malaria at present within the Soviet Union, which is four times the number before the war. The number of persons affected with tuberculosis runs into the millions, and the disease is steadily increasing. More than half a million Russians are suffering from trachoma, Dr. Gantt finds.

On the other hand, certain other diseases which were very prevalent before the revolution, now show a distinct decrease, says the doctor, due to superior methods of prevention and hygiene. These include smallpox, typhus, cholera and influenza. Infant mortality has decreased to a point where there are only 177 deaths in every thousand births.

WEIGHS 308 POUNDS GOES INTO FILMS

TOKYO, Aug. 11.—Fame and fortune are sought by Miss Kotake Horiye who is 28 years old and tips the scales at a "paltry 306 pounds." She expects to make Japanese film fans "laugh their heads off." She claims to be the largest woman in Japan.

Miss Horiye formerly was a geisha girl but she became so fat she could not get through the doors of the tea houses. Then a movie director saw her and the geisha ranks lost their heavyweight champion. Now she has signed a contract to star in a comedy feature to be produced by the Schochiku Kinema Company.

PYJAMAS GIVE PLACE ABBREVIATED NIGHTIES

PARIS, Aug. 11.—Now that everybody has pyjamas, the arbiters of fashion have turned thumbs down on the two-piece garment of the night and have declared for nighties.

Nighties when worn formerly grew longer as skirts grew shorter. But with the return of the nightie decreed by the Parisian autocrats of clothes, the demand is for more abbreviated affairs. They are still elaborate with lace and have inserts and appliques of stunning materials.

YOUNG GRANDMOTHER ONLY 29 YEARS OLD

MIDDLETOWN, N.J., Aug. 11.—Only 29 years of age, Mrs. James Dirickson, negress, claims to be the youngest grandmother in the United States. Six generations in the female line of her family are living.

She was married when 14 years of age. A year later she gave birth to a daughter, Eleanor. Last fall, when 14 years old, the daughter married Pontius Pilate Williams. The young couple now have a daughter, Anna Mae.

POPULAR WEDNESDAY DANCE LAST NIGHT

Last evening there was another of the popular Wednesday evening dances at the Auditorium which was well attended, the good music, good floor and nice crowd of dancers being largely accountable for the increasing popularity of these events. The auditorium is one of the coolest buildings in town.

The next dance will take place on Wednesday of next week.

LIBELLOUS.

There came a peremptory knock on the door, and into the editor's private sanctum walked a very angry man.

"You are the editor of The Warbler?" he snapped.

"Yes."

"My name is Morgan T. David. Yesterday your paper printed an article about me. You called me a thief, a robber, a blackleg, and a lot of other things!"

"We did," said the editor.

"Well, sir, I'm here to tell you, by thunder, my middle initial is T. and not H. If you can't spell my name correctly, have the goodness to leave it alone."—Pearson's.

SPOILT THE SHOW!

In the little theatre an opera was being produced. In certain passages a trumpet should have been blown offstage for effect.

Judge the conductor's consternation when, as the climax came, there was no sound of the trumpet. Very much annoyed, he went on with the music. The second climax was reached, but still the trumpet was silent.

When the overture had finished the conductor rushed to the wings. There he found the trumpeter still arguing with a theatre fireman.

"I tell you, you can't play that thing here," asserted the latter in loud and angry tones. "There's a concert going on!"—Answers.

Eric Hammer, pleading guilty in city police court this morning to a charge of assaulting Mah Lee, a Chinese restaurant employee, was fined $20 and $2.50 costs with the option of fourteen days' imprisonment, by Magistrate McClymont.

Abraham Point, a Matsqui Indian, pleaded guilty in city police court this morning to a charge of drunkenness and was fined $10 and costs, with the option of fourteen days' imprisonment, by Magistrate McClymont.
