These past few gloomy rainy days that have put the sport's fixtures out of business may be a little disappointing to players and fans but we mu impossible for us to have good weather all the time and most everybody would prefer having beaming blue skies over us around Dominion Day than just now if he had to make the choice. So let Old Man Jupe Pluvius do his stuff now and he'll perhaps be feeling a little better about things for the big tin two weeks hence.

All the same, the bootballers would like to get going tonight. Both Regiment and Moose are said to be all het up in anticipation of the second and perhaps, crucial game of the Dominion Day cup soccer series. If the Regiment wins tonight, the soldiers will go to the finals without any more argument but, if they don't everything will be up in the air and it will be any body's chance yet. The Moose are undoubtedly out to retain the honors they have already captured against the military threat. It should be a great game particularly if the quality of play is anything like that turned in when the Grand Terminals and Regiment battled Tuesday in the opener.
