BRUCE OPENS SERIOUS QUESTION.

The one outstanding feature of the public utterances in Can- printing press in Canada also appeared ada of Premier Bruce of Australia was his persistent exhortation, voiced wherever he spoke, that this Dominion should assume its responsibilities in the matter of its own if not Imperial defence. The paper to Montreal in an endeavor to en-Australian Premier indicated by his words that he was a staunch Imperialist and it may be judged from his general tone that he holds little hope for the future peace of the world. In fact, he and paper went into the water. The seemed to forsee danger and uprising in many directions. If his predictions are accepted it will naturally follow that his advice as treal the paper was published on the to defence should be accepted. Canada will probably give serious thought to his advice and it is to be hoped that any action which may ensue will be founded on unanimous consideration of a serious question and not on divergent views formulated for political expediency or argument.

In contrast to Premier Bruce, it is to be noted that Premier Coates of New Zealand takes the stand that Canada's defence is none of his affair. There will be many Canadians who will appreciate his expression along these lines, at the same time thinking that was followed in 1831 by the great Can-Premier Bruce might have talked a little bit too loud to be polite. adian novel by William Kirby en- At a social held after the meeting O.

QUEBEC AND THE EMPIRE.

Perhaps there is something more than unselfish zeal for said the speaker," of a big school of Britain's welfare in the anxiety of French-Canadian Quebec for the Canadian writers who number more than preservation of the Empire tie as expressed in the legislature of that three hundred and is growing every day province by both the Premier and the Leader of the Opposition. It and playing a great part in developing looks a little as if Quebec wants to enjoy the protection of the Union Jack without being overly anxious to rise to its defence in time of stress. The French-Canadians enjoy pledged privileges under the dominion of Great Britain that they would probably lose if this country became a separate nation or annexed with the United States. The loyalty of the French-Canadians is not questioned but there may also be a selfish interest to fan their ardor.

Walter McRaye, Noted Lecturer, Deplores Lack of Appreciation for Literature of Canadians

Deploring the lack of appreciation for Canadian literature and the apathy of Canadian Clubs in not putting over propaganda in this regard, not only because it was Canadian but because it was also worth while, Walter McRaye, well known Canadian lecturer and entertainer, concluded a fine address and program of entertainment last evening in the auditorium of the Booth Memorial School. The auditorium was well filled to greet Mr. McRaye under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher organization on his second public appearance in Prince Rupert. The program included the reading of selections from such well known Canadian authors *as Henry Drummond, Pauline Johnson, where Mrs. Strang's mother is located. Robert W. Service, Charles G. D. Roberts, Arthur Stringer, Marjorie Pickthall and Wilson McDonald, the recitations being interspersed with personal recollections from thirty years on the Canadian stage. Mr. McRaye, as the first reader of Drummond's works, was particularly RVINE IS NEW French Canadian life and mannerisms and pictured the various moods and temperaments of "the habitant" in a very delightful way.
