NEED OF MAIL SERVICE

Every day there are more evidences of the need of a better mail service. Mail comes here from the East on Fridays and not another letter can get through until the following Monday afternoon. Trains come every day during that time. They carry express but the postmaster-general does not allow letters to be carried on the train except through the post office department. He will not allow the express companies to carry letters and he will not carry them himself. He is the dog in the manger.

Of course the postmaster-general knows nothing about this. It is purely a departmental matter and has not been brought to his attention. Hon. P. J. Veniot would not allow such a condition to occur down in New Brunswick, we may be sure, but this is away out West and the people here stand for anything.

As we were saying, Mr. Veniot does not know about this personally. What we need to do is to make him know about it and impress it so hard that we shall get the needed reform. During the months when there is a daily train service, sacks of mail could be given in charge of the baggage car at Edmonton containing all letters from that city and eastward. Then other sacks could be thrown on at principal points and on the return, sacks could be put off at the same points. That would not be an ideal service but it would be much better than we are getting today. It would be the beginning of a better state of things and would for the present satisfy the people here.

All we need now is lots of business and we shall be the most important city in northwestern British Columbia.

The only thing the matter with religion is that so many people don't practice it.

CONSUL WAKEFIELD GOING

Consul Wakefield has been here so long that he is now looked upon as a Prince Rupert institution. He has always been greatly in demand at public gatherings and has given of his time and talents ungrudgingly to all and sundry. There is scarcely an organization, religious, fraternal or of any other kind that has not benefitted from the consul's presence.

Socially, Mrs. Wakefield has taken her part in the life of the city and has added to the prestige of her country.

Now Mr. and Mrs. Wakefield are going to serve their country in Mexico and are giving place to others. Many will regret their departure but will realize that the career of a consul depends upon change and it is to be hoped that the change in this case will be for the better.

You can't always tell a great man by the way he tips the darky porter.

Some Prince Rupert people ask about as many fool questions as a tourist.

LOYALTY TO ONE'S TOWN

An interesting case of loyalty to the town in which one lives is shown in a story told of one of the residents of Terrace. He was met when on his way east a few days ago when he got off the train to stretch his legs at Prince George. The sun was shining there and everything looked green and fresh and beautiful. A fellow passenger remarked: "This is beautiful sunshine!" The answer came back quickly: "Yes, but it's nothing like as good as the Terrace sunshine."

Now that the celebration is over and we are getting back to normal, it might be a good thing to saw wood once more.

Now that the colored gentleman from Egypt has been properly entertained by Royalty in England, it is possible the Egyptians may once more turn to the good old-fashioned practice of growing corn and stowing it in barns.

Some people who pride themselves on being candid might well be kicked for their ill manners.

Make this Test

To Find out if you need Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.—A study of these symptoms will enable you to decide.

This blood and nerve restorative was devised for use in two great classes of diseases, one of which usually develops from the other—Anemia or bloodlessness, and Nervous Exhaustion. If the blood is thin and watery, as is indicated by pallor of the lips, eyelids and gums, or if you are afflicted by some form of nervous trouble, you will find in DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD the most certain means of relief and restoration. Some of the symptoms and ailments which come under this heading are:

nervous prostration, nervous headache, indigestion, sleeplessness, irritability, nervousness, twitching of nerves and muscles, sensitiveness to sound and light, gloomy forebodings, loss of memory, inability to concentrate the mind.

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD is easily the greatest of restoratives. By forming new red corpuscles in the blood this food treatment nourishes the starved and depleted nerves back to health and vigor. Try it when you are run down and out of sorts. It will restore vigor and energy and make you feel that life is worth living.

LAST IS HEARD OF GAUTHIER

Vancouver Paper Dilates on Findings in Report of Commissioner

NONE ARE BLAMELESS

Credit Given Attorney General Manson For Acting Promptly in Matter

(Vancouver Star)
It requires a careful perusal to grasp, to the extent deserved, the penetration disclosed in the report of the Hon. Mr. Justice Morrison on the Gauthier case, the sanity of his exposition of the state of affairs that made possible the attacks brought in the House, and the clarity of the language in which he analyses the evidence and draws his conclusions. Obviously, it required some courage to write a document that leaves few concerned in the matters investigated quite unscathed, but, in view of the high judicial position occupied for many years by the commissioner, the public has taken it for granted from the first that, no matter to what conclusions he found himself obliged to come, he would not hesitate to state them fully and explicitly.

The report is the last of a series. In brief, it had been repeatedly charged in the House last session, both as a general allegation and as having occurred in particular instances, that there were improper relations between the Government, Liquor Department and persons concerned in raising campaign funds for the Liberal party. So long as nothing specific was alleged, the government exhibited some reluctance to order an investigation, a course that, while it appeared to give point to the accusations, has been shown to have been unnecessarily defensive. In the sequel, commission after commission sat, and in every case the verdict was a complete acquittal of the ministers of the crown—usually followed by hasty assertions on the part of those who had taken on themselves the role of the prosecution that they had never intended to disparage in any way the members of the government.

ROOT OF MATTER

Mr. Justice Morrison's findings in the Gauthier case will appeal to the common sense of the great mass of unprejudiced people. His criticism of those who have associated with undesirable characters goes to the root of the matter and will make many pause and think who have been inclined to view with levity party associations of a dubious character. That several men prominent in public life have believed that they could touch pitch without being defiled is now evident. Mr. Justice Morrison does not hold them guilty of corrupt motives, but he does believe, and says, that, considering the positions of public trust they hold, they have been indiscreet. He finds, and in the face of the evidence there was not the slightest ground for any other finding, that what they have done has not caused any loss to the public treasury.

They have, however, done what, in view of its far-reaching results, may be worse. They have enabled unscrupulous men to shake public confidence in governmental institutions. It is not in their power to make full amends for this. For many a long day, thanks to them, the leer and sneer will be evoked in certain quarters when reference is made to the probity of ministers and officials. But they may make their offense less by facing the issue frankly in their future relations with the public.

90 PER CENT IN CANADA

Ninety per cent of the St. Lawrence lies in Canada, he said, and the cost of the scheme would be between four and five hundred millions. Canada was invited to go into the project on equal terms with the United States, but she had no money to put into such a huge undertaking. She could only do so by borrowing from the United States. Ultimately, he said, the money would all come from the United States and the whole course of the St. Lawrence would be under American control.

"If today we have to sit quietly by and protest against the action of Chicago in diverting the water of our great river and find that all our efforts are in vain, how powerless would we be if a huge investment in money by the United States gave her the right to act even more independently of our wishes?"

NATIONAL LIFE ENDANGERED

"The internationalization of our great waterway," he said, "would cut through the aspirations for national unity and independence which we are striving to foster at the present time. The provinces of the west, being removed from the position of Quebec, do not realize that the whole destiny of Canada and her national life are endangered by the canal scheme. They think that Quebec is opposing it in a selfish manner in the interests of the river ports of Quebec and Montreal, but the people of this province realize that the interlocking of Canada's supreme interests with those of the United States is of significance to the whole country and would cut at the root of the true spirit of national independence that we are trying to conserve."

MAKE DEER TAME ON OUTSKIRTS OF CITY RECENT SUGGESTION

A citizen who does not wish to sign his name to a letter yet who is particularly interested in the preservation of the wild animals of this part of the country, suggests that in spite of admonitions to the contrary shooting is going on in and around the city and that deer are being killed contrary to law on Kaien Island. He says that some of these illicit hunters are known and being watched and that prosecutions are likely to result unless the practice is stopped.

Police court prosecutions are always unobnoxious and the citizen thinks it would be better to have the practice cease voluntarily so he appeals to this paper for the necessary publicity.

FEARS UNITED STATES CONTROL

Archdeacon Scott Says Canada Trying to Foster National Unity and Independence

QUEBEC, July 6.—(Canadian Press)—Claiming that construction of the St. Lawrence Waterway, as at present projected, would endanger Canadian nationalism, the Rev. Archdeacon F. G. Scott of Quebec has written a letter to the Quebec Division of the Navy League of Canada pointing out his fears in that connection. The Navy League has distributed his letter throughout the various branches in the Dominion. Interviewed with regard to his letter, Archdeacon Scott said that he was pleased at the opportunity to reiterate his "warning" to the grave danger to Canadian national aspirations by the internationalization of the St. Lawrence.

"When this question is boiled down to its original significance," said Rev. Archdeacon Scott, "it means that the United States is going to buy the St. Lawrence and use it in the interest of Chicago by making a waterway to the sea and also in the interest of the New England states which would get their supply of electric power from the damming of the rapids on the course."

Archdeacon Scott during the war was Director of Chaplain Services in the 1st Canadian Division and was affectionately known among the troops as "The Padre"

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

JULY 6, 1917

There are some people here who would have a bigger dry dock built at Prince Rupert even though the present one is not yet in operation.

Private Alex Gray returned from the front this morning and entrained for Smithers where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Gray, are now residing.

John Paul, well known fisherman, and his son, William, were drowned recently when the boat in which they were riding capsized.
