THREE DAYS' CELEBRATION

Port Clements Includes Tennis Tournament, Dance, and Fireworks in Program

PORT CLEMENTS, July 15.—The Diamond Jubilee of Confederation was fittingly celebrated at Port Clements on July 1, 2 and 3.

On the morning of July 1 the residents and visitors, led by the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides, proceeded to the Public School grounds where a maple tree was planted.

The honor of planting the tree was conferred on Mrs. W. J. Rennie who has remained continuously on the islands since coming.

Mrs. Rennie was presented with a suitable address by Mrs. T. L. Williams, one of the earliest lady settlers. A beautiful bouquet of flowers was presented to Mrs. Rennie by Mary Dyson, the youngest girl resident. After this ceremony and the singing of "The Maple Leaf Forever," a procession, led by the scouts and guides, marched to the recreation grounds where lunch was served by the ladies of Port Clements.

Large numbers of visitors came from Massett, Buckley, and all the places in Massett Inlet and were met at the wharf by a committee who made all visitors welcome.

After lunch a short address was given by A. R. Mallory on Confederation and events leading up to the great event and he gave a short sketch of the lives of some of the outstanding statesmen of Canada.

During the afternoon ninety prizes were distributed amongst the many contestants. Nearly everyone took part in some event; competition was very keen and a very enjoyable afternoon was spent.

In the evening suitable fireworks were displayed. The large bonfire was dispensed with on account of fire hazards.

After the fireworks a very successful dance was held, people leaving in the small hours of the morning, all expressing themselves as having had a day to be remembered.

On July 2 a tennis tournament was held at the court at which twenty-four players took part, making six sets of mixed doubles. At 3.30 in the afternoon tea was served on Mr. Mallory's lawn. Alice McCrea and John Williams carried off the first prize after a very hotly-contested game with Mrs. Dyson and Mr. Sprigley.

Sunday afternoon an open-air service was held at the recreation grounds led by the minister, Mr. Darby, who gave a fine address. The service was largely attended and enjoyed by all.

Residents and visitors expressed themselves as having attended the most enjoyable and impressive celebration ever held on the north end of the Queen Charlotte Islands.

CLEAN CUSTOMS IS DEMANDED

Winnipeg Newspaper Deprecates Condition of Service as Brought out in Evidence

PRACTICES WERE EVIL

Expected That Recommendations Will be Made Which Will Improve Matters

(Manitoba Free Press)

The royal commission on Customs, which for seven months has been conducting an investigation into matters affecting the operations of the Canadian customs, has adjourned for the summer, holding its final sessions in Prince Edward Island. Further sessions will be held in September, but these, it is understood, will be of a winding-up nature as the bulk of the work, so far as the taking of evidence is concerned, has been completed. During the adjournment the commission will proceed to prepare a report that will be ready for the coming session of the Dominion Parliament.

As generally known, the Customs Commission came into being as a result of revelations that were aired in the House of Commons. These revelations and the charges that accompanied them reflected gravely on the administration of the Customs department and on several of the officials of the department. Charges were also made of smuggling on a wholesale scale in parts of the country, and of petty smuggling on a fairly extensive scale right across Canada. Much light has also been thrown on the relationships toward the Customs department of breweries and distilleries, and even of bootleggers carrying on their operations on an extensive scale. The commission has been looking into all these phases and will base its report on the sworn evidence produced before it at sittings held in all provinces of the Dominion.

TAINTED WITH GRAFT

The story, as it has been told at these various sittings of the commission, has not been one to create pride in the breasts of Canadians. Without prejudging the findings of the commission it can be said that there have been brought to the surface details of widespread operations on the part of certain people to beat the government, and of methods to do this that are heavily tainted with petty graft and of more extensive plots to defraud the government by the corruption of public servants. Evidence has also been given of large contributions by lawbreaking elements to party funds for the purpose, it is clear, of leaving them immune from the operation of the laws of the land. No doubt, the commission will make recommendations tending to a correction of these evil practices, and the government, if it is well advised, will see to it that there is a strict and impartial application of the customs laws, and that the men in places of authority are of a calibre and character that will see that this principle is rigorously followed.

Anything short of this will not do, and it is easy to understand that any political party that does not conform to this standard of common honesty will be vigorously and sharply dealt with by an aroused public opinion.

NO COMPROMISE

That public opinion is aroused and is looking for action there can be no doubt. Experience has shown that there can be no compromise in the administration of the Customs department. To wink at smaller evils and illegal practices is to bring about the development of greater ones, until the situation becomes such that there is bound to be a blow-up. In this connection there is a duty on the public. The public can have strict administration of the Customstome department if it will keep the pressure applied, and if it will insist that the ordinary standards of honesty in business are applied to the administration of the Customs department. These are not impossible standards and the country should insist on them. This is the only safe principle. The public will regret the day if it allows any departure from it on grounds of political expediency or party patronage.

The honor of the country is bound up with the administration of all departments of the public service. Canadians interested in the honor of their country will keep a sharp eye on the future operations of the department of Customs.
