RIOT ON BEHALF OF CONDEMNED MEN

FORT CHURCHILL CHOSEN SITE HUDSON BAY TERMINALS

Riot on Behalf of Condemned Murderers Dispersed in Chicago; Further Postponement Possible

CHICAGO, August 10.—Led by a sixteen-year-old girl, a mob numbering 4,000 men and women marched toward the loops district early today in a demonstration on behalf of the two condemned murderers Sacco and Vanzetti who are condemned to the electric chair tomorrow, were dispersed by the police with tear bombs and revolver shots.

BOSTON, August 10.—The possibility of the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti being postponed from early tomorrow morning is seen when Judge Sanderson of the Supreme Court announced that he would not give a decision until tomorrow on the move by defense counsel for a bill of exceptions from his refusal to grant writs of error to go to the full bench of the supreme court.

LATER HISTORY OF THE CASE
The case of these condemned men, who are slated for the electric chair tomorrow morning has spread over seven years but the later developments are the most interesting.

On April 9 Sacco and Vanzetti were taken to the Dedham courthouse and sentenced by Judge Thayer to die in the electric chair at the state prison in the week of July 10. In the courtroom both made dramatic pleas, asserting their innocence. They openly accused the judge of prejudice and of influencing the jury against them.

Then Governor Alvan T. Fuller became the center of interest in the case. His office was deluged with letters, telegrams and cablegrams from all parts of the world. The majority of these communications, which came from persons of all classes including many clergymen and college professors, urged the Governor either to pardon the two men, commute their sentences or appoint a committee of citizens to make an impartial investigation into the whole case. Some of them, however, asked him not to interfere with the court's decree. Occasionally there came a threat of violence.

In due course, counsel for the condemned men carried petitions to the Governor, asking his intervention. In a long, written plea, Vanzetti asked not for a "pardon" but for "justice." Sacco refused to sign the petition in his behalf and Mr. Thompson, in filing the plea for clemency, explained that he felt that the long nervous strain had brought about a mental attitude for which Sacco was not altogether responsible. An alienist indicated that he found Sacco abnormal in certain respects, and the Governor was asked to consider the plea, even if Sacco had refused to sign it.

CLAIM OF PREJUDICE
Accompanying the petition of the counsel for the defense were five affidavits by newspaper writers who had been assigned to the trial, and others, who affirmed that Judge Thayer, during the trial, had spoken outside the courtroom in language that showed he was prejudiced against the defendants.

The Governor began a personal investigation into the case. On June 1 he announced that he had appointed an advisory committee to make a separate investigation. This committee was composed of President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University, President Samuel W. Stratton of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and former Judge Robert Grant of the probate court, who also was widely known as an author.

On June 29, with the approval of the executive council, Governor Fuller granted a respite to Sacco, Vanzetti and Madeiros "to and including August 10." In a statement he said this was done "for the reason that the task of reviewing the evidence and record (approximately 7,000 pages) and interviewing witnesses (nearly 200) cannot well be completed by August 10."

STATEMENTS ABOUT ORE

Insufficient Capital to Carry Out Necessary Work Mentioned by Stewart

VICTORIA, Aug. 10.—A special meeting of the Victoria Exchange yesterday decided not to issue a statement on the Dunwell situation.

The President of the Dunwell company, R. Stewart, gave out a statement saying everything was going well at the mine and denying that he intended to close the mill this fall or that there was ore shortage.

Mr. Stewart said he had planned to push development on the Ben All claim to supply ore, declaring this should have been done some time ago, but the officers of the company were unable to do it through lack of funds.

Officers of the Exchange said the break resulted from a leak in a private report on ore reserves involving the closing down of the mill this fall and awaiting development of the Ben All claim and construction of a tramway to it and to the present workings and new financing to carry the mine over and for new development.

The market opened firmer yesterday afternoon after selling in the forenoon from 83 to 90 with a ten thousand share turnover, in the afternoon the price ranged from 96 to 104, closing at 99 with eight thousand shares changing hands.

SWAM ACROSS HARBOR TODAY

Douglas Frizzell Left Swanson's at Noon and Reached Other Side Under Hour

This afternoon Douglas Frizzell made a test swim across Prince Rupert Harbor. Starting at noon from Swanson's float he was carried up with the tide and landed at a point almost opposite the Drydock not far from Gibson Island, making the total distance in 58½ minutes. He states that he could have gone farther although he felt rather cramped from the cold water.

Doug used a little oil on his skin to help keep out the cold. The swim is rather noteworthy on account of the fact that he had been doing very little swimming in the cold harbor waters. He was accompanied across by Eddie Smith and Bronson Hunt rowing, and Mike Gurvich, timekeeper.

The Yakobi will visit the various traps in this section and will tag as many salmon as possible, in order that a further survey and check may be made upon the habits of the fish.

This is the first trip of the Yakobi since she was built in Juneau by Woodman & Bernstein, and launched last May. She is 50 feet long, 11½ feet beam, 6 feet draft, and powered by a 50 horse-power Atlas-Imperial diesel engine. Tom Smith is a veteran boat man of Alaska and owned the America II, which he sold, before having the Yakobi built.

SITUATION IN DISTRICT GOOD

Vast Prince Rupert Forestry Area Singularly Fortunate as Far as Fires Concerned

In spite of a month of rather warm weather with high hazard generally, Prince Rupert forestry district has been singularly fortunate as far as forest fires are concerned. Enquiry at Forest Branch offices here this morning elicited the information that the situation is very satisfactory with heavy morning dews of late tending to reduce the risk.

As far as is known today, only one fire is burning in the entire vast district. This is a small conflagration on the Queen Charlotte Islands near the mouth of Tliell River which is well in hand with two men engaged in patrolling it.

Two fires near Smithers, reported last week to have been under control, are now believed to be out.

So far this season, there has not been a serious fire in the district. The situation speaks well for the efficient work of Forest Branch officials and generous co-operation on the part of the public generally.
