CONTRACTS FOR SHIPS

It seems a pity that Canada cannot build her own ships but the Kahn himself rivals Nero in his as long as the English price is only half that of Canada it is doubt- splendor. His robes of thick silk are ful if the government should spend that much extra money in order studded with gems. to have the vessels built here. So far as we can see, nothing can be done about it. In the Old Country they have the organization, the workmen, and they pay lower wages and get all material cheaper palace. Here, too, the scene is in colors than can be done here. DEER HUNTING LAW

While the law says so, hunters must not kill female deer. But it is very commonly reported that does are plentiful everywhere whereas bucks are scarce. It has been suggested that for one season only doe shooting should be allowed, with a strict limit to the bag. In some districts dozens of does can be seen at almost any time but it is only now and then that an antlered head can be obtained. This year the police announce that they will watch carefully for infringements of the law. Deer must be brought in without being cut up | WE often hear the Yankee boast in such a manner as to mislead the officers. If they are not, prosecutions will follow. Hunters cannot give the excuse that they were going to consume the animal on the boat.

BANK MANAGER'S VERDICT

Bank managers are usually the most conservative people in the world when it comes to finance. They learn to be very careful of can. Ah, well! their statements and not to say things they cannot back up. One of them has been speaking optimistically of the development of business on the Pacific Coast. We all knew that business had been improving, even at Prince Rupert, but it is good to hear a bank manager say so and also it is good to see Prince Rupert mentioned at Richmond store guessing contest. big gatherings such as that at Victoria, where the Pacific Foreign Trade Congress has been meeting.

DRASTIC ACTION OF ALASKANS

Alaska has been taking drastic action to conserve the salmon fisheries. The failure of the pink salmon has been general and reds Great things around were going on have also been scarce in Alaska. Canneries have had to shut down with very few fish taken. The result will be heavy losses to operators and to fishermen.

As soon as the authorities there were satisfied that there was where is the mayor? Where has he a real shortage, they shut down on fishing in order to give the fish an opportunity to get to the spawning grounds and thus insure future supply. British Columbia fishing was also closed for long enough to insure a good supply of fish getting past the nets. The result should be beneficial.

It is claimed by those in a position to know that the small streams are the worst used. In many of them fishermen are allowed to stretch their nets practically across the channel in such a manner that very few salmon are able to pass. It is evident that who have been visiting at the home only a few years of such fishing means total extinction. We can the latter's brother, C. F. A. Stricter regulations and on Wednesday for their home. keen supervision, it is thought by many, would be the best remedy for the present condition.

SELLING OF HONORS

In England prominent people are being accused of selling titles. Happily in Canada we do not favor the granting of titles, largely because of the impossibility of giving them to the right people. Those who have money to pay to keep up the funds of political par- George. ties have been thus favored in the past to a very large extent just as they are said to be in Britain. Under these circumstances titles mean nothing. Many of the best people in Great Britain have refused them. Lloyd George has remained with W. E. Gladstone one of the great commoners. They object to the system and doubtless object to the class of people among whom they would thus be placed. It is to be hoped that Canada will always stick to her present system and frown down on any attempt to set up a monied aristocracy.

Michael Strogoff is Picturesque and Full of Colorful Scenes

For picturesqueness of setting and costuming "Michael Strogoff," which was here last night and is to be shown gain today is unique. Quaint Russian nns, peopled with dancers, singers and accordion players apparently just stepped out of the 'Chauve Souris," wretched peasant hovels unfit for animals to live in, gergeous state balls staged with the extravagance of an oriental potentate, and lastly, the great camp of Feofar Khan, leader of the savage Tar-

This Tartar camp is the most extraordinary sequence ever seen in motion pictures. Brilliantly tinted tents, gaudy banners, thick, rich oriental rugs, jewel trimmed costumes, these are all shown in their original colors by the new French stencil process which is said to be vastly superior to any colored film ever before shown. This process not only brings out every bit of color in a scene, but when one scene shifts to another there is no clash of colors as so often is the case.

The lithe brown dancers dressed in the costumes which only the East could conceive, strive to please the great Khan. They dance to the music of a strange band playing on great potato shaped drums, long tubas and strange wind and string instruments. The musicians with their fierce black Saturday, Sept. 17, 1927 moustaches, high fur turbans, and barbarically colored robes would frighten less hardy entertainers.

The Kahn's harem is there, too, while

In startling contrast to these scenes is the brilliant court ball in the Czar's but this time the colors are the soft greens of the crinoline gowns are set off by the brave uniforms of the men.

An Orthophonic Victrola is perfectly at home anywhere.

Here you see it among the latest improvements recently installed in the living room at H. R. H. The Prince of Wales' ranch at High River, Alberta where only the finest is in evidence.

In this comfortable room,-after a busy day inspecting his lands and stock, the Prince was wont to refresh himself with Victor music from his fine record library. Here the Orthophonic Victrola entertained the guests of royalty. And here, through the long winter it will bring comfort and cheer to those who remain to care for the ranch,-ready to greet the Prince with his favorite music when he returns for another visit.

Any home is a brighter, cheerier place, with Orthophonic Victrola music,-be it ranch, farm, cottage or apartment. There are seven beautiful models-all different in design -from $775.00 down to as low as $115.00,and every one obtainable on convenient payments from His Master's Voice dealers.

MANITOBA PLANS ELECTION ACT CHANGE

WINNIPEG, Sept. 17.—Drastic changes NOTICE OF INTENTION TO APPLY TO will soon be made by the Bracken government in the Manitoba Election Act as the result of a sutdy made of the election acts in the different provinces of Western Canada by Hon, W. Major, attorney general.

While Conservatives of Manitoba never favored the proportional representation system of election applied to the city of Winnipeg when the Norris governmen was in power, and the enthusiasm not the plan of the government abolish the system. The proposed revision will, rather, take the form of an overhauling of the provisions of the Act relating to registration and voting, it is said. The Act has been described as antiquated and anomalous, and it is declared to entail unnecessarily large expenditure. Act, aslo, it is stated, disinfranchises many persons otherwise entitled to mark ballots, especially new citizens in the ccuntry for a considerable time.
