FARMERS WANT CHEAPER RATE ON GRAIN FEED

Interesting Figures Prepared by Department of Agriculture at Victoria

VICTORIA, Nov. 10.—The farmers of the province and especially those engaged in dairying and other avocations in which imported feed is freely used, have been asking for lower freight rates on grain coming to B.C. from the prairies for domestic use.

On the importation of prairie grain for domestic use last year, the excess paid by British Columbia agriculturists over the amount payable on an export basis was $232,000, the new figures reveal.

RATES VARY Under the Railway Commission's new ruling, grain moves to this coast from the prairies for export at a rate of twenty cents per hundred pounds. Grain covering the same distance, but intended for use in this province, moves on a rate of forty-one and one-half cents.

The figure of $232,000, representing the total spread between the two rates on last year's business, is based on an importation of 1,080,000 hundred-weight of grain for domestic use.

FUR FARMING IS BIG VALUABLE INDUSTRY

ALASKA, Nov. 10.—"Blue fox farming is past the experimental stage and is now down to an exact science, meaning the survival of the fittest," said Frank Frueschog, one of the pioneer fox farmers, whose ranch is on Lung Island, near the mouth of Duncan Canal.

He is here accompanied by John Rayburn, a neighboring fox farmer, on the power boat Alca, after halibut heads.

pair of foxes on an island, hire a caretaker and then sit back and collect dividends. It worked for a while, in some instances.

"But fox farming has now resolved itself into hard work, constant care and plenty of experience. Nearly every island has its own peculiar problems.

"For my own part, I have come to the conclusion that associations and experts are of little practical help. I was free with my own advice at first, but an beginning to find out that the best thing I can do is to attend strictly to my own business and cash in on the experience which has cost me lots of time and thousands of dollars without handing it out to every expert who comes along to be used to compete with me in the open market.

"I am on the job day and night and do not leave to a hired man executive problems which means success or failure."
