SCANDAL AND STILL MORE SCANDAL.

The Conservatives have started another scandal which promises to be just such another "mare's nest" as they have been stirring up during recent months. This time they have found a man—not even in British Columbia but exiled in Seattle—who has been willing to make a sworn statement that the minister of public works had negotiated for some liquor profits for himself. The matter bears all the earmarks of being just such an affair as General McRae was responsible for a few years ago and, if care is not taken to keep it under the protection of the House, some Tory is liable to get himself into a similar box as General McRae did and from which he only extricated himself from with good hard cash.

Apparently it is just another example of the same old Tory tactics. Having nothing constructive to offer and so far unable to nail anything on their political opponents, they regale themselves with a halo of purity and innocence while, behind the scenes, they perform vile, iniquitous acts that result in such amazing revelations as this their latest. The party makes no attempt to prove its own merit. Its whole effort is to pick the other fellow's faults and, if they cannot be found, to manufacture some for him. Such tactics are not only despicable but dangerous and are more than apt to rebound to the disadvantage of those who employ them. What is more, they are costly to the people and an inconvenience to the legislators against whom they are so unfairly directed.

SHOULD RESPECT PUBLIC MEN.

Canadians are not hero-worshippers. The names of men who have made Canada what it is today are not held in as high reverence and esteem as would be justified by a former sense of gratitude and honor. Baldwin, Lafontaine, Simcoe, Howe, Macdonald and Laurier, do not mean to Canadians what Washington, Lincoln, Grant, Hamilton and Franklin mean to Americans.

Reasons for our indifference to records of achievement are not entirely lacking. One is the necessity of dividing such small time as the students in our schools have for the study of history between Canadian and British history, with sampling of French and United States history. Emphasis has been upon Cromwell, William III, Pitt, Nelson and Wellington, rather than upon our own statesmen. Another reason is, perhaps, our feeling that Americans have overdone the adulation of names, causing us to lean backwards.

The history of a people should be one of the treasures of its thought. That thought should find time for such reflection upon the work of those who have gone before as will give us a proper respect and admiration for their work.

Equally, we are lacking in a proper feeling of gratitude towards our public men of today. We do not all sneer or defame, though most of us "hint a fault" even when we "hesitate dislike." Our national habit of lampooning every man who enters public life not only prevents us from enjoying the inspiration of hero worship, but it makes it more difficult for us to continue to conscript the highest type of men.

Obsequiousness, we do not want; but a proper appreciation of public service we do need.

BRITISH COLUMBIA IS CANADA'S FLORIDA.

British Columbia, already the Florida of Canada in climate and attractions as a winter playground, has taken a further step to strengthen its claim to the title, says the Financial Post of Toronto, a Conservative publication. It is greatly reducing its succession duty charges, in an attempt to encourage men of wealth to retire to British Columbia as they give up active work. Florida, it will be recalled, entirely abolished state inheritance taxes with a similar motive, and found the move of substantial benefit in attracting capital and new residents.

British Columbia is reducing all death taxes one-third. It is raising exemptions. It is exempting insurance up to $50,000 when payable to a near relative. In addition, it is taking a further step in eliminating the double taxation that has been a serious bar to the recruiting of new capital. When ever succession duties have been properly paid in any other province of Canada, the same property will not be taxed in the coast province.

All these changes are bound to serve their avowed purpose of making British Columbia an attractive place for wealthy men to live. The $400,000 annual loss in revenue that is anticipated is virtually certain to be more than made up by the increased prosperity of the province from a larger number of citizens and a larger amount of capital within its borders. In time, it would not be surprising, if the lower rates produced even larger income than at present received.

HOOT GIBSON FILM IS COMING TONIGHT

Peter B. Kyne Story is "The Buckaroo Kid"—Tale of Nevada and San Francisco

In the picture "The Buckaroo Kid" at the Westholme Theatre tonight and tomorrow, starring Hoot Gibson, Ed. Harley as a boy of 15, alone in the world, is befriended by a Nevada rancher, who gives the boy a home and an education and when he is grown, sends him to San Francisco to talk with Henry Radigan, a wealthy banker, about a job as manager of Radigan's ranch. Radigan, believing him too young refuses to consider him, so Ed goes to the ranch and takes charge anyway. He quickly whips the ranch into shape, but a month later, is paid an angry visit by Radigan, who has just heard of his daring action. Many eventful days follow. Harley inherits the ranch of his patron Mr. Mulford, is caught in a financial hole and fails in his attempt to borrow money because of the interference of Radigan. He has threatened the apoplectic old banker that he will "cut off his ears" if Radigan ever interferes in his business affairs because of the row over the ranch, and sets out seriously to do it when he is dissuaded by Lyra Radigan, daughter of the rancher, who forces her father to lend Harley the necessary money, then marries the fiery young Lochinvar.

DOLORES COSTELLO IN SCREEN TRIUMPH

Story Concerns Lovely Orphan Girl Who Was Brought up on Desolate Isle

"Bride of the Storm" comes on Wednesday to the Westholme Theatre.

The story concerns a lovely orphaned girl (Dolores Costello), who has been brought up by three Dutchmen, owners of a lighthouse near where she and her mother had been shipwrecked. In order to win her huge fortune, the scheming old grandfather (Tyronne Power) plans to carry her to his idiot grandson Hans (Otto Matteson). His own son Piet (Sheldon Lewis), decides he wants to marry the girl himself, and Faith's life is made up of horrible perils.

Finally, when they have sent for a justice to marry Faith to Hans to definitely settle matters, Faith meets a handsome young American Naval officer, Dick Wayne (John Harrison), who has come to mend a broken cable. Dick falls in love with Faith and after a series of thrilling fights and daring rescues, the three cruel Dutchmen are killed and the girl taken to her native Maryland and to happiness.

"Bride of the Storm," is the screen version of "Maryland, My Maryland," written by James Francis Dwyer. Dolores Costello is the star. Her beauty, personality, charm and sheer dramatic power make her one of the most important stars of the screen.

WRITER PLAYS PART OF WHITE SAVAGE AS HOAX ON RIVAL

Danny Terry, wild animal writing expert for a scientific magazine, goes to the Mariposa Islands and plays the part of a white savage to put over a hoax on a rival magazine that has representatives accompanying Professor Atwater who is searching for lost white savages. He is found and brought back to New York and placed on exhibition at a jungle ball which Mrs. Atwater gives to celebrate the announcement of the betrothal of her daughter to Howard Kipp.

At the ball Terry's editor appears and tries to expose the hoax but Terry has fallen in love with Ysabel and refuses to expose her father. To save exposure he escapes from the cage and runs out the window with the guests in pursuit. At the ball Ysabel has discovered her fiancé with another girl so breaks her engagement. She rushes after Terry and tells him she knows he is a fake. But Terry grabs her in his arms and carries her with him to a log cabin on a neighboring estate. There he tells her how he loves her, and she shows that it is not in vain but tells him to wait until he has escaped. Terry finds a razor in the cabin, shaves off his beard and when the pursuers arrive he is lying on the floor and Ysabel has her hair down and clothing disarranged as though they had been battling with the Savage.

They tell the crowd the savage went through the window and as the crowd goes on with the hunt they smile and embrace and the picture ends with Terry and Ysabel finding their real happiness. Such is the story of "The Savage" coming to the Westholme Theatre on Thursday.

ENGLISH STORY IN PICTURE "NELL GWYN"

Romantic Comedy-Drama is Dorothy Gish's Latest and Effective Vehicle

Dorothy Gish is the star in the romantic comedy-drama "Nell Gwyn," based on the life of Nell Gwyn, favorite of Charles II during the Restoration which is coming to the Westholme Theatre at the week-end.

Nell Gwyn, who charmed the heart of a king and a nation, comes to life on the screen, in what is said to be the best English production yet filmed. It has life, it has sparkle and freshness, and the general production values are of an order comparable with those in the best Hollywood product.

Without detracting in any way from the glory of the story and direction, the J. D. Williams instinct of showmanship

Miss Gish is truly magnificent in the role. She literally "has everything" a well chosen cast surrounds her. Juliette Compton is excellent as Nell's rival for the king's affections.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

FEBRUARY 21, 1917.

D. G. Stewart was elected president of the hospital board at a meeting of the directors last night.

The police commission, at its meeting yesterday, discussed a circular letter from the Attorney General's department dealing with the enforcement of the law.

Over 100,000 pounds of halibut was sold yesterday at prices slightly over thirteen cents per pound.

George D. Tie returned to the city this morning from Victoria where he was called on account of the death of his father.

Frank Dowling, in charge of the weather bureau, does not see much chance of a change in the weather in the immediate future. The thermometer registered 9 above during the morning.

Mrs. R. S. Sargent and sister, Miss A. M. Barbeau, returned from a trip south this morning.

Lieut. Gordon, of the Irish Fusiliers, returned last evening from up river where he has been recruiting.

The House committee of the hospital board has been asked to investigate the question of the nursing staff working long hours and report to the next meeting of the board.

Times haven't changed much. Back in pioneer days the pedestrian had to dodge the deadly rattler, also.

28-DAY MONTH COMES UP AGAIN

DETERMINED EFFORTS HOPED TO RESULT IN DEFINITE ACTION AT GENEVA THIS YEAR

GENEVA, Feb. 21.—Determined efforts to bring about a reform of the calendar with a 28-day month have been taken with the view of definite action at Geneva in August.

In 16 capitals of northern Europe steps already have been taken to show the advantages of the fixed calendar idea. There are opponents of the plan but no organized effort has yet appeared.

Under the proposed plan of reform all months would have 28 days, the first day of the month always falling on Sunday and the last on Saturday. If the year remained the same length an extra month would be introduced, leaving one day over and two in leap year. Thirteen months would look like this:

ANY MONTH
Sun.	Mon.	Tues.	Wed.	Thurs.	Fri.	Sat.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
8	9	10	11	12	13	14
15	16	17	18	19	20	21
22	23	24	25	26	27	28

STOMACH TROUBLE

Bad indigestion and poverty to the point of starvation were recognized as equal evils as far back as the time of Rabbin Burns. Of what use is money or food, if the stomach fails in its duty?

The lower nerve under the magnifying glass is pinched by a misaligned joint. Pinched nerves cannot transmit healthful impulses. Chiropractic adjusting removes the pressure. The upper nerve is free as nature intends.

The healthy person does not realize that he should not even realize that he has a stomach. Digestion of wholesome, normal food should be automatic. But it cannot be if the stomach is receiving less than its full supply of vital energy.

When the stomach fails in its functions, two courses of relief are available—you can reduce the quantity and variety of your food to fit its subnormal capacity—or, you can have the cause removed by spinal adjustments which restore the flow of vital energy to full capacity. Which is best?

"I EAT MOST ANYTHING." "I have suffered from a bad form of stomach trouble for as long as I can remember—at least ten years. I have vomited my food even when a school boy and have also been suffering a great deal from bladder and kidney trouble. I commenced to take adjustments taking 36 adjustments in all. Now, three months later my stomach is in good condition, and I can eat most anything I like without it hurting me. My severe bladder and kidney symptoms have also disappeared, and I feel fine." — Archie Preston, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 2073-X.
