It is to be hoped that Mr. Brady will have some real suggestions "LADIES AT PLAY" to offer at Ottawa and that he will not fall into the habit that has! characterized so many of the members of his political party of engaging in destructive criticism with nothing of real value to offer.

The electors of Skeena riding, whether they supported him or not at the September election, expect something more from Mr. Brady than futile criticism and useless verbosity. They hope that, now he is elected, he will be an asset to parliament and a champion for his district. On his record of sound counsel or concrete accomplishment will his fate depend if he should come back for re-election four years from now. If Mr. Brady keeps that in mind he will in all probability get his reward of gratitude from an appreciative tic settings and a parade of fashions

QUEBEC NOT LETTING HER SONS MIGRATE.

One province, at least, Quebec, is taking very definite and practical steps to prevent her sons from migrating to the States. his article, "My Friend, Jean Baptiste," appearing in MacLean's Magazine for January 1, George Pearson outlines them and some interesting information about education methods in the province. He says:

"The government is interested not only in retaining within Quebec its sons, but in reclaiming those who have left, and it has marry. taken a lead in this respect that might well be adopted by the Federal Government and the other provinces. This movement, which enlists the earnest support of the intellectuals of Quebec, receives its strongest support from the co-operation of Church and Government. lipped old spinsters, who has been dis- the girl as an imposer he seizes the Everywhere, in all the little parishes throughout Quebec, the priests inherited in favor of Doris, and seek to opportunity to thrust his unwelcome are exhorting their flocks to remain at home, and magnifying to them grab a share of the six million. But even of that period, Premier Tascherau says: 'Whatever MYSTERY STORY KEEPS its deficiencies, the system has taught our children their religious duties, kept them attached to the soil, developed character and cultivated the ideal.'

"Not only has there been a change in policy as regards effort, Raymond Griffith stars in Comedybut there has been an even more startling change in the ultimate aim of education. In Quebec, until comparatively recent years, there was no sympathy for 'Divine discontent!' It was believed that the villager, educated, would either emigrate to the city or else, being unadaptable to his village environment, would become discontented and a nuisance. BUCK JONES HAS NEW BAG OF TRICKS IN "30 BELOW ZERO"

Western Ace Springs Some Hot Stunts in Felm of Snow Country

Buck Jones, whose latest picture, "30 Below Zero," will be seen at the Westholme Theatre tonight and tomorrow, could not hide the fact that he started his screen career as a "stunt man" even if he wanted to. Because with every succeeding picture he brings new thrills to the screen.

In "30 Below Zero," his latest Fox film, he abandons the horse and the good, solid earth for the thrills of the air when he embarks on a mammoth airplane headed for Arctic regions. For Buck has remained a stunt man even though he has soared to the heights of stardom.

He has always loved adventure though his bashful, diffident, slowmoving manner and drawling speech would fool anyone. Before entering motion poctures he was a daredevil strange and educated ways, in the "101 4 Ranch" show.
