'Skid Road' Business Helps Youth

VANCOUVER (CP)—In the old section of Vancouver called "skid road," Bill Roddy is known as a police constable with a purpose.

Vancouverites generally are getting to know him as the managing director of a successful business.

He calls his business "youth salvage," and the title has a double meaning. He employs 10 youngsters who were formerly either needy or in some kind of trouble. Bill's business is to take as much work as is profitable away from the regular garbage collectors.

About eight months ago Roddy nominated himself as guardian of a young fellow who had got into trouble over some car thefts.

"He was a fine lad," says Bill, "but he had no work habits." Bill decided the boy needed a business and "youth salvage" was born.

The boy was lent Bill's panel truck and set to work collecting everything from newspapers to discarded furniture—everything that could be sold. The business grew and more boys were brought in.

Today the business has two stores and a warehouse. One store sells clothing and shoes and the other used furniture, books and hardware. The stores do a thriving business and the boys all draw weekly salaries.

Full Slate Likely For House Seat

VICTORIA (CP) — No shortage of candidates is expected when the by-election is called to fill the Victoria seat in Commons made vacant by appointment of Hon. R. W. Mayhew as ambassador to Japan.

Five parties have signified their intention to run candidates—Liberal, Progressive Conservative, CCF, Social Credit and Labor Progressive.

Name of G. A. A. Hebdien is being given as the most likely starter for the Liberals.

Reports that W. Bruce Hutchison, editor of the Victoria Times, had been approached to stand for the Liberal nomination were spiked by Mr. Hutchison today.

"I am not a candidate for political office," he said.

William Chant, unsuccessful Social Credit candidate in Esquimalt in the last provincial election, is being mentioned as a likely candidate for that party.

In Ottawa last week House speaker Ross MacDonald announced that he had instructed the chief electoral officer to issue a writ for a by-election in Victoria.

Although, under statute, the government could hold off the election as long as six months from the date of issuance of the writ, it is considered most likely the vote will be scheduled for early in 1953.

THIS IS A CHALLENGE to the taxpayers of Prince Rupert.

Will they give the city—and themselves—a break by asking that the council-manager plan be investigated for adaptation to Prince Rupert, or will they take no action even though they stand to win much and lose little?

The above are some of the main duties of a municipal city manager, and from them it can be seen that he will recommend to the council in the first instance what should be done, backed up by facts and figures; and subject to approval by council see that it is done, and give progress reports while it is being done.

Doesn't Work
At present, this type of administration is being attempted by an eight-man council which, practically speaking, is an impossibility. There are too many loose ends left dangling with the result that the entire organization becomes so involved in detail that often sight is lost of things of major importance.

Among the nine men who today handle the city's affairs, there are some who favor a council-manager plan; others are non-committal; some are opposed to it.

The opposition offered is that it would limit representation of the taxpayer, there being less aldermen needed.

Let's See Now
There is little more than a week left in which candidates for the four vacating seats in the Dec. 11 election can show their hand. Yet no one has been in any hurry to file papers.

Does that display Prince Rupert taxpayers as crying out for representation?
No. It proves that the silence of Prince Rupert taxpayers itself is crying out loud, "We are too busy to care!"

So, why not a city manager?
To co-ordinate, direct, supervise, and control the day-to-day business affairs of the city in accordance with the policies and plans approved and established by the council.

To co-ordinate and direct the preparation of plans and programs to be submitted to the council for the construction, rehabilitation, and maintenance of city property and facilities; for the development, expansion and improvement of city services.

To co-ordinate, direct, and broadly supervise the implementation of such programs upon approval by the council.

To exercise general financial control over all departments of city government in terms of approved appropriations.

To carry out or direct collective bargaining with all city employees . . . to recommend to council agreements concerning wages, salaries, and working conditions.

To account to the council for his stewardship by presenting reports and information regarding progress and accomplishments in programs and projects.

Unions May Seek Full Labor Group

VANCOUVER (CP)—A full-time provincial labor federation to serve AFL-TLC unions in British Columbia may be recommended by the B.C. executive of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada at a convention in Nanaimo Dec. 10.

The central organization would replace the present scattered provincial executive committee. The plan was first voiced last year at a TLC conference and if approved will form the first provincial group in about 25 years.

In other provinces, TLC has central federation in Newfoundland, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario, and Alberta. Along with B.C., Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Nova Scotia have executive committees only.

AFL Names Successor

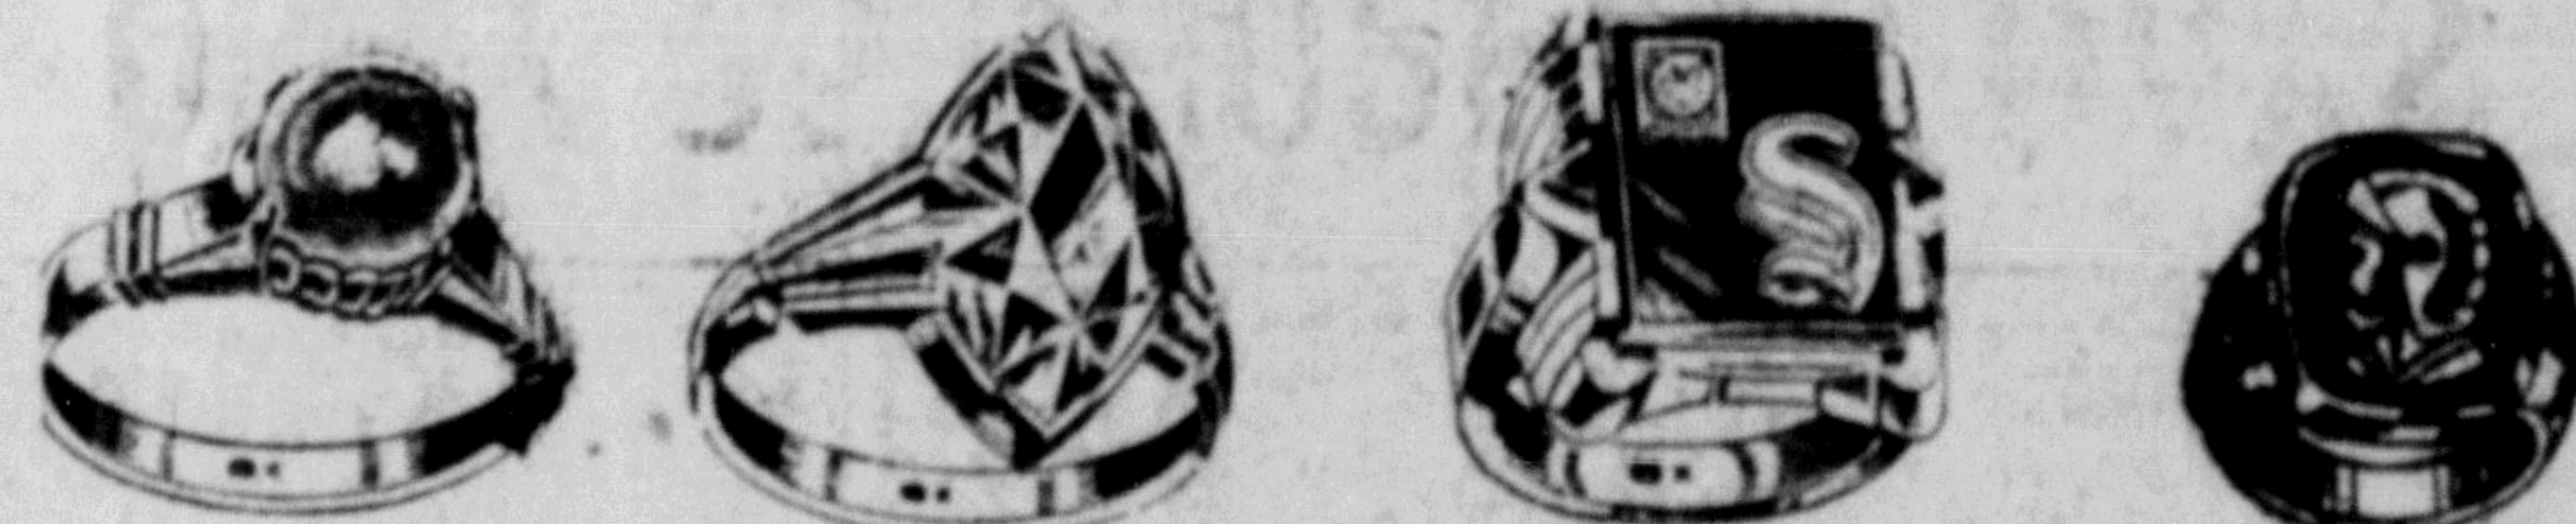

WASHINGTON — (CP) — The American Federation of Labor today chose 58-year-old George Meany as its new president to succeed the late William Green, who died last Friday.

The AFL made a new bid to the CIO for a merger. The AFL council empowered a nine-man committee to invite the CIO to join in new discussions on a merger.
