Simplicity

One of the features of Fairbanks-Morse Diesel Engines that has appealed to operators of tugs, freight boats and fishing vessels, is its simplicity.

Simple in construction and simple to operate, no auxiliary ignition devices—two cycle principle—airless injection of fuel. No valves to grind; no complicated valve rockers to keep in adjustment. Uses low grades of fuel oil.

Excellent manœuvering qualities on light loads and slow speeds.

Fairbanks-Morse Diesel Engines are made in the following sizes:

20 h.p.—2 cyl.	180 h.p.—6 cyl.
40 h.p.—2 cyl.	240 h.p.—4 cyl.
60 h.p.—3 cyl.	360 h.p.—6 cyl.
80 h.p.—4 cyl.	480 h.p.—4 cyl.
120 h.p.—4 cyl.	600 h.p.—5 cyl.
120 h.p.—6 cyl.	720 h.p.—6 cyl.

Neglected Eyes

NEGLECT is doubtless the cause of most of the ills that afflict humanity. This is so self evident that it seems hardly necessary to tell you. If your eyes are giving trouble, have them attended to—and at once.

OF ALL absurdities in the kingdom of foolishness, surely the loss of eyesight through neglect is the most inexcusable.

DON'T lose health and efficiency through neglect. Come and see!

HUGE X-RAY INSTRUMENT

Chicago Has What is Probably Largest in the World at University

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—A gigantic x-ray machine, weighing more than four tons and costing $500,000 has been operated successfully in the research hospital of the University of Illinois here.

The huge piece of mechanism, probably the largest of its kind in the world, pours 250,000 volts of rays through the human body, performing in from eight to twelve minutes a treatment for cancer or sarcoma which formerly required from one to two hours.

It has destroyed cancer in its early stages and retarded old growths, officials of the hospital announce.

So powerful are the penetrating rays that flow from the apparatus that it has been necessary to cool the great x-ray tube, the largest ever assembled, by a constant flow of water.

The problem of divising a way to keep the tube cool held back development of the machine for years. Engineers in the employ of the company developing the apparatus finally conceived the idea of insulating the water from the source of current, this preventing it from acting as a conductor and carrying off some of the current vibrating into the tube.

The control apparatus of the machine looks like the power house of a light plant. To operate the machine it was necessary to install apparatus occupying three large rooms. A transformer room houses a huge electrical generator which "steps up" ordinary electric current to 250,000 volts. Measuring devices control the force of the ray. An operator's booth contains a control board and in a treatment room are the machine itself and other devices.

The x-ray was developed to give treatment in shorter time to patients suffering from deep seated cases of cancer or sarcoma. To prevent over-exposure to the skin the rays are projected through several surface portals, allowing an extremely powerful ray to penetrate the body without burning the skin of the patient.

She Could Not Work HEADACHES Were So Severe

Mrs. A. Riehl, Burstall, Sask., writes:—"I was troubled with very severe headaches, and sometimes I could not do my work.

"One day a friend told me about and advised me to give it a trial. I decided to do so, and after taking a few bottles I found it had done me a world of good, and I haven't had any headaches for a long time now."

DEER FOUGHT UNTIL DEATH

Horns Interlocked and Unable to Shake off Opponent After Victory

WESTFIELD, Mass., Dec. 1.— Death was the victor in a mighty battle waged between the deer for the supremacy of the forest range in Montgomery. The story was revealed by Peter P. Monahan, deputy game warden, who came from the woods with the interlocked antlers of two large buck deer, which had been cut from the bodies.

The battle ground gave evidence of a terrific struggle, according to the game warden. The deer, it is believed, marched into an open lot of ground where they might settle their differences as to which was to roam the Montgomery hills as leader of the pack.

Warden Monahan said that it was after the antlers of the deer became locked that the two monarchs of the hills pulled and tugged until one had fallen—in death. The lighter of the two bucks, weighing 250 pounds, was conquered, but only after its neck had been broken.

Then the victor, weighing some 300 pounds, prepared to leave the scene to take up his leadership. But he was unable to shake his antlers loose from those of the defeated foe. The body of the dead deer was dragged for many feet, but then the other fell, probably from sheer exhaustion.

The victor was unable to rise again and death slowly overtook him in the form of starvation and exposure.

TATOOSH CLAIMED AS HIGH BOAT FOR HALIBUT SEASON

KETCHIKAN, Dec. 1.—The Tatoosh, Captain Chris Martinsen, is the prize halibut boat for the season which closed November 15, the five members of the crew dividing $3700 to the man for the season's work.

Ketchikan is the home port of the Tatoosh, and she is not one of the larger of the long range boats either, measuring 57 feet in length and powered with a diesel engine. She came through the stormy weather with only one dory smashed and two skates of gear lost, and the crew claim that it was all due to a "luck charm" or rabbit's foot carried by the cook.

The Tatoosh which finished with a light cargo, made 12 trips, beginning February 17, fishing almost entirely on the Portlock bank, and ending the season November 12.

Members of the crew are Nels Peterson, Ole Goldstein, Nick Hendricksen, Knut Roberg and Chris Smith, the cook.

Last year some of the halibut fishermen divided as high as $5,000 per man.

COALSPUR SHIPPING PRODUCT TO RUPERT

EDMONTON, Dec. 1.—First shipments from the new coal mine opened by the Coalspur Collieries, Limited, have started to roll to eastern and western markets. Among the points which will receive these initial consignments are Vancouver, Prince Rupert, Prince George, Bashaw, Moose Jaw and Winnipeg.

Large orders are on hand for the coast market and it is expected that a trade of considerable volume will be developed there. This will also mean that a summer market will be provided, something that Alberta mines have long been in need of and which will mean steady employment for many miners. The company also has a standing order for 100,000 tons to be supplied to the Ontario market.
