The effect of this movement should be very beneficial to northern British Columbia where there are some fine stands western hemlock. In the past it has been difficult to market this lumber but from now on it may be expected that hemlock will be an asset to a lumber district rather than a drawback.

MINIMUM WAGE LAW

The minimum wage law has for some time been operative in the lumber industry in this province and preparations are being made to extend operation of the law to other callings. It seems to me, IIIII It is, as one of the commissioners expressed it here, to protect the under dog from oppression.

Investigation has shown that very low wages are paid in some callings, so low that it is an inducement for those so employed to the industrial, commercial or agricullive criminal lives. For the protection, not only of these people, but for the good of the whole community it is desirable that living wage be paid in all industries. At the same time it is wise, from the labor standpoint, to guard against stifling industry and thus prevent the development of the country.

RAPID OR SLOW DEVELOPMENT IN CHILDREN

Some children develop rapidly and become infant prodigies while some develop very slowly and are often classed as dunces; yet often in the race of life the slow developing child lives to look miles below at the infant prodigy. It is doubtful if rapid development of the child can be a thorough and lasting development. That away from them. is where intelligence tests fail. U.S. TARIFF HAS HAD EFFECT ON RELATIONS BETWEEN TWO COUNTRIES

DETROIT, Mich., May 27 .- (By Canadian Press) .- Canada, which was decribed as "the best customer" of the United States, is gradually being driven into closer trade relations with other countries through the imposition of prohibitive tariffs, Traverse Sweatman, past president of the Winnipeg Board of Trade, told delegates attending the National Foreign Trade convention here.

"The subject of tariffs is of course! part of the internal or domestic concern of each nation and Canada has no right to complain of the tariff raised against her by the United States, or the reverse," Mr. Sweatman declared. "But," he added, "the fact cannot be gnored that existing tariff barriers have forced Canada to look for new markets and there is always a risk that where

NORTH AND SOUTH

On account of Canada's political boundaries there was a tendency of trade between east and west over long lines of expensive communication, whereas the economical and natural way would be to trade north and south, the speaker said. The logical customers of British Columbia were the people of the United States who lived along the Pacific coast. The natural markets for the Saskatchewan were Chicago, Minneapolis, and the concerts are much enjoyed. or restraint.

Canada was just on the threshold of expansion, Mr. Sweatman said. Millions of acres were awaiting settlement; the unlimited resources of this vast Dominion were largely undeveloped and there was available water power to provide less industrial expansion.

WINNIPEG MUSIC IN THE ARCTIC CIRCLE

Eskimos Enjoy Concerts by Radio and Dance to Manitoba Music

WINNIPEG. May 27 .- In far away Aklavik, somewhere near the Arctic Circle in the North West Territories, the Eskimos no longer huddle of night in their igloos.

For in Aklavik, 1,800 miles north of Winnipeg, voices from Canadian radio stations make themselves heard on certain nights when Aurora Borealis is in good humor. Then the dogs cease to howl at the painted sky and the Innuit flappers and sheiks gather the frozen snow to dance to strains of Winnipeg orchestras.

Lieut. Kluff, who is stationed at Aklavik on government work, sends this information by telegraph to the Manitoba government station "C.K.Y." The lieutenant has a good radio set with a loud speaker, and on nights when conditions are favorable he tunes

Denny was blazing his mountain trapline one day last fall, when his attention was aroused by hearing a faint sound like the foghorn of a steamer being blown in his right ear.

LILLIAN GISH PLAYS ROLE OF MIMI IN FAMOUS OPERA SHOWING

(New York American) "From the drums and bugles of 'The Big Parade, King Vidor has turned to the harps and muted violins of 'La Boheme.' Henri Murger's famous story has been made into a film opera with a deficacy and lilt all its own. This time Vidor was given pure romance to direct. It is pure romance, with all its lightness and poetry, which comes to the Westholme Theatre tonight.

"Wistful is the obvious word for Lillian Gish. Wistful she is in a part which calls for her unusual poetic qaulity. Her interpretation is delightful. She as always seems the youngest actress on the screen. It is this quality of youth which is her greatest contribution to the screen. As the little seamstress who loves a playwright and cares for nothing else in all the world, she dances through the picture. Miss Gish has never seemed so spontancous, so unaffectedly happy, as in the gayer part of the picture. King Vidor has counteracted Miss Gish's wistfulnecss with the exuberance o John Gilbert's work. The joy of life i his, the happy-go-lucky joy of the Latin quarter. 'La Boheme' is a picture that will be enjoyed by all who have ever felt the call of romance. It a love song translated into pictures."
