

Special Nurses' Watch

We have just imported these watches for nurses. All the steel parts are made of stainless steel so that water will not rust them in case they get wet. They have a seconds hand for counting the pulse and the movement will run forty hours, so that if winding is forgotten for a few hours, the watch will still be running. Prices from $18 to $25.00.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY CONCERT

FINE ENTERTAINMENT STAGED IN WESTHOLME THEATRE LAST NIGHT WITH MANY NEW FEATURES

Embodying several new features which proved at once interesting and acceptable, the annual St. Patrick's Day concert under the auspices of the Catholic Church and the direction of Miss Blanche Curtin and Charles P. Balagno was held last night in the Westholme Theatre before an audience which was both large and appreciative. The program of the evening, which commenced at 8:30 and continued until after 11 o'clock, was divided into two parts—first a list of concert numbers and second, a one-act sketch.

The program was opened with a selection "Sounds from Ireland" by the Westholme Orchestra consisting of Charles P. Balagno, pianist and leader; William Balagno, violin; Robert Greenfield, cornet, and W. F. Browne, traps and drums. This number brought the audience into a good humor and established the Irish environment which was to prevail for the rest of the evening. "Jaunting Down to Kerry" was a pretty song and dance number by two girls who were dressed in white frocks with green trimmings. They did their parts well.

The Prince Rupert Boys' Band, ever popular, then took the stage and, under the direction of Bandmaster Thos. Wilson, played an overture, "Lygia" (Mackey); March, "Fraternity" (Hays); and overture "Bright and Gay" (Myers). This organization is making steady progress. Though the march is still the band's forte, it is gradually developing into that stage where selections are in order. The band, however, would have aroused more enthusiasm from the audience if a march had been substituted for at least one of the over-

Scientifically Packed "SALADA" TEA

As free from dust as tea can be.

Marches are any band's long suit and they are always provocative of the best response.

Miss Josephine Charlebois, who, as a result of several appearances lately, has taken her place as one of the city's prized vocalists, was in good voice in "The Low Backed Car," an encore with "The Low Backed Car." Miss Blanche Curtin accompanied.

PIECE DE RESISTANCE
A piece de resistance was the piano solo of Miss Marie Balagno. Playing "Irish Airs" this dainty little performer displayed surprising proficiency and indicated that she has inherited the paternal talent. She gracefully responded to an encore.

Little Miss Elizabeth McLeod brought the house down with her song and Irish jig. In the dance particularly, this youngster has great talent. It is to be questioned if there is a performer of her age in the country who better combines grace and agility. She is a natural youngster and is apparently devoid of self-consciousness.

Miss Catherine Jones had happy selections in which to convey her popularity. She sang "Come Back to Erin" and, for an encore, "When Irish Eyes are Smiling."

The boys' orchestra, consisting of members of the Boys' Band with Billy Fuller at the piano showed that they have talent on a diversity of instruments. The march "Show Boy" (Huff); Waltz, "Pond Lilies" (Hays) and march "Peerless" were most acceptable. Bandmaster Wilson directed.

William Balagno's violin solos "Dance Negre" and "Spanish Dance" were splendid. He combined fine technique and elegant rhythm in his usual talented manner.

Mrs. J. J. Muldoon excelled herself in the singing of "She is Far From the Land" and "Husheen" for an encore. The audience paid fitting tribute.

ONE ACT SKETCH

The one-act sketch "A Rehearsal" contained a "pretty little motif" though the object was to give outlet for a number of solos and dances. Mrs. Muldoon sang "The Kerry Dances" and a group of youngsters danced. "Believe me if all those Endearing Young Charming" was sung with melody by a quintette of young ladies. Miss Virginia Riel and Miss Lorna MacLaren danced a hornpipe and were much applauded. Miss Charlebois again sang and William Balagno played two of his own compositions. J. S. Wilson sang comic songs and there was a mock debate between two typical Irish conversationalists whose roles were taken by Mrs. F. W. Leeper and Mrs. J. C. Brady. Mrs. Brady was in her usual good form while Mrs. Leeper, new to a Prince Rupert audience, was particularly fine. With a line of running talk and patter, she took an essential role throughout the sketch.

Others taking part were Miss Margaret Palmer, a long-lost, Irish colleen who was finally restored to a loving sister, Miss Agnes Gratton, Miss Mary Comadina, Miss Irene Bourassa, Miss Ruth Gillis, Miss Margaret McCaffery and Miss Owen Palmer. The singing of "The Dear Little Shamrock" by the company brought the number to a close and the evening's entertainment ended with the singing of the National Anthem.

Harold McEwen was cashier and Jack McNulty, James Atherley, Frank Fortune, Leo Contoli and Vincent Meagher acted as ushers.

NEURITIS HAS NO MYSTERY

LOCAL CHIROPRACTOR EXPLAINS CAUSES OF COMMON AND PAINFUL AILMENT AND HOW TO TREAT IT

This may be either a general condition involving many nerves scattered over the entire body, or it may be a localized condition involving only one nerve trunk or one of its branches. In the event, the fundamental changes that underlie the abnormality are the same, except in respect to the area involved. In any inflammation there is a condition of congestion, swelling, heat and redness. If these conditions occur in a nerve fibre or nerve trunk they naturally impair the ability of that nerve fibre to properly transmit the life energy which it should carry. Whether or not there is pain associated with this condition depends entirely on the type of nerve tissue affected. If it is a motor nerve which supplies the motive power to muscular tissue there is not necessarily any pain associated with it. If, on the other hand, the involvement is of a sensory nerve, the pain is extremely severe.

MOTION
If the carrying capacity of the nerve is decreased the full amount of motor impulses cannot find expression in the muscles, and, as a consequence, is weakened.

As the disease progresses, and as the nerve becomes more and more involved, its carrying capacity is decreased, until finally the motor power is reduced to such an extent that complete paralysis exists. The member then becomes useless; it cannot be moved, and the muscles which formerly were active are now entirely passive. As a result of this they gradually decrease in size. This, however, is only the condition when the motor fibres are involved.

MOTION AND SENSATION
Occasionally the nerve fibres are involved, both of the motor and sensory variety, and in these events we not only lose sensibility eventually, but we also lose power over the muscles in that member. Furthermore, the neuritis may involve both arms or both lower extremities, or all four of them, and in varying degrees, dependent upon the rapidity with which the abnormality progresses.

WHAT CAUSES NEURITIS?
Inflammation in a nerve trunk exists for the same reason that inflammation in any other tissue manifests itself. Every part of the body is supplied by nerve filaments, which convey to it life energy in the form of heat impulses—in the form of nutritive impulses—in the form of secretion impulses, and many others. In the event that any of these nerve fibres are interfered with they may express a lack or an excess of any of these several varieties.

In the case of inflammation we have an excessive expression of heat impulses, and this can only be due to an interference with the nerve fibres supplying the structures involved. Where can these fibres be interfered with? This can only occur at the point where they are given off from the spine. There they pass out through tiny openings between adjacent segments of bone. If these segments of bone are

The Well-Managed Home

THE manager of a household is the purchasing agent for a large proportion of the family needs. In order to do a good job she must know what, when and where to buy. She must study goods and the concerns which make goods and have them to sell. She must put her home on a business basis and run it on business principles in order to make the most of the family income.

Information is the only basis for intelligent purchasing. And the right way to get the greatest amount of necessary information is to read the advertisements.

Advertisements tell you what is new and good in merchandise. They reveal improvements and inventions to make your home life easier, more comfortable and more convenient. They give you information about a thousand and one things that are useful.

Every manager of a household—every member of the household who shares the responsibility for the family's welfare—should make a habit of reading the ads.

Read the advertisements in order to buy wisely

MANUFACTURERS OF RUSSIA STARVE IF DEPEND ON MARKET

MOSCOW, March 18.—Razor manufacturers would starve if they depended on the demand of the Russian peasantry for their products. Only on the rarest occasions do the Russian Muzhiks (farmers) shave their faces. Among the old believers (a large religious sect in Russia) a man who has shaved his beard is considered to have lost all chance of entering heaven.

In the old days it was one of the favorite customs of bandits along the countryside to hold up members of the sect with the demand that they give up their money or their beard. If the bandits removed the victims beard, the latter's relatives gathered up the hair so that it might be buried with the owner, for without the beard it was feared the devout old believer would not be recognized at the gates of Paradise.
