POET'S BELOVED CLIFFS PRESENTED TO NATION

Beauty Spot Dedicated to Nation by Lord Tennyson

LONDON, April 1.—(Canadian Press)—Lord Tennyson has made a generous gift to the nation by handing over to the keeping of the Nation Trust, to be preserved for all time for public use, the greater portion of the famous Needles Down and cliffs at Freshwater, Isle of Wight. The down, which stretches from Freshwater Bay to the Needles promontory, rises to over 500 feet and is between two and three miles long. It gives views over the English Channel on one side, and over the Solent on the other, and commands a panorama of half the Isle of Wight as well. Lord Tennyson has dedicated this beauty spot to the nation as a memorial to his father, the poet, who had a private way constructed from his nearby residence, Farringford, so that he might enjoy daily walks on the ridge of "a noble down," as he calls it in his poem. A granite cross erected by Tennyson's admirers stands on the crest of the Down as a beacon to sailors.
