NOTED PROFESSOR AND EDUCATOR ASSERTS THAT COMMON SENSE WILL KEEP COOLIDGE FROM BECOMING CANDIDATE

NEW YORK CITY, Feb. 18. - Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia College, declared that when the proper time comes President Coolidge will announce that he is not willing to run for re-nomination of president.

"One of the president's strongest characteristics," said Dr. Butler, "is common sense, and common sense distates this course.

"It simply is looking for unnecessary and fatal trouble to raise the third term issue. The Republican party is going to have hard enough time without inviting certain defeat by asking Coolidge to run again."

Dr. Butler frankly admitted that he had received no word or intimation from Coolidge, but has taken his refusal to run for granted as a Republican who "is both a personal friend and supporter of the President."

Dr. Butler said the successful candidate must be an anti-prohibitionist, and declared that the chief supporters of prohibition are bootleggers.
