OF SCHOOL BOARD IN N. CAROLINA VILLAGE

(Edmonton Journal)

The New York Nation publishes a contract into which a young lady who teaches school in a North Carolina village was required to enter. It calls upon her to abstain from all dancing, not to go out with any young men, except in connection with Sunday school work, and "not to fall in love, or become engaged." If she violates any of these stopped. The problem of retaining young and attractive school mistresses is a serious one in western Canada, but no such autocratic method of doing so has been, or is ever likely to be attempted here. If it were, the school would remain teacherless.
