MAYOR TOUCHED VITAL BUTTON IN POWER HOUSE

The actual opening of the new power system took place in the power house of the Falls River plant yesterday. Practically all of the hundred guests had gathered in the building, the working of the machinery had been explained by the officials in charge and then Mayor Orme touched a small button which allowed the water to enter the huge turbine.

Slowly the wheel began to turn, then steadily it gained speed until it was humming and generating power to the full capacity of 6,000 horsepower.

Dinnerware, china, crockery, glassware, Heilbronner's Store.

Don't forget I. O. O. F. Bridge, Whist and Dance tonight in Metropole Hall. 281

Capt. W. W. Mounce has taken over the duties temporarily as chief officer aboard the Union steamer Catala. He is regularly in command of the company's freighter Chilkoote.

Something unusual in window-dressing was seen on Third Avenue this week in connection with the power opening celebration. A big little man was exposed to the public gaze, having the window to himself. The idea was original, so far as Prince Rupert is concerned and originality is always interesting.

In a special page of the Vancouver Sunday Sun under the heading "Future Citizens of Canada," appears, among others, the picture of little Forbes Lee, eight-month old son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Lee of this city. Owing to some of the members being away on the hydro-electric plant opening trip the regular monthly meeting of the Prince Rupert Ministerial Association, scheduled for yesterday morning, was postponed until today.
