

"SALADA" TEA

Two hundred years ago a tea like "SALADA" would have cost $50.00 a pound—but such tea was then unknown—today millions enjoy the fragrance and satisfaction of "SALADA" for a small fraction of that cost.

THE MURDER CASE

Prince Rupert has generally been very free from crime of any kind and the present sensational affair is very deeply to be regretted. It is to be hoped that the culprit will quickly be taken and justice meted out to him.

The difficulty seems to be to find a motive for the horrible deed. It would seem as if it must be the work of a drug fiend with all sensibilities dulled or of a man crazed by liquor who became sobered later by the sight of the nefarious work he had done.

Seldon has the city been stirred as it has been by this awful thing that has happened. Many wild rumors were current at first, unalloyed by an official statement, but today it is realized that it is probably the work of some person only partly responsible for his act who will probably have to expiate his crime in the customary manner.

It has always been considered that one reason for the absence of crime here has been the knowledge that escape would be almost impossible owing to the difficulty in getting away from the city. The police say they have been watching all the ordinary avenues of escape so the culprit is probably still here. The least suspicion as to the perpetrator should be reported to the police.

JUDGE COULD NOT STOP HIM

The despatches report that Colonel Jack Currie, a witness in the General Currie libel suit, was so anxious to talk in the witness box that even the judge found it difficult to stop him. He had something to say and he was bound he was going to say it.

Colonel Jack is a member of the Toronto legislature and talk comes as natural to him as it does to a great many other people and he, like they, could not understand why it was everyone was not anxious to listen. The judge found the only effective thing to do was to put the colonel out.

There's a moral to this story. In fact there might be a number of morals drawn from it. We offer a prize of a week's subscription to this paper to the person sending the largest number of lessons to be learned from this incident.

OFFICIALS ALWAYS WELCOME

Railway officials are always welcome to Prince Rupert. In the first place, railway officials are experts in the art of enjoying life and in the second we like to be able to talk over little difficulties with them and straighten out tangles.

The spring business is about due and we look to have a pretty lively time of it soon. It is well for the railmen to keep in touch with it and with us. They have it in their power to help us improve conditions and they also by indifference can hold things back. We are particularly glad to have those officials visit us who once lived here and who feel more or less that this is their home town.

SCHOOLBOY HOWLERS

The earth makes a resolution every twenty-four hours.

The difference between air and water is that air can be made wetter and water cannot.

We are now the masters of steam and eccentricity.

TREATMENT OF YOUNG CHILD

INTERESTING PAPER BEFORE PARENT TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION
BY REV. A. WILSON

The regular monthly meeting of the Prince Rupert Parent Teacher Association was held on Wednesday, April 18, in the Borden Street school at 8 p.m. There was a large attendance of members. Owing to the illness of the president, Mrs. Boddie, the meeting was presided over by Mrs. Arnott.

The treasurer's financial statement after one promotion has been granted showed that there was a bank balance to a first offender, was made at a $103.96 and that the recent candy Optimist club luncheon at the Macale brought in the sum of $57.30. A donation hotel, by Alan B. Harvey, a vote of thanks was accorded to Mr. Harvey, during his recent sojourn in England, had ample opportunity to examine the Borstal system.

Miss Bee, who visited Prince Rupert its application and its effect in the during the Easter vacation.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. A. Wilson, B.A., minister of the United hood at a trade, and he returned to church who gave a very interesting and instructive address on "The Sons of Justice in the Child."

By the age of five or six, the speaker said, there emerges in the mind of the child a fairly definite sense of justice, which the Optimists, was introduced in England by the Prevention of Crime act is well developed. It is very important that parents and teachers should not outrage this sense of justice in the child. A boy or girl unjustly treated in childhood may resolve not to do those things for which he was punished.

He may react to the ill treatment in the contrary manner and perpetuate in his life those wrong things. It is not so much the punishment itself that causes resentment in the child's mind but it is more often the illogical reason for that punishment and the manner in which it is inflicted.

The speaker gave several illustrations from his own observation and experience to prove this.

AN ILLUSTRATION

A boy of seven was sent by his mother on an errand for butter. This boy had the child's natural love of lay and beauty. On his way home he stopped at a lilac hedge. He always had the ambition to climb that hedge and get some lilacs. He was given permission to do so and went home proud and happy. When his mother opened the basket part of the butter was mingled with the wickerwork. As a young man he does not remember whether he was chastised on not but he does remember that his mother picked up his lilac flowers and threw them in his face. His mother had touched something very sacred and tender in his young life and his sense of injustice was aroused.

Quoting from Scripture: "We love him because He first loved us" the speaker reminded his audience that children react to love and encouragement. If parents and teachers rightly develop this sense of justice in the life of the child they will make an important contribution to the welfare of humanity.

MUSICAL NUMBERS

During the evening Miss Jackson and Mr. McPherson sang solos which were very much enjoyed. Accompanist: Miss Lorna Tite.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to all those who helped to make this one of our most successful meetings.

Refreshments were served and a social half-hour was enjoyed.

The highest grade in the institutions wins a "blue," and "blues" wear a blue suit instead of a brown one, are allowed to go out to technical classes and the like without supervision, and in general are placed on their honor, with excellent results.

The average daily population of the our institutions is $50 each, yet the average number of escapes from the institutions is only about 5 per year. Remission of sentence for good conduct is provided.

But it is in the after care for the ex-Borstal boy or girl that the system particularly shines. Borstal associates over the country are assigned the task of finding jobs for these boys and girls, of seeing them settled in good homes, and of receiving frequent reports from them during their "license" period, which is usually for one year

—practically non-existent.

While the Borstal system has not been officially discussed by the Canadian government, Mr. Harvey stated that public opinion was being educated to a point where some move for the saving of the young offender from a life of crime, must follow in the future.

How serious the situation in Canada is, is shown by the fact that in any year, about 10 per cent. of the total penitentiary population of Canada are young people under 20, while nearly 50 per cent. are under 30.

plus the unexpired term of the Borstal sentence which may have been re-committed for good conduct.

The British public has taken kindly to the system, and that frequent dread of the ex-offender striving to lead an honest life, viz., that he is a marked person against whom society is leagued

—practically non-existent.

The local branch of the Canadian Legion, British Empire Service League, last night elected officers for the ensuing six months as follows:

Honorary President, Col. C. W. Peck, V.C., D.S.O.

Honorary Vice-Presidents, Col. S. P. McGregor, D.S.O. and Major John Mc
