Granby Relinquishes Outsider—Rufus-Argenta Ore Assaying High-Duthie Strike is Confirmed

The Granby Co. has relinquished its bond on the Outsider Mine on Portland Canal, south of Stewart, and is now taking out all equipment and machinery. Since 1923 the Outsider has been held by the Granby Co. by a bond under royalty payments on ore tonnage mined. Last year 13,695 tons of ore was mined and in 1926, 34,729 tons. The ore was mined for the silica it contained which was required at the Anyox smelter for fluxing purposes. Now, however, silica is not required at the smelter and copper values were not sufficient to make mining profitable so the company decided to abandon operations at the Outsider. Part of the machinery now being taken out will be used at the Bonanza mine and the balance absorbed by the Anyox plant. The Outsider is the oldest shipping mine on the north coast of British Columbia and was operated by the Brown Alaska Co. in 1906 when several thousand tons of ore were shipped to the Hedley smelter, Alaska.

English Mining Engineer Tells of Deal and of Attitude of English Capital

The Edmonton Bulletin carried the following article under a two column display head a few days ago. Development work on a prospect two and a half miles from Smithers near the B. C. Alberta border, is to be carried out almost immediately with the object of having the claims taken over by English capital for working, according to Hubert Reade, mining engineer of London, England, who is a guest at the Macdonald. The claim, Mr. Reade stated, was a magnificent property bearing silver, lead and gold, and financiers in England were interested in it. Much Negotiation Just what company or syndicate would take over the property, he did not say, other than that it would be a strong concern. He had been negotiating about it for some months. Asked as to the British attitude toward Canadian mining investments, Mr. Reade stated that the viewpoint of the Englishman and the Canadian was different and that there would have to be an adjustment of these before they could work in harmony. "The Englishman still throws up the Grant Trunk fiasco when anyone asks him to invest in

The diamond drilling campaign being carried on by the Duthie interests on the Rufus-Argenta mine at Stewart has obtained results that make the well-known property one of the potential producers in the province. On one section of the property assays revealed values of 106 ounces of silver and 10 per cent lead to the ton, this being said to represent a fair valuation of the group. Assays of Rufus-Argenta high grade gave 23 ounces of silver and 17 per cent lead to the ton. Work will be pushed forward energetically on the property, Mr. Duthie being determined to make the mine one of the major properties of Northern British Columbia. The owners are convinced that the property is just as valuable as any northern property now existing. Development operations, now in full swing, will be continued throughout the winter.

The Independence property at Stewart will be thoroughly covered by diamond drilling, the Revenue Mining Co. Ltd. announces. Heavy ore concentration is expected as the operators proceed, especially in the zone covered by No. 3 and No. 4 veins. No. 6 diamond drill hole is now being driven and will be put down to a depth of 700 feet, cross-cutting seven hundred feet of a mineralized zone that has been traced over a mile and a half.

Confirmation has been received of the recent strike at the Duthie mine at Smithers. The strike was at depth, the tunnel at the lowest working breaking into a strong vein carrying a foot of clean, high grade silver lead. At this depth the occurrence gives over seven hundred feet of bucks and means that Duthie is definitely established as a big producer on the lower levels.

The Marm Consolidated property is now being examined by engineers of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. Negotiations are said to be proceeding for the purchase of the property which is one of the largest in the Portland Canal district.

TRADING AGE

"How old is your sister, Johnny?"
"She's so old it'd cost you a quarter to find out."

speculative properties out here," he continued. "They must be approached differently from the way you approach your own capitalists. They do not like to put money into development work and think you should have a property producing before they take it up.

When you people over here think that the Englishman must invest here, you lose sight of the fact that he has the whole world as a market for his investment and can pick and choose.

"The real trouble however, is the antagonistic attitude of certain newspapers and the fact that the investor has not the money to put into a project and leave for three or four years without a return on it. In this day of high taxation, he cannot do it.

Big People Coming.

"The big people in England will come in eventually. Of that there is no doubt but they are chary. The Grand Trunk sticks as do the actions of high pressure salesmen who worked different propositions on behalf of American interests. Too much stuff of no value has been foisted on the Englishman."

Mr. Reade expressed the opinion that a lot of good would be done if a new law was passed in this country prohibiting the listing of mining stocks on exchange until such time as the mine was producing.

IN A BARBER SHOP THIRTY YEARS AGO

HALIFAX, N.S., Sept. —How times have changed is instanced by the following item, taken from the files of the Acadian Recorder of thirty years ago:

"A tonsorial establishment on Barrington Street this forenoon received a visit from a young lady teacher, attending the educational conference here; she wanted to have her hair cut, and the boss of the establishment would relegate the task to nobody but himself.

"The regular droppers-in thought they had struck the wrong place when they saw the pretty young woman sitting upright in the operating chair, with the genial proprietor all blushing and smiling as he kept on with the work and glanced at the 'nexts' with a 'This-is-nothing-unusual-with-me' expression."
