UNADDRESSED CIRCULARS

(Ottawa Journal)

The Dominion government inflicted a great nuisance on householders when, in order to secure a little more revenue, it turned the postman into a distributor of advertising circulars. Private sock taking at the wrong time. letter boxes are cluttered up with these things. Important correspondence is apt to get lost amid the rubbish.

Circulars are one of the most wasteful forms of advertising, because the great bulk of them are destroyed out of hand by their recipients. Time was when the postman was thought of as a "messenger of the King." Since the advent of the advertising circular he has been turned into a beast of burden by commercialism in the Post Office.

RETIRING THE ADMIRAL

WHAT I MIGHT HAVE BEEN

As Told to Harold C. Burr By ETHEL BARRYMORE

"At 14 I was heartbroken. It was because I wanted to go abroad and study to be a pianist. I had no intention of becoming an actress. But there was no money too send me to Dresden after I graduated from high school and I had to give up my musical career and go on the stage instead. You don't have to study for the stage.

"As a child I could play pretty well. The family never had to bribe me with promise of candy to get me to practice my scales. I would always rather practice than play with my dolls. The difficulty was for the other Barrymores to get me to stop. I got rather far advanced, too.

"Afterward I suddenly made the discovery that I could sing. I thought very seriously of going into opera at one time, and learned ten grand-opera roles. But I never could take the time off from my stage work to do it. .50 cept my teacher. I did sing in "Camille." but she isn't supposed to OMPARED on a cost per gallon basis with Sherwin-Williams House Paint, it looks as if "cheap" paint had the best of the argument. But-there's a Joker in the deal.

You pay a little less for the low priced paint by the gallon, but you pay a lot more for it by the job and by the year than if you selected SWP to do the work. The "cheap" paint lacks coverage. A gallon of it covers 250 square feet less than a gallon of SWP. You'll need more of it for the job. By the time you've finished, the difference in cost of material between the "cheap" paint and SWP will be reduced to the vanishing point. So - where does the saving come in?

The labor cost per gallon will be the same in both cases, but more gallons of cheap paint will be needed. SWP will weather slowly. It will still look good and be in excellent

SWP under the right conditions and it will last two to five times as long as the average "joker" paint.

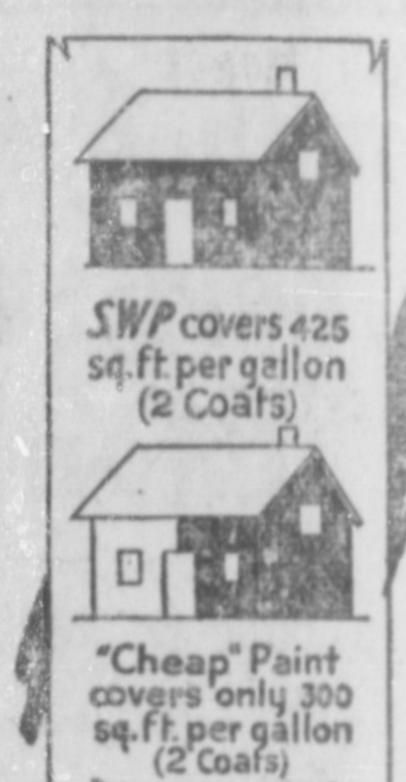

Don't let the low-price appeal mesmerize you. The whole argument on behalf of "cheap" paint is plain "applesauce." The way to save disappointment and needless re-painting cost is to select SWP -- the paint that gives you full value for every cent of the purchase price.

The local Sherwin - Williams dealer-"Paint Headquarters" -can supply you. Visit him. He'll show you how much SWP you'll need for that job of yours. He'll give you useful literature and copy of the Sherwin-Williams "Household Guide" free. Do this and the Joker in the "cheap" paint can won't worry you.
