

Dont Risk the Embarrassment of Perspiration Odour

The one to two pints of perspiration which, according to physicians, come through the pores daily, is natural . . . and healthful . . . but perspiration odour is not only unnecessary but extremely "bad form."

This unpleasant odour is seldom recognized by the offender, but everyone else notices it.

Lifebuoy is sure protection

Besides being a superior toilet soap, Lifebuoy, through its creamy, gentle antiseptic lather cleanses and purifies the millions of tiny pores and keeps the skin sweet, offering safety from perspiration odour from bath to bath.

Don't try to cover up perspiration odour. Prevent it with Lifebuoy Soap for face, hands and bath. It costs no more.

SYMBOLIC RUG IS SHOWN AT MONTREAL

MONTREAL, Jan. 24.—At a lecture on "The Oriental Rug and its Symbolism," Bernard Thomas exhibited one Caucasian piece which had arrows incorporated in its design. When a hostess wanted her callers to realize that she was not "at home," she merely placed the rug across the threshold, with the arrows pointing out, as a hint to guests to follow their direction.

GREAT HOAXER GETS A YEAR

Hunter Charles Rogers Made Profession of Fooling Collectors and Others

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Hunter Charles Rogers, claiming himself to be the world's greatest hoaxter, was sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment for fraud. Toronto was one of the many centres he selected for his operations. At one time he announced he was presenting a collection of old masters to Toronto and more recently he appeared there with a treasury of relics for sale, representing himself as descendant of Samuel Rogers, poet, and Lady Hamilton, friend of Nelson.

All who have followed Hunter Rogers career have been waiting for the time when he would deliver himself into the hands of the law. He has been amazingly clever at keeping himself technically free from charges of fraud.

STARTED AS FARM HAND

His first spectacular appearance was when, as a destitute farm laborer, he discovered in an old cottage such wonderful artistic treasures that he was able to repay the board of guardians relief money that had been granted to his starving family. This was only the beginning of the miracles. He soon afterwards began digging in the ground in another part of England, and unearthed Shakespearean relics, surpassing everything in Stratford-on-Avon. He has had phenomenal fortune whenever he went into any Old Curiosity shop, he always came away with historical treasure or artistic masterpieces. He was able to fool professional antique dealers, who paid fancy prices for his finds. He liked to keep up the pose of being an uneducated villager, though it was obvious from his manners and conversation that he was a man of wide experience and reading.

Rogers himself loved to talk to reporters and he used to show his neighbors an album of newspaper cuttings about himself. He subscribed to a newspaper cutting agency, so that he missed nothing. According to Judge Sir John Sankey, who sentenced him, vanity and love of notoriety were his downfall. Rogers had pleaded guilty to fraud and his own counsel said he was mentally unstable and his passion for notoriety, not greed for money, had tempted him to fraud.

Rogers was the son of well-to-do and respectable parents, and he inherited a thousand pounds from his father. He had a good education, was born in 1880, and he visited New Zealand in 1902 and the United States and Canada in 1903. In 1922, he was paid twelve hundred pounds for pictures which were afterwards sold for three pounds.
