MINING WORK

John Willman and Others Disappointed Over Copper River Bridge

TERRACE, Dec. 3.—Captain John Willman of Usk was a business visitor here on Thursday and expressed considerable disappointment that the approaches to the Copper River bridge had not been completed this fall, thereby enabling him to take in machinery and supplies from Terrace to his mining camp near Usk, where he has over thirty men engaged. A small amount of work on these approaches would make it possible to cross on the new Copper River bridge and the supplies could then be taken in on sleighs regardless of the condition of the Skeena.

The completion of the provincial highway will aid greatly in the more speedy development of TORONTO, Dec. 3 .- Three human skulls and a number of bones showing traces of quicklime were discovered by workmen engaged in clearing property preparatory to building a garage. The grueson find was made under a sodden piece of burlap sacking in the cellar of a partly razed house. Hair found clinging to one of the skulls may form a clue.

It is intimated that investigation will be made and that it will be extended to include records of the invesigation following the disappearance nine years ago of Ambrose Small, theatrical magnate, -Boston Transcript, of whom no clue has been found. despite world-wide search.
