Mr. Muzzy's Fuzzy Lead Pays Off in Long Run

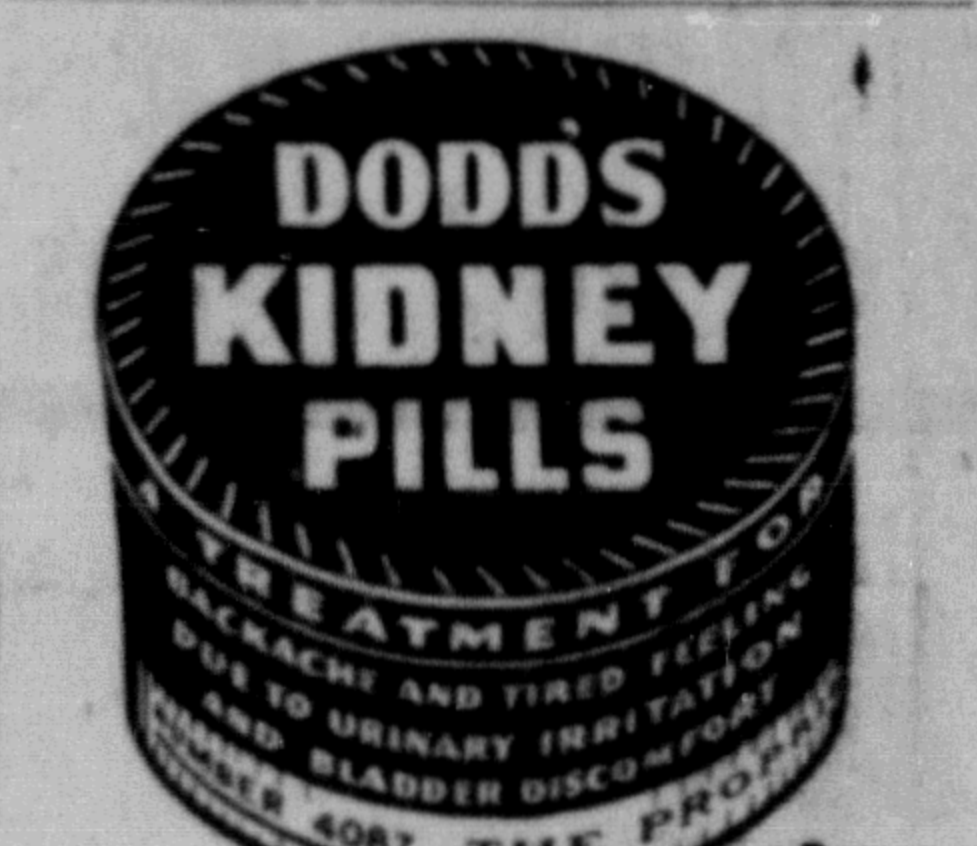

Mr. Muzzy is not one to pay too much attention to orthodox opening leads. Leading from ace-king-queen, most players would open the king. Mr. Muzzy does this too. Usually. Occasionally, and for no particular reason, he will open the queen from that combination. Most times, this works to his disadvantage. Today, however, it brought a strange and very satisfying result.

Mr. Champion got into a logical slam bid at spades which he could have made easily if he had been able to see all the cards. But the opening lead led him into the wrong line of play. Mr. Muzzy opened the queen of hearts.

Mr. Champion promptly placed the ace and king of hearts on his right. He planned a loser-on-loser play which involved throwing Mr. Dale in the lead at the crucial moment and forcing him to lead into the ace-queen of diamonds or to return a heart which would give Mr. Champion a sluff and ruff.

With this idea in mind, he ruffed the first trick, then took two rounds of trumps, ending on the board. Another heart was ruffed in the closed hand. Next came the three top clubs and the fourth club was ruffed in dummy. Mr. Dale had discarded a heart on the second round of trumps. He discarded two more on the last two leads of clubs.

At the ninth trick the last heart was led from the board.

Mr. Dale played the 10 and Mr. Champion discarded a small diamond. If Mr. Dale had retained the lead here, everything would have worked out as planned.

But it was Mr. Muzzy who took the trick. He won with the king of hearts which he "couldn't" have had and returned a diamond. When the finesse of the queen lost, the contract was down one. Mr. Champion was extremely uncomplimentary concerning Mr. Muzzy's opening lead . . . especially when he noted that he could have made the hand simply by stripping out all of the hearts and clubs, then leading his eight of diamonds and ducking in dummy.

Mr. Dale would have had to win and any return he made would have given Mr. Champion 12 tricks.
