Halibut Schooner June Ashore on North End of Dundas Island and Pachena Gone to Rescue

AMERICAN halibut schooner June, Captain G. S. Wahlund, when on her way light from Prince Rupert to Ketchikan, went ashore on a reef at the north end of Dundas Island at high tide and is still high and dry there. The captain and crew, five in all, arrived here this morning in a trolly boat and arranged for the Pachena of the Prince Rupert Salvage & Towing Co. to go out and float the boat at the next suitable tide.

The boat is not badly damaged and it is thought that if the wind keeps to the westward she will be all right. Should a south-easter blow, however, it may prove disastrous.

The June is a fifty foot boat and is well known at this port. She sold her catch here just previous to going ashore.
