

trespassing With Sandy

There were smiles and laughter on the streets today but everyone was talking yesterday's civic election. Harold Whalen wore a smile, said he was very pleased with the results and of the victors were exceptional. There are two new members, Bill Bremner and Kay Smith.

Smith has belonged to the organization in the past but this is her first time into the civic field.

Bill Raymond, commander on the results, expressed satisfaction but recalled a municipal election of some ago was much different.

Old days, he said, were meetings every night and two daily newspapers with letters each signed with the writer's real name.

People celebrated the night but Scott McLaren, treasurer of the curling club, said he was tired of this year's club.

He and Earl Gordon, secretary, both kept a log of non-curlers well in for several hours about the club's one gets from there.

Furthermore, they said they had to see the new sign-up of new members. Most of the boys in the club are from the west—Ted Boulter—but in Toronto attending a school and Earl both in the club are a few members available for those in the club.

Bill is working over the days for the CCC annual Christmas party company children in the city on December 22.

So many names he remembered all of them, he's sure there should be 500 kids at the party as yet he hasn't that many.

Bill's travels he's collecting calendars, not as a hobby, he figures the boys at the party like to look at them, he's a real nice one for the club at Knutsen.

He's going to keep the club open, send it to the camp re-opens—Adams or Rae Johnson get it first.

Merlin is home again for the festive season if he can get a few minutes. Telling Bill, Scuby his hunting trip last year was interrupted three times by phone calls and other times from city end.

Bill brought Dr. Lou a big goose for his dinner. He shot it near Higgins Pass, he brought home some and is planning a real hunt between friends at Butcher and other coastal points.

Those aboard the first train out of Prince Rupert are Gus Heidman—drop in to see George Murray, of the report from Parry Bay carried in the Daily News Ottawa headquarters. The two spent a few hours reminiscing about Prince Rupert.

It would be far wrong to say Jack Burgess is the man in town today and matter for the next week. Jack the postmaster, keeping a check on the Christmas mail, stopping the weatherman to stop the airmail too between now and December.

It'll make an awful lot of him if the planes are CPA Dick Bill is also worried.

Not a long list of people to go south for the season and he's hoping they'll get them all.

Bill said, we get better—when we go by the town again for another week of weather.

Returning to Vancouver for Christmas is Lou Felsen, quite happy to see after battling a fortnight in Vancouver. Lou Armstrong had a fare for Al Fraser in the last week before Mr. Headed east.

Col. Evitt Describes World Tour

A humorous and descriptive account of a recent trip to Europe was given to the Women's Canadian Club members Wednesday night by Col. C. V. Evitt, well-known former businessman here.

Col. Evitt, who with Mrs. Evitt have recently returned from their extended trip, is here from Victoria on a visit. Their tour of the old country was the Colonel's first visit in 50 years to many places of boyhood memories in England.

He told of numerous attractions seen in London, including Madame Tussaud's where he saw a wax figure of the B.C. honor soldier Col. C. C. Merritt, V.C.

The trip also included visits to Birmingham and the lovely Wye Valley to Worcester, where the Royal Doulton potteries were seen; Coventry, Southampton, places badly hit by bombs, and Devonshire, "where cream is no more to be had."

Col. and Mrs. Evitt's tour in Europe included parts of Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, South Germany and France. They visited the site of the Battle of Waterloo, where souvenirs of the fight may be bought, with the exception of the Duke of Wellington, "because the English don't buy souvenirs."

At Allmere in Holland, they visited the largest flower auction mart in the world, where 4000 greenhouses grow flowers that are sold by pressing buttons, and sent all over the world by airplane.

"Nowhere else but at Vollen-dam is the national Dutch costume worn continually, and nowhere but in Holland and Belgium are so many bicycles to be seen, literally hundreds on the streets, sometimes five abreast."

They visited Doorn, the home of Kaiser Wilhelm after his downfall, and sailed up the Rhine River, with its castles on the banks and its Lorelei rocks of legendary fame.

Back in England, they embarked at Manchester on a freighter for Vancouver, and sailed down the Manchester Ship Canal to the sea. On the ship they played darts with the captain "who always won."

They saw the Azores on the radar screen long before they reached them, and a swimming tank on deck, filled with sea water, helped the 12 passengers endure the heat of the tropics.

Stopping at Jamaica, they visited the Lee Gordons, who were residents of Prince Rupert for many years, and also saw Percy Macintosh, formerly with the CNR here.

At Panama City they landed for a short while, and visited a little church whose altar was of pure gold. Here, too, the passengers tasted sugar cane for the first time and "we were not impressed."

Breakfast Clubbers Take Exams

Most members of the Credit Women's Breakfast Club met in the Civic Centre this week to take their examinations on the Fifth Year Educational Manual.

These tests will be corrected by W. J. Bryant, P. H. Linzey and Mary Turner, chairman of the educational committee. The results will be forwarded to the International Educational Chairman of the Breakfast Clubs of North America. Those passing exams will receive a certificate and four certificates entitle each member to receive a diploma, the goal for each member taking the educational course.

The diploma is highly regarded in all parts of North America in the Credit World, and members obtaining it have a thorough grounding in all phases of credit and as a result are considered highly qualified by any employer.

The Breakfast Club of Prince Rupert has a number of members taking this course.

CYO Arranging Social Evening

A banquet and social evening was planned to take place sometime before Christmas at a recent meeting of the Catholic Youth Organization.

A communion Sunday for the CYO will take place December 14. It was decided to extend an invitation to all to visit the crib in Annunciation Church at Christmas time.

The light-up campaign sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce was endorsed by members.

Students Get Hot Lunches

Hot lunches will be served to pupils of Booth Memorial High School at noontime in the activity room, following endorsement of the move by members of the Bo-Me-Hi Parent-Teacher Association.

The group was informed that the department of fisheries is sending a lecturer to the school, instructing on how to cook and can fish.

The meeting was entertained by the Booth school band, conducted by Fred Huber. W. S. Holgate, president, was in the chair.

Elgar Choir Leader Plans Visit Here

Leader of the well-known Elgar Choir of B.C., C. E. Findlater plans to visit Prince Rupert early in January to hold auditions if he receives any applications from here.

Mr. Findlater announced that applications for auditions can be made direct to him at 326 West Hastings Street, Vancouver, or to any school inspector or school principals.

The last Prince Rupert member of the Elgar Choir was Miss Barbara Teng, now Mrs. Kenneth Burnett, who travelled to England with the choir in 1951.

The Elgar Choir toured Britain again this summer and received such enthusiastic endorsement of its work wherever it went that the leaders, Mr. and Mrs. Findlater, have agreed to form another all B.C. choir to visit Britain in 1954.

Organization will begin early in the new year when Mr. Findlater will visit a number of interior towns to audition prospective new members and discuss important details with interested parents.

Navy to Hold Dance Tonight

The entire ship's company at HMCS Chatham was on the job last night decorating the navy drill hall for their annual pre-Christmas dance tonight to raise funds for a children's party.

The "work gang" took over after drill, arranging streamers, cedar bows and flags of many nations.

Abel Seamon Sid Alexander will be master of ceremonies at the dance.
