Big Movement of Settlers Bound for the Peace River District is Noted at Edmonton Where Business Good Now

DMONTON, April 25.—There is a big movement on toward the Peace River country this spring. Settlers are arriving in large numbers and the outlook is that thousands of newcomers will take up land in that section this year.

It is not only the transportation concerns that are kept busy. The influence is felt by local merchants and by the banks. In connection with the latter it is stated that many sums of money are being transferred to country banks to the credit of new settlers, showing that many of them have money.

It is the busiest immigration season Edmonton has had for many years past and the city is feeling the effect in increased business. It is thought that the publicity campaign for a railway with a western outlet has had something to do with the movement. Also the exhibiting of wheat by Herman Trelle in the United States where he has carried off many prizes, has had something to do with it.
