NEXT U. S. PRESIDENT

Whether it be Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover or Governor Al Smith, the United States is at least assured of having a good and strong president so, regardless of the political outcome, the destinies of the great republic to the south, will be in safe hands for the next four years. Issues and not personalities, vastly different though they may be, will settle the campaign and the fact that it is Hoover and Smith will throw in even more issues, owing to the ramifications and policies that either Hoover and Smith have or are alleged to have. Present indications point that it will be Protestant and dry Hoover who will be the next president and not the Catholic and wet Smith. That is unless the people of the United States sink their religious affiliations and avowed dry tendencies in such a manner as to swing the victory to Smith. Religion and liquor, rightly or wrongly, give promise of becoming issues in this big campaign and, even though religion should not be an issue and both candidates are pledged to the continuation of the dry laws, they promise to overthrow other matters such as farm relief, etc. In spite of the fact that they may not have much to do with the contest, reference to the personalities of Herbert Hoover and Al Smith may, however, prove interesting.

HERBERT HOOVER

If the American people send Herbert Hoover to the White House in the November elections, he will be, at least in regard to foreign political and economic conditions, the most thoroughly informed President in the nation's history.

Hoover's war relief work, the phase of his career which first brought him into national and international prominence, is generally recognized as having given him an understanding of European affairs comparable to that of any American public figure. But behind that lies 14 more obscure years during which Hoover, as a mining engineer and executive, came to know practically every section of the globe at first hand.

Hoover's world-wide background, his intimate knowledge of foreign matters, gained as a private business man, war relief director and Secretary of Commerce, is of particular significance at this time.

There are many who believe that Hoover would be a desirable presidential candidate if only for his possible influence on foreign relations.

Incidentally, another little known period of Hoover's career is revealed. That is that he has come to know the life of the laboring man from his own experience. Following his graduation from Stanford University in 1895, he spent several months on a regular shift in a California mine to complete his preparation before he took his first position in the office of Louis Janin, San Francisco engineer.

AL SMITH

Alfred Emanuel Smith rose from an obscure youth on the sidewalks of New York's crowded lower East side to become governor of the Empire States four times and a candidate for nomination to the highest office in the nation.

The governor, known to a legion of New Yorkers as Al, has led a charmed political life in a state that is normally charted as republican, especially in presidential election years. Only once in more than a quarter of a century of almost continuous public life has he been defeated for office.

Generality is one of the outstanding Smith attributes and accounts for part of his immense personal following in his home city. But he has a rigid sense of public duty, with which his good nature is never permitted to interfere.

He has been called "The Happy Warrior." Fighting is something he has always had to do, commencing with his struggle to overcome poverty in his boyhood, when he helped to support his widowed mother. He repeatedly fought hostile legislatures in Albany and was successful in putting through many important legislative measures.

As governor he sponsored many welfare measures, such as widow's pensions and child labor laws. He also championed legislation favorable to organized labor.

His most important work, as viewed by his friends, was the reorganization of the state government. After years of effort he was successful in abolishing more than 100 commissions and boards, and the vast work of the state is now done by a few departments and the governor's cabinet.

Smith has been a storm center on the prohibition question. He has frequently said he favored modification of the Volstead Act, but that he was opposed to the return of the saloon.

VOTES CAN BE WON RAPIDLY

FOUR THOUSAND DOLLARS TO BE DISTRIBUTED WITH NEXT FEW WEEKS IN DAILY NEWS CAMPAIGN

The Prince Rupert Daily News' 4,000 "Everybody Wins" campaign is a very short one and under no circumstances will it be extended beyond the date advertised. At the end, a committee of judges, composed of prominent business and professional men, will count and tabulate the vote totals, and those who pole the greatest number of votes will whisk away to their homes in their own luxurious machines. All others will receive sums in CASH in proportion to their vote totals as explained in the announcement.

Two separate districts have been arranged—one district in the city of Prince Rupert, and one outside of the city. One of the cars and one complete set of cash prizes must be distributed in EACH district. The choice of the two cars will be made by the person polling the highest vote of the district winners; the other district winner will then receive the other car.

HELP CANDIDATES
 Persons who have never taken part in a voting campaign of this magnitude are unable to realize how rapidly their vote totals accumulate. Once the start is made, they pile up like magic. Subscriptions and coupons will secure thousands of votes in The Daily News campaign. And it is not expected that the candidates will depend wholly upon their own efforts—friends will help them to gather votes—and what a merry pastime it will be—with bountiful rewards at the end.

There are plenty of prizes to go around among the hustlers—indeed here is a prize, either CASH or a car for every active participant. The plan is a competitive one, and will be conducted on a business basis. The bigger our effort, the bigger your prize.

Come to the News' office, or write or telephone 534 today for full information. See for yourself the unprecedented opportunity The Daily News is placing before you. And get an early start for one of the automobiles by sending in the nomination coupon for yourself or a friend today.

Make up your mind NOW. Enter NOW. Everybody wins. YOU WIN. You can't help but win. The more you do the more you get of course. But everybody wins something.

The more candidates entered the easier it is for you to secure a big car or one of the big cash awards. How is that do you ask? It is like this—

If there are only two candidates running for the office of Mayor of Prince Rupert, the winning candidate must have more than half of all the votes cast in order to win. But if there are five candidates seeking election, the winning candidate seeking election need only have more votes than any of the other four. In other words, victory comes to the winner with far less votes when five are running than when two are running. Yet the total votes cast in each instance may be the same.

The Daily News' campaign office (located on the second floor of The News' building, 243 Third Avenue, Prince Rupert) will be open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. each day. Telephone 534.

STEWART

Oren F. Hill, whose drug store and post office were burned down in the recent fire at Hyder, is building a new two-story 30 by 70 foot structure in the construction of which steel and concrete are being extensively used.

J. C. Gavigan, well known Prince Rupert business man, has been spending a week in Stewart.

G. D'Estville, mining editor of "Canada" illustrated weekly of London, England, has been visiting this camp in the course of a tour of Canada.

Mrs. Forshaw of Vancouver is visiting here with her mother, Mrs. William Irwin. Mrs. Forshaw is accompanied by her daughter.

The body of William Fillier, well known pioneer and prospector, who lost his life in a snowslide on the morning of December 17 last, while he was on his way up the north fork of the Marmot River to the Porter Idaho mine, was found last week near the forks of the river by Thomas Kirkpatrick. An inquest held by Dr. H. A. Williams, coroner, established that death had been accidental. The funeral took place here with Rev. Father LeRay, O.M.I., officiating and hundreds of friends of deceased attending.

Mrs. Dowther of Prince Rupert is visiting Stewart on business.

Dr. Rae L. Carlson of Ketchikan, who lost her equipment in the recent fire at Hyder, has returned here.

Wellington Beaton, head of the Georgia River Gold Mines Ltd. and the Amalgamated Mines Ltd., returned to Vancouver at the end of the week after having spent several days in the district inspecting progress of operations on properties in which he is interested.

VANDERHOOF

E. A. Mitchell was elected school trustee at the annual meeting of the Vanderhoof Superior School which was held recently. W. J. Rimes was re-elected auditor.

Winners in the stock judging competitions held in connection with the annual field day here were Kenneth Campbell, Ralph Ewen, Ebert Lee, Robert Smith, Miss Louise Snell, Shirley Preston, Miss Mary Snell and Miss Marie Raw.

Miss Betty Lamb entertained last Thursday evening in honor of Miss Jean Edstrom.

J. G. Whiteacre is spending a few days on his Mandalay Farm in the Stuart River district.

The B. C. provincial public works department received a carload of lumber last week from the Fraser Lake Sawmills.

Rev. David Donaldson, new United Church pastor here, held his first services last Sunday.

Miss Molly Moore, daughter of Mrs. Robert Reid, and Miss Barbara Mandrell of Vancouver are spending their summer vacation here with Mr. and Mrs. Reid.

A very successful tea and sale was held last Wednesday afternoon by the Canadian Girls in Training.

J. T. Phelan, general superintendent of Government Telegraphs, was a visitor in this district last week in the course of a trip through the central interior on official duties. He was accompanied by William Dee of Ashcroft.

Edward Kohse and his bride, who was formerly Miss Emmy Falloitz, returned to the district last Thursday from Vancouver, where they were married, and will make their home at Fort St. James.

Mrs. Robert Reid and Mrs. J. M. Johnston entertained at a picnic at Fulk Lake last Thursday in honor of Miss Jean Edstrom, Miss Molly Moore and Miss Barbara Mandrell. The event was largely attended.

Herbert Larson, who is a patient in the Prince George Hospital, is reported to be making satisfactory progress toward recovery.

Our greatest asset

THE material progress of our Province is known the world over. We speak with pride... and rightly... of its vast natural resources awaiting conversion into merchandise and wealth. We take the figures of ten years ago and compare them with those of today... and the world agrees that our progress... considering our population... has been the brightest feature in the recovery of the British Empire from the war.

And if this progress, of which we are so justly proud, is to continue, does not the most vital force of this country lie in our children? Some day, they will take the helm. Events will follow their judgment, skill and decision. THEY ARE OUR GREATEST ASSET!

The Boy of today is the Man of to-morrow... the Girl, the future Mother of our citizens. On us rests the responsibility of shaping their formative years so that when we hand over the reins, they may carry on the Torch of Progress, undimmed.

How have we met our responsibility? Can we look Young British Columbia in the eye with the feeling that all will be well with the future of the province for which we have planned so carefully and labored so faithfully?

SURELY!
 In the last ten years our school population has grown from 64,570 to 101,688... 58%. We have 1,065 schools manned by 3,396 thoroughly trained, competent teachers... an increase of 31.7% and 71% respectively!

Recently we have established special vocational schools for our girls and boys, where they may be fitted for those occupations for which they have a natural bent.

Higher education is amply provided for at our University of British Columbia, where two thousand students are now enrolled, the majority studying for their degree in Science and Agriculture.

And to the school training of our children we add the powerful influence of Home, the religious and other organizations, each of which is contributing its full measure of the physical, mental and character upbuilding of our dearest, most treasured asset... OUR CHILDREN!

With confidence and faith we will hand over our beloved Province's future when the time comes!

Read these announcements and understand your province's progress... clip them out and send them to friends. If you desire extra copies of these announcements a note to this newspaper will bring them. Advertise your Province!
