AT A POLO GAME IN PHOENIX PARK, DUBLIN: The All-Ireland Polo Club opened the season with a series of three chukker matches and provided some exciting contests in which much skill was displayed.

TUNNEY MOANS MORE WORLDS FOR CONQUEST

SAYS PRIZE FIGHTING DIFFERENT FROM ARTS AND SCIENCE BECAUSE TOP CAN BE REACHED

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 9.—The intellectual restrictions of the boxing game are weighing down upon Gene Tunney and if need for mental exercise, unrequited in the fight "racket," spills over into study of the classics and lectures before Shakespearean students, then that's the fault of the game alone.

In a contemplative mood, the big heavyweight champion who soon must lay aside study of the gentler arts to prepare for defense of his title against the rugged Tom Heeney, stretched on a sofa in his hotel apartment. In between the words he spoke lay hidden a story of disillusionment and envy that other men, more fortunate than he, still have things to strive for in their professions.

"In the realm of music, art, literature," he said as he rubbed his hand slowly through his thick brown hair last of the pompadours, "there is no top, no ultimate. A violinist of the perfection of Jascha Heifetz, for instance, finds now and greater vistas opening before him as his skill increases. He is never satisfied and the finer his music, the keener his desire for even greater power.

"The same is true of masters of brush and song. Even students of literature see broader avenues of fine meanings open before them as they delve deeper into the true masters. For them there is no end and even the greatest achievements of understanding are but the beginnings.

LITTLE MENTALITY NEEDED

"But it takes little mantality to be a boxer and no more than to be a champion. There is but one peak, one final goal in the fight game, and that, of course, is the heavyweight championship.

"On the way up there is the incentive to struggle for physical fitness, the mental keenness, that will bring about final victory and the wealth that comes with the title. And even that achievement is permitted only a heavyweight for there are none but synthetic champions in other classes, mere subdivisions to the one class that rules all fighting men, physically and financially.

"The true champion knows how to take care of himself in trouble. Sometimes he will be hit and hurt. Every time I fought I was hit, no matter who my opponent was, sometimes harder than others, but often to learn that ability to keep one's head when the going gets hottest is the prime mental requisite of a champion.

NO MORE STIMULUS

"Now that I am the titleholder, however, I can find no other intellectual stimulus. True, I believe that to boxing I have drawn an element never before attracted, the higher type of citizen who once looked upon the game as nothing but a brutal contest of brawn rather than skill. Long ago I gave up the thought of attempting any cleansing the game might need.

"But there is no place for me to advance now in boxing. Beyond the heavyweight title there is nothing higher. The financial rewards of the crown mave come to me and I need no more. My style of living is modest, my wants are simple, and I feel that I have enough money now to care for myself forever.

"Eleven years ago I pounded a typewriter for a living at a salary of $15 a week. I lived on that then, basically, my needs have not changed—expanded perhaps, but not changed. The habits and customs of living that I formed then still are with me.

"To some fighters, of course, there is always the incentive of adulation to keep them going after they reach the top and sometimes after their primo. It is the roar of the crowd, the thrill of acclaim, that seeps into the blood. I have never felt that and it matters little to me what the fans who pay to see me fight think of me personally."

INTEREST IN FRIDAY BOUT

GURVICH VS. CLARK TO HEAD-LINE GOOD CARD THIS WEEK.

The Gurvich vs. Clark bout is proving to be the most talked of fight of the season. The boys are in good shape and ready for the gong on Friday night. Both are confident of victory and the fight goes the limit, there will be a lot of surprised railbirds as both boys are heavy hitters. Many fans predict a knockout, but they fail to pick the one to deliver. Dode Bircot of Seattle, one of the sensational welterweights on the coast, may fight the winner here in an open air show.

Almost as much interest is being taken in the semi-final as the main bout. Heavyweights, with a grudge, will tangle and there will be plenty of action.

The special event will bring together Jim Sim of Prince Rupert and Red Howard of Victoria—another bout that should not go the limit as Sim has shown his ability as a puncher and Howard is a very hard hitter and made it very interesting for Gurvich in his workouts.

Clark is working out at 5.00 p.m. and Gurvich at 6.30 p.m.. Tickets are selling rapidly and a capacity house is looked for.

Around The World With Sport Fans

(By The Tramp)

The winning of the Hanley diamond sculls by Joe Wright of Toronto is a feat of which Canadians everywhere will be proud. Wright is a good sport, an excellent athlete and he has won his way against the best in the world.

Mendell Burditt, marathon swimmer, who has been training steadily in the cold water of Lake Ontario, is looked upon as a likely winner of the marathon at Toronto this year.

President Thomas A. Donahue of the National Boxing Association revealed that he has ordered Bushey Graham and Kid Krancis to box for the bantamweight title, now involved in a complicated situation which is undesirable. Donahue wants the winner of the Graham-Francis bout to meet Al Brown, New York negro within sixty days and the ultimate winner to box Bud Taylor, if the latter is sincere in his desire to remain in the bantamweight class.

The Australian Davis Cup players will give some exhibition games in Canada and Vancouver will doubtless be one of the lucky centres.

One of the defense men on the Canadian Olympic lacrosse team, and the only member of the team who does not hail from New Westminster, B.C., is Leo Gregory, who has been playing the game twenty-one years. Thirteen players and two alternates were named by the New Westminster committee in charge of assembling the team. The coach will be the famous "Grumpy" Spring, who was with the New Westminster team of twenty years ago when the Tecumsehs of Toronto went to the Coast for games, and Con Jones was the lacrosse nabob of the West. The New Westminster management hopes to arrange exhibition games in most of the eastern cities.

CRICKET PRACTICE

The cricket players had another good practice yesterday afternoon at Acropolis Hill grounds with a fair turnout of players. Sides were chosen but owing to the lack of a full complement of players all had to field.

ST. LOUIS BEAT YANKEES TWICE

BUCK HARRIS STARTS HOUSE CLEANING FOR WASHINGTON SENATORS

NEW YORK, July 9.—Bucky Harris has started house cleaning at Washington. Horace Lizenbee, the righthander sensation of the league last year, has been sent on option to Minneapolis of the American Association. The Senators are the disappointment of the American League as Pittsburg are of the National.

After losing seven of the last eight games St. Louis took both games of a double header from the Yankees. In the second game five circuit runs accounted for all eight runs. Ruth made his 32nd.

Cardinals lead the National League by three and a half games.

MANY ENTRIES MARATHON SWIM

WOMEN AND MEN TO HAVE SEPARATE EVENTS THIS YEAR WITH LARGE PRIZES

TORONTO, July 9.—Competition for the world's long distance professional swimming championship in the races to be staged here August 29 and Sept. 5, by the Canadian National Exhibition will be even more keen than it was last year, judging by the number of inquiries and entries received by swim officials.

Last year, 299 swimmers took to the water for the 21-mile grind in which Ernst Vierkotter, of Germany crawled his way to the championship. Thirty-two countries were represented in the entries.

Entries for this year's races began to come in last month but inquiries have been received from all parts of the world since last September. These indicate an imposing line-up of aquatic stars and a battle for supremacy which will be even more an international affair than the previous one.

Like the 1927 event, the third Wrigley Marathon will be entirely under the direction of the Canadian National Exhibition, with Elwood Hughes, its director of publicity, in charge of arrangements. The distance has been changed and the race split into two sections to be staged a week apart. Purses for the two events will total $50,000.

Women swimmers will compete in a 10-mile event in Lake Ontario off the Exhibition seawall on Wednesday, Aug. 29. A week later, all the men entered will race in the second event over a 15-mile course at the same spot. The five leading women in the previous race will also have the opportunity of going after the world's championship in the open contest, but no other women will be accepted.

SPORT CHAT

The event of the coming week in sporting as well as most other local circles will be the visit of H.M.S. Durban and her four hundred odd jolly sailor boys who are due on Friday. Prince Rupert has arranged a more elabcrate program of athletic competition for men from the Durban than any other warship visiting here in the past was ever tendered. There will be soccer games, cricket, boxing, swimming and possibly other aquatic events as well as rifle shooting. More than that, Prince Rupert is now in a position to give the sailors a game of lacrosse though we do not suppose they are interested. From the athletic standpoint, at least, the five day visit of the light cruiser should be a full period for the visitors as well as local folk.

Regiment, which was not up to form in the opening game last Thursday evening and dropped the match to the Thistles by a score of 2 to 1, will try conclusions tomorrow evening with the Grand Terminals in the second league football game. The Terminals, heartened by much better performances recently than they turned in earlier in the season, are on their toes now and are saying that they will do the same to the soldiers as the Thistles did only it may be a more bitter dose. On the other hand, the Regiment will be endeavoring to get the strongest material available on hand so they may not be too hopelessly drowned at this early stage of the competition.
