FISHERIES CHANGES

It is difficult to understand as yet what will be the result of the judgment of the supreme court in regard to the salmon fisheries on this coast. It is plain enough that when the Dominion government loses control of the canneries the province takes charge and has full control with the right to charge license fees. That is be charged to a drift, following the vein plain enough.

In regard to the fishermen, the report received of the judgment is just out of reach of high tides. indicates that any person who is a British subject has the right to lamples of the ore show good mineralia license on submitting the proper application and tendering the prescribed fee. That would include most of the Japanese fishermen who at present are limited under the present regulations.

Another judgment is that those who are not British subjects cannot be granted licenses. At present something like 600 non-British fishermen are given licenses, mostly Norwegians. In most cases they have not been in the country long enough to become British. If Stewart from Vancouver to open an ofthese are cut off, it will mean a very definite reduction in the amount of fish caught, for many of them are experienced fishermen. The whole situation is an interesting one and doubtless will be further explained in the near future.

MINING TO THE FORE

Mining continues to engage the attention not only of miners and mine operators but of almost the whole community. People are buying and selling mining properties and dealing in mining shares and we find no matter where one may travel, the chief topic | Mine. Atlin. of conversation is mining. This is especially true of the Bulkley valley and Portland Canal but other sections are beginning to share In the interest. There are some extremely good prospects in the Skeena valley in the neighborhood of Usk and Cedarvale and these will likely be heard from before long as a result of work being done on

ANOTHER CHURCH FOR PRINCE RUPERT

It seems but a few years ago that Prince Rupert had only one or two churches fininshed. The Anglicans were using their parish hall and the Presbyterians a temporary structure that has since been pulled down. The Baptist and Methodists had buildings but they were loaded with debt. Now we find all the Churches have good buildings almost clear from debt with the exception of the Lutherans and they are taking steps to remedy the situation this year when they erect a new church on Sixth and Dunsmuir. This is an indication of more settled conditions. It follows from the establishment of homes here and the general improvement of the city.

DIFFICULTIES OF SETTLEMENT

The difficulties of settling this north country are well illustrated in the case of Kitimaat. The people there have a mail once a month. Yesterday a resident of the valley dropped into the office and paid his subscription to the News. He said while it was difficult getting the paper, he liked to have it because he found so much more news of the north country than he could find in any requested that the city grant him an other. He said he knew almost everyone north of Kitimaat and he liked to read about what they were doing.

POSTMASTERS' SALARIES

The decision of the government to advance the salaries of postmasters is a laudable one. To keep an office open in the country, for sixty, dollars a year was altogether too meagre a remuneration. Now they will get one hundred as a minimum.

In many districts it is difficult to find anyone willing to keep the office open and they only do so on the request of their neighbors because they cannot have a mail service unless they have a septed and that he be paid the month's post office. post office.

Mayflower at Stewart Looks Promising-Lucky Strike Property Being Developed-Consulting Engineers Open Branch

The main vein reached by the cross-cut tunnel on the Mayflower property at Stewart has been cross-cut proving the vein to be twenty feet in width with free walls and heavy mineralization principally in galena and iron pyrites. The vein was reached with one hundred feet of tunnel, giving a depth of sixty-eight feet. About 1,000 feet up the hill is a smaller vein carrying shipping ore on the surface and it is the intention to develop this and commence shipments when the surface is free of snow. The property is about five miles from Stewart and a mile from the Bear River Road. The twooot blind vein, crossing about twenty
