

LEARN TO ERECT AVIATION MASTS

George Kinch Left for Wales for Course of Instruction

George Kinch and two other petty officers from the Royal Canadian Navy left Esquimalt a few days ago bound for Cardigan, Wales. There they will take a six months course in the erection of mooring masts for airships, and after completion of the course will erect masts on this side of the Atlantic, the first of which will be in Newfoundland.

George Kinch was petty officer instructor with the R.C.N.V.R. half company here until about eighteen months ago, at which time he was transferred to the Winnipeg company.

CACHE OF FURS FOUND FARM NEAR MOOSEJAW

Mounties Take Care of the Loot and Build Dummy to Replace it

WINNIPEG, Oct. 5.—When officers of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police found a $10,000 cache of furs, located on a farm near Moose Jaw, they seized them and then built a "dummy" cache, made of grain stocks and four coats. Then they hid in a nearby bush.

Dennis J. Penicard, known to local associates as "Dapper Dan," drove up near the "dummy" cache on the night of September 12, stepped from his car and was immediately arrested. At a preliminary hearing, Penicard was charged with theft and shop-breaking, and was committed to stand trial at the fall assizes, opening here in October.

The furs had been stolen from a local furrier on September 9.

David "Whitey" Borger, an alleged accomplice, who surrendered to local police several days after the capture of Penicard, has been given a preliminary hearing.
