AIDS IN DISTRIBUTION OF HEALTH LITERATURE SHOWING HOW TO AVOID SICKNESS

The Armistice did not end the need for Red Cross Services for soldiers, but the end of the war gave time to consider what should be done to correct the conditions responsible for the alarmingly large number of unfit men of military age discovered in our own and every country in which medical examinations for service had been extensively carried.

From this war-time discovery came the Red Cross Peace-time Program. For to the Red Cross, occupied with its war work—which still continues—was given the additional duty of arousing the nation to the need for better habits of living and the support of all health measures.

The Canadian Red Cross Society in striving to fulfil its two-fold task, has provided the following services to the people of Canada:

CARE OF THE EX-SOLDIER

1. Red Cross service is still needed for those disabled in the war. Red Cross visitors prove to the several thousand of those in hospital that they have not been forgotten. Red Cross Convalescent Homes and Sheltered Workshops aid in their restoration. Red Cross parcels and assistance remind the soldier settler and the unemployed that his welfare is sought in every way.

SALT RHEUM All Over Her Hands and Between Fingers

Mrs. Walter Misner, Midville Branch, N.S., writes: "I had salt rheum all over my hands, and especially between my fingers. It was impossible for me to put them in water, or do my house work."

"After trying medicines and salves, which did me no good, I heard of being so wonderful, and after taking two bottles I am entirely relieved of my trouble." Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Cross into the schools. By this means nearly 140,000 young Canadians in over 5,000 class rooms are banded together to carry out in actual practice the rules of healthy living. Inspired to befriend the unfortunate, they have been responsible, through money raised by their own efforts, for the treatment of nearly 5,000 crippled children and have gained experience in many other ways in the best type of citizenship.

CLASSES IN HOME NURSING

3. Recent investigations have proved that much sickness results from lack of knowledge. To overcome this the Red Cross organizes classes in home nursing and has taught nearly 12,000 women and girls the elements of nursing and the principles of healthy living and home hygiene so that the family may "keep well."

HOSPITALS AND NURSING STATIONS 4. In its outpost hospitals and nursing stations the Red Cross furnishes skilled professional service in unorganized areas. Last year 2,138 patients were thus benefited. 743 were confinement cases, most of whom must otherwise have gone unattended. Today there are 39 outposts, but if funds permitted many more might be opened to the incalculable advantage of pioneer settlers.

SEAPORT NURSERIES

5. In the Seaport Nurseries at Quebec, Saint John and Halifax, the Red Cross welcomes immigrant mothers and children. Last year nearly 80,000 new Canadians were provided with rest and refreshment, and were proffered advice and assistance. Red Cross follow-up cards have gone to interior points regarding over 12,000 families, ensuring further help if needed.

DISASTER RELIEF

6. Always in readiness, the Red Cross furnishes disaster relief to any community overwhelmed by catastrophe. Its services have been needed in the Halleybury conflagration, the Cochrane epidemic, a cyclone on the prairies, and only last year when two villages in Quebec were destroyed by fire. If the whole world is stirred by an immense calamity, the Red Cross forms a worldwide agency for the collection and distribution of money and supplies.

PUBLIC HEALTH NURSES

7. The Red Cross promotes the training and encourages the employment of public health nurses, in order to lessen sickness and improve the health of the people.

PUBLIC HEALTH MEASURES

8. The Red Cross endeavors to create and strengthen public opinion in support of official health measures, and exerts itself to promote the observance of regulations for preventing disease.

HEALTH LITERATURE

9. The Red Cross publishes and distributes Health Literature so that people may realize that much sickness is unnecessary and can be avoided.

In addition to these services, individual branches of the society are exerting themselves in many other ways to fulfill the peace-time program of the Red Cross.

When the war ended the society was in a very satisfactory financial condition, and that, with the subscriptions and gifts which it has constantly received, the interest on its funds, and its other sources of revenue, has enabled it to perform its tasks without having been compelled any earlier to ask all the people of Canada for additional financial support. About one-half of its funds has been used for the benefit of disabled ex-members of the Canadian forces, while the other half has been expended in furthering the peace-time program. Last year nearly one million dollars was spent on the work. The treasury is now almost empty and the time has come when an appeal must be made to all Canadians to come to the support of the Red Cross so that it may continue and extend its efforts for the welfare of the nation.

The treasurer of the local branch of the society is B. J. Melish, Canadian Bank of Commerce, who will gladly receive the annual subscription of one dollar for membership in this deserving society.

OTTAWA VIEW McRAE SCHEME

PLAN TO CLEAR LAND AROUSED INTEREST BUT DOUBT EXISTS AS TO ITS NEED

(By R. J. Deachman)

OTTAWA, March 27.—An event which aroused considerable interest here was a speech by General McRae in which he proposed a plan for colonization of certain lands in Western Canada. Briefly, he wanted to take areas of scrub lands, and have them cleared at Government expense. He estimated the cost of clearing under modern methods with the aid of tractors to be $12.50 per acre. He proposed to clear eighty acres on each farm. Settlers would then be brought in to occupy these lands. The expenditure in clearing would be repaid to the Government over a long period of years. No doubt the scheme will come under discussion before the Committee on Agriculture and Colonization.

It presents interesting features but there is a great deal left out in the proposal. There is no problem before the Canadian people on which there seems to be so much doubt and uncertainty as there is in regard to immigration. Industrialists and big business men, the railways and the steamboat agents are very strongly in favor of the expenditure of heavy sums for immigration purposes. The voice of the average man in the street is somewhat silent upon the question. It would be interesting to know what would be the result if a plebiscite were to be taken on the question of expenditures for immigration purposes. It is more than likely that the enthusiastic supporters of such a movement would receive a rude check. No one seems to have proved to the House of Commons that great numbers of immigrants could be induced to stay upon the land under present conditions. Why the settler moves away is a greater question than why he doesn't come. That is the problem that ought to be investigated.

A CHANGE. Meanwhile the House moves on to other fields of effort. There will now be more variety to its diet. Quite a few of the boys some time ago, anticipated a little bit of scandal in the immigration discussion, but that talk seems to have died down. There is a pretty general opinion in the House of Commons that scandal upon either side isn't very good politics. People will cross the street to see a first class dog fight. Whether or not they will cast their vote for either of the dogs is a matter of doubt.

This afternoon's train, due from the East at 3:30, was reported this morning to be on time.
