Until Ottawa announces its decision on the request of the commission, Deputy Chief Leatherdale will act as head of the department.

A previous motion by Commissioner Fletcher that the former chief of police here, William McRae, be appointed temporarily was declared out of order for lack of a seconder.

The meeting was marked by a statement by Commissioner Garbutt in respect to his attitude on the present police situation. This led to warm replies by Commissioner Fletcher and before the meeting ended all three commissioners were engaged in acrimonious debate.

POST OFFICE NOT BETTER THAN STABLE

THAT WAS THE STATEMENT OF J. C. BRADY IN FEDERAL HOUSE YESTERDAY

URGED NEW BUILDING

APPROPRIATIONS TOTALLING $311,000 PASSED BY COMMONS FOR BRITISH COLUMBIA

OTTAWA, May 11.—Appropriations totalling $311,000 for public works in British Columbia were adopted by the House of Commons last night.

Need for new public buildings in Prince Rupert was emphasized strongly by J. C. Brady, Conservative member for Skeena, who declared that the present building was out of date and unsightly. Last Christmas the building proved so unsatisfactory that mail could not be handled properly at all. The building was formerly used as a gymnasium and Brady said that now it was not much better than a stable. These public buildings were external proof of law and order in the land and an unsightly building created a bad impression.

Brady made a plea for the removing of public buildings from politics. The buildings should be erected where they were required and not as the result of political expediency.

Local Hospital Needs Set Forth Clearly by Lady Superintendent

Summary of Excellent Address Delivered at Rotary Luncheon Yesterday by Miss Jean Harrison

PRINCE Rupert has a sixty bed hospital, an operating room, a case room, an X-ray instrument of which it may justly be proud. Also a nursery and children's ward that are sufficient for present purposes but there is need of a diet kitchen, a laundry, a tubercular ward, more space for the men's ward, more private rooms. Also the isolation hospital is a mere shack. There is no tennis court for the nurses. This summarizes the needs here as given by Miss Jean Harrison, lady superintendent of the local hospital, who addressed the Rotary Club yesterday on hospitals and their work. Miss Georgina Hunter, a graduate nurse of the local institution sang most acceptably and Mrs. Fraser accompanied her. James Thompson, chairman of the hospital board presided.

Miss Harrison extended a hearty welcome to the members of the Rotary Club and through them to the public generally, to visit the hospital on Saturday, which is National Hospital Day, the anniversary of the birth of Florence Nightingale, the founder of the modern nursing movement.

Miss Harrison told of the similarity of the Rotary Club and the hospital, both had sworn allegiance to the same great cause, that of service to men. The whole idea of the National Hospital Day was to get people to realize that the hospital is and to see what it does. There were 8,000 hospitals in Canada and United States. They owned property valued at five billion dollars, had ten million patients annually, which was something like one tenth of the whole population. The cost of carrying a big business was $600,000,000 a year.

The speaker mentioned the wonderful work of Florence Nightingale in the military hospitals at Scutari which became an object lesson to the world. The first hospital day was kept in 1921, fifteen hundred hospitals participating. This year between five and six thousand could take part and also hospitals in Ireland, China, Egypt, Hawaii, and Alaska.

Tracing the growth of the hospital movement from its earliest inception she led up to the large modern institutions here people are born and die, places where people of all creeds and no creeds, mentioned the four-fold purpose of hospitals to care for the sick, to educate the public in health and hygiene and to encourage medical research. While every hospital could not do all these things she urged that they must go forward as they would be going back.

In urging the needs here, Miss Harrison stressed the desirability of tennis courts for the nurses. Sick patients needed something more than medical revives. In order that nurses may fully live up to their calling they should be provided with the means of conserving their health and vitalizing their bodies. They also needed the other improvements mentioned. In order that all may understand what was being done and what was needed she asked that they visit the hospital Saturday and see for themselves.

Speaking generally of the British people abroad Bishop Greig said the conditions under which Englishmen are living were a serious reproach to the Church at home.
