NOT LIKELY TO BUILD LINE

As a guess we should say the British Columbia government is not likely to build the two sections to complete the P.G.E. from Vancouver to Prince George. They promise to do it only in case the line is not sold. If the railway should be sold the purchasers would have to do the work.

We have a hunch that the line will be sold. Premier MacLean says he is of that opinion and we have a good deal of faith in that quiet man who is carrying on so effectively without the aid of fireworks, oratory or undue publicity.

BONUSING THE PEACE RIVER

Just now the people of Canada are paying a bonus to the people of the Peace River country to enable them to market their grain profitably. This is in place of building the coast outlet for the country over which they would get about the same rate they are paying today.

The C.N.R. engineer says the Peace River people are not so much concerned about a coast outlet as about getting more branch lines. Of course they are not. As long as we pay the bonus they are quite satisfied, but let the government of Canada once drop the bonus and there would be a howl go up that would reach all parts of Canada.

Paying bonuses to railways is not a reasonable thing to do. It does not get us anywhere. What we need is a line that will carry the products of the Peace River to the markets of the world by way of Pacific ports. This line should be no little cutoff but a main line opening up new country and encouraging immigration. Only such will satisfy the people of the country.

REASONABLE REQUEST

At Burns Lake the other day it was reported that a motion was passed asking the government to build a series of fans to force the hot air currents across that way from Japan as a means of improving the climate.

It was of course the motion of a humorist but it was just about as reasonable as a great many requests made to the governments of the country or the province.

One thing for public bodies to remember is that it is useless to ask for things that cannot be obtained. How many requests made by the local board of trade have been shelved forever because they were not reasonable. We have to try to look at public questions from the larger point of view and see what relation they bear to the rest of the country.

"THE CHATELAINE"

The first number of a new magazine for women arrived this morning, "The Chatelaine," published by McLean's of Toronto. It is something much better than anything of the kind that has heretofore been published in Canada and should have a wide appeal, especially in these days when Canadianism is being so sedulously cultivated.

The title of the magazine was suggested by Mrs. Hilda Bain of Ebarno, B.C., who received a check for $1000 for the suggestion.

One of the interesting features is the first of two numbers on Canada's great pianist, Gertrude Huntley of Victoria, formerly known to B.C. people as Mrs. Gertrude Huntly Green, telling the story of her life.

If subsequent number of the Chatelaine are to be anything like as good as the first, we recommend it to Canadian women as a magazine they should not be without.

SMITHERS MAN IN THE SOUTH

McGILL GIVES ADDRESS AT LUNCHEON IN VANCOUVER ON MINING OF OMINECA DISTRICT

"Apostle of a great new north," as he described himself, L. S. McGill, president of the Omineca division of the British Columbia Chamber of Mines, former president of the Smithers Board of Trade, and well known throughout Central British Columbia as a writer, barrister and authority on mining development, described the mineral wealth of the Omineca at a luncheon meeting at the Hotel Georgia Tuesday says the Vancouver Province.

The gathering was a joint meeting of the members of the Canadian institute of Mining and Mgiallurgy, the British Columbia Chamber of Mines and the mining bureau of the Board of Trade. Interest in British Columbia mining opportunities was reflected in the capacity audience.

Mr. McGill declared that Vancouver could only grow as the hinterland of British Columbia developed, and in this connection he stated that the investors of Spokane, Seattle, Chicago, New York and other centres knew more about the possibilities of his district than did Vancouver residents, if the comparative extent of capital invested was a criterion.

In breezy phraseology and with evident familiarity with his subject, the speaker described the varied mineral deposits of British Columbia's largest and most highly mineralized area." From his description, it is apparent that in the past year or two there has been widespread mineral development in all sections of the great area and promise that this year will see the greatest expansion in its history.

Mr. McGill told of the efforts of Vancouver and other investors not to sell stock of mining companies in the Omineca, but to carry on efficient development work. In many cases, as he illustrated by quoting names and figures, these efforts had been highly profitable. He pointed out that there were many capable and honorable prospectors in the district who were awaiting capital with which to open up many promising prospects.

Referring again to the influx of foreign capital into the mining sections, he advised Vancouver and Victoria investors to "get what is yours before it is too late."

A. C. Garde, Vancouver mining engineer, long associated with the Smithers section of the Omineca, and Nichol Thompson spoke to the vote of thanks to the speaker. Ald. F. E. Woodside presided.

ICE POOL FOR DAWSON CITY

DATES WHICH BREAK-UP TOOK PLACE IN MIGHTY YUKON RIVER

Dawson city will follow out its annual practice of an "ice pool" on the break-up in front of Dawson city.

The ice flag is placed well out in the Yukon river, at the foot of Queen street, and a wire from the flag to a large clock, which is kept under seal, and so arranged electrically that the clock stops instantly as soon as the ice moves out.

Following are the dates on which the ice moved during previous years:

1910, May 11, 4:00 p.m.
1911, May 7, 12:27 p.m.
1912, May 6, 10:03 p.m.
1913, May 14, 5:11 p.m.
1914, May 10, 9:11 a.m.
1915, May 8, 3:35 p.m.
1916, May 8, 10:05 a.m.
1917, May 15, 2:00 a.m.
1918, May 12, 8:45 a.m.
1919, May 10-11, midnight.
1920, May 15, 7:45 p.m.
1921, May 12, 12:45 p.m.
1922, May 14, 11:20 a.m.
1923, May 10, 9:20 a.m.
1924, May 8, 12:47 p.m.
1925, May 9, 8:35 a.m.
1926, May 5, 12:45 a.m.
1927, May 13, 11:23 p.m.

A number of local people have purchased tickets on this pool and will be watching for the first news of the break-up.

MINING BOOM IS BETTER THAN OLD KIND SAYS PAPER

(Nelson News)

In the vitally important aspect the present mining boom differs from most of the booms in the past.

It is the fact that the most talked of undertakings which have been financed recently in connection with mines in Kootenay have been solidly financed.

In the old days the promoter often took most of the money, or spent it in promotion expenses and the selling of stock.

Today in the recent big promotions in this district the money which is being put up by the public for the original purchase of stock is going into the ground, less a small percentage for selling expenses. The promoters are relying for their profit upon the increase in the price of stock which arises from a very live public interest in mining and from the results of operating the properties.

The result will be that expenditure on actual mining operations in Kootenay is going to be exceptionally large.

BOSTON has a talking dog but why should that worry us. We have a lot of other creatures that talk and talk and bite and snarl and grouch, so why add dogs to the list.

THIS is a gambling age, declares the philosopher. People gamble with cards, stocks, real estate, horses, mines, wives, motor cars and death. Mostly we hear about the winners. The losers commit social suicide.

CREATE STYLES WOMEN'S HAIR

SHINGLING IS NOT A FAD BUT WILL REMAIN SAYS AUTHORITY

WASHBOARD WAVES OUT

FINGER WAVING SAID TO BE VASTLY MORE BECOMING THAN TIGHT SET

TORONTO, March 13. — "We can create styles just as well with short hair as with long," said M. Valentin, of New York, at the Toronto Hair Dressers' Exhibition. M. Valentin came to America five years ago to share his knowledge of the art of shingle bobbing with the hairdressers on this side of the water, and it was from the weight of those past crowded years of experience that he spoke.

"Short hair is not a fad, it is not a fancy, it is a demand of the present day," he said, declaring that the modern woman would no more think of going back to her long hair and to pins and puffs than of giving up her motor for a horse and carriage. Women find that long hair is a burden to them and that short hair is a comfort. "Once a woman feels that freedom of the head—no pins, no puffs—she begins to smile, to laugh, and she has no desire to again be tricked out like a circus hero," said the hairdresser who has shingled so many well-known heads.

Washboard waves, so coveted but so many years ago, were entirely absent from the parade of hair-dressing styles, as the models tripped out into the spotlight, the large audience passed judgment on the culture, finding much of which to approve in the charming arrangements of both long and short hair. Short hair, finger-waved on the loose and may fashion, vastly more becoming that the tight set waves, and dressed more or less formally, won general approval. Naturally-looking permanent waves also came in for many admiring comments and were awarded generous applause.

"Hairdressing as a profession in Canada is young—a young profession in a young country—but it shows up well in the comparison with any country in the world," said W. T. Pember, president of the National Hairdressers' Association of Canada in his opening remarks.
