

Man in the Moon

Only one working day before Christmas and some of us won't work much on it. Hurry up, there, Santa Claus.

I wish that I were Santa Claus And had a reindeer sleigh I'd carry joy to everyone And banish grief away.

People who believe all they hear are natural born fools. And the people who believe nothing are just as foolish.

When a man is through serving the public he usually goes to the Senate if he can. If he can't he retires without sponging on the country.

I hate getting up these dark mornings. I think I'll get a job as janitor or something where I don't have to get up so early.

What a beautiful, wonderful world, This wonderful world would be, If nobody had to get up Except just for dinner and tea.

I'd like to snugly lie in bed For a week or maybe two, And then I'd stay in next morning, At least, if I'd nothing to do.

Lessee, there was a vote yesterday, I believe, and somebody won. I hope the people won.

Jake says those who voted against selling should be called the "Gallant 49."

No matter what you do If you are progressing fine You're sure as eggs to meet A "gallant forty-nine."

They're ready to oppose, No matter what you say, They're brakes upon the wheels When you feel like getting gay.

So if you think you see A wonderful gold mine, You'll be told that it is dress By the "Gallant Forty-Nine."

The Pledge of the Newlyweds

Fact and Fable Both

MARRIAGE Bells! There's a home to be planned, each room to equip and arrange, house plans to discuss, consultations with contractors, many stores to visit and many visits to stores.

To the newlyweds these are the spending days of a lifetime—days of joy and thrills buying for the home to be. But still another pleasure they have added to these memorable shopping hours—a pride in demanding first the products of their homeland.

"Because our mutual progress through the years to come depends on the prosperity of our country, we will build our home and make our home with the products of our local industries."—This is the pledge of the newlyweds.

SOUND ADVICE

Young married people will easily recognize the importance of the "Buy B.C. Products" idea. The prosperity of both depend on the young husband's progress in his vocation. As the demand for the manufactured articles of British Columbia increase so will the young husband's position be made more secure and his advancement more certain. Obviously we should demand first and always the B.C. Product.
