TWO MEN HELPED DEER TO GET OFF SLIPPERY ICE AND REACH SAFETY

NELSON, March 14.—Two deer had got stranded on the ice below Edgewood were observed by Bernard and Walter Jowett when crossing the lake one day last week. The deer had evidently walked on the ice, which was as smooth as glass, and were unable to keep a foothold, and when found were straddled out on the ice and could not rise. They were helped off the ice by means of one taking them by the ears and drawing them along and the other pushing behind. In this way they reached the shore, and the deer soon left the vicinity. It is thought the deer had gone to the lake for a drink and mistook the clear ice for open water.

CANADA'S POWER POSITION

Canada's position in respect to water-power development is one of outstanding importance. Although only a little more than eleven per cent of her water-power resources has been developed, her aggregate installation, 4,778,000 horse-power, places her second to the United States in the countries of the world. Canada's per capita development, however (502 horse-power to 1,000 population) exceeds that of the United States, and is surpassed by one other country only, viz., Norway.

MARRIAGE AND EFFICIENCY

(Manchester Guardian)

The Education Committee of the Manchester City Council has once more decided by a majority that a woman teacher should be dismissed when she marries. The same issue is being fought out in numerous local education authorities, and has been raised in more than one court of law. The problem provides a committee with the opportunity for discussing numerous matters: whether the true sphere of woman is the home, whether there should be two incomes in one household, whether the married woman ought to make room for the unmarried, and other topics of economic and social interest. These issues, however, are, in fact, irrelevant, and their consideration by an Education Committee may lead to a most undesirable form of inquisition into the private lives of teachers.

In the discussion on the Manchester Committee, for instance, one councillor, referring to a "hard case," is reported to have made a remark to the effect that "a woman should not wish to marry a man of that sort"—the sort being a man too badly wounded to support her,—a matter which seems hardly to be within the purview of an Education Committee or, for that matter, of anyone except the woman herself.

In these circumstances the recent decision of the Lancashire Education Authority that the only legitimate ground for dismissing a teacher of either sex is that of inefficiency was clearly a wise one. The councillors who pleaded that if marriage involved interruption of work or loss of efficiency in any respect these might be good grounds for dismissal, but that marriage itself was not a matter for the Committee to consider, were surely in the right. In Manchester this view was unfortunately that of a minority only, but it may be hoped that when the matter comes before the Council itself the majority will decide in its favor.

ARGUMENTS IN FAVOR OF PINE RIVER PASS ROUTE INTO THE PEACE COUNTRY

miles from Prince George could be used to transport supplies during construction, in fact very little preliminary road construction would be required to bring in supplies and equipment when building this line.

A resume of facts collected from various reports of the natural resources of the country indicates that the principle produce available at present is timber. Along nearly all the small rivers flowing into the Parsnip south of Pine Pass there are big stands of spruce, hemlock, pine and cedar. These small rivers can all be driven to good mill sites on the banks of the Parsnip. From Pine Pass to Fort St. James there are some large stands of timber and much fertile farming country. In several places on the route large deposits of sand and gravel are found, which would make the cost of ballasting and concrete work reasonable.

Eventually when warranted a branch line approximately one hundred and forty miles long, would be built down the Parsnip River to Finlay Forks and thence to the enormous anthracite coal deposits near the northwest corner of the Peace River Block. In the meantime this coal could be transported to the railway near Fort McLeod over a water route the entire way.

This route, as does Route No. 2, gives the Stuart, Babine and Takla Lake areas a direct and economical outlet to the markets of the country by means of water transport. These areas are potentially very rich in minerals, timber and fertile soil with a climate conducive to very productive crops. The area which would thus be open to development comprises 7,500 square miles.

Generally speaking Route No. 1 has many advantages over the other three routes dealt with in this report; the new construction necessary is 265 miles only, against 350 for Route No. 2, 420 for Route No. 3, and 440 for Route No. 4. Because of natural transportation available, it is considered the construction cost per mile over this route would be less.

Among those attending the Rotary dinner dance in Vancouver Hotel at the week-end was Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lipsett.
