Lecture on Socialism.

E. T. Kingsley is in town lecturing on Socialism. Last night he gave an interesting address at the Westholme Theatre to a large audience and his bright and witty turns were much appreciated and evoked applause. He dealt at length with the development of the present state of society and advised his hearers to have recourse to the ballot box instead of striking. Much of his reasoning was perfectly sound but he led his audience to a quagmire and there left them. He offered no plan of redemption except the very general one of capturing the reins of government through the ballot box. There was no suggestion of what after, except that government was unthinkable.

Anyone who has studied economics is aware that anarchy is the highest social condition that can be imagined. It means the reign of love, when there will be no laws because none will be needed. All will have arrived at such a stage of perfection that they will do right because it is right and not because the law says it is right. Students of human nature know however that such a condition is a few million years in the future. It is ideal, but with the material at hand is absolutely impossible as a practical condition.

No Suggestion For Future.

Much the same might be said of socialism. Judging from the remarks of the speaker at the gathering last night, there will be no currency under a socialistic scheme. There will be no wages, for wages create slaves. Like all other idealists Mr. Kingsley offers no suggestion as to the working out of his ideals, except the one sentence dropped last night when he mentioned the Bolshevik route. But they have wages in Russia, and exponents of socialism always claim that wages paid by the Government are just as much chains as those paid by private owners.

Mr. Kingsley has been lecturing on socialism for many years. Nearly twenty years ago he was telling the miners of Vancouver Island the same story that he told last night, although we are not sure whether Robinson Crusoe was there or not as an illustration. At that time socialism had a big following, just as big as it has in Prince Rupert today. There are always a large number of people who delight in the vague and unknowable. Far away fields look very pleasant. People may yet discover that the state under socialism is no elysium but that there are cares and worries, and perhaps even work in the ideal state.

Eastern Prices on Community Silver

We just received a copy of the Robert Simpson Co. catalogue and find that our prices on Community Silver are exactly the same as theirs. We mention this as proof that we are trying to give our customers as good service as they can get anywhere.

Other things we can prove it by are Big Ben clocks, Waltham and other watches, Waterman pens, Rogers silver and almost any well known article.
