A tribute to the pioneers of the Yukon was paid by Sishop Stringer in his address to the Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon yesterday afternoon at the Commodore Cafe. In clear and concise language the church missionary and dignitary told of the early history f the Yukon gold field with anecdotes Illustrating it, which proved intensely

The history of the Canadian Yukon commerced with the Russian traders who first visited the country. Then, Hudson Bay fur traders, establishing 1847 and 1848 trading posts at Fort uken and Fort Selkirk. The latter was wiped out by the Chikat Indiagns tho sacked it and would have killed Campbell, the head of the post only the ative's rifle would not go off.

The Klondike was named from the word trohundike, the stone hammer used by the natives in driving stakes for their fish traps at the mouth of the Klondike fiver. Bishop Stringer told of the work of Archdeacon Macconald, who was the first to find gold in the region and who labored there for fifty years translating the Bible and other books into the native lan-

The actual gold rush followed the inding of nuggets on Eldorado Creek by Skookum Jim, an Indian prospector, although a great many others claimed to have been the first to make the discovery. The Carmacks were among the early gold diggers. Then came thousands of gold seekers many

Of the hundred million dollars taken from the territory in seven years and other millions since not a dollar was left of lasting benefit to the territory except a sum of $20,000 set aside by Skookum Jim from his stake to be devoted to the sick and poor of the Yukon in perpetuity. No country had ever been robbed of its wealth as had that one, declared the speaker. The bishop spoke of the characteristics of the trail blazers of the early days, their endurance, courage and above all their innate kindliness. The spirit was common to everyone. He told the story of one man who fell into a mine and was killed. In his belongings was a tiny sock, that of his little child in England. The miners filled the sock with gold nuggets and sent it to the mother.

Only recently a little blind boy had been sent out for treatment to Vancouver, the people raising $800 for the purpose. The pioneer people were always hopeful and kindly. All credit to the pioneers who endured so much. all endeavoring to do their duty, declared Bishop Stringer in conclusion.

DEFENCE MADE OF AL. SMITH

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 6 .- After delivering a prepared address on the Democratic party's position toward labor in Dallas Senator Robinson closed with a brief review of Governor Al. Smith's record in New York state.

'He has not been a Catholic governor, He has not been a Baptist governor, nor Democratic governor, but, thank God, e has been an American governor!" ne vice-presidental nominee declared obinson said that the statement has been made that Smith is a drunkard. The speaker paused a moment, then shouted, "There's not one word of truth in it." Robinson said that there was a rereport abroad that if Smith were elected he would conduct a government of "priest rule" and that it would be a government 'of priest, by priest and for priest." Answering this, the speaker declared the governor had nine Protestants. two Catholics and one Jew on his advisory council.

Is Probably the Most Important Hour of Entire Campaign

The closeness of the race; the intense interest which has been increasing hourly for the past few days; the value of the big prizes at stake, all tend to point to the fact that 9 o'clock tonight (Friday, September 7), is probably the most important hour of the campaign for candidates who want to share in the big prizes.

9 o'clock tonight marks the last time candidates will ever have for receiving big votes on their subscriptions; the last time in which they will receive extra votes for new subscriptions; the last time in which they will receive extension votes, and the last hour in which the subscriptions they turn in will count points on the new $200 competition, as well as counting the maximum number of votes on the big prizes originally announced.

The end of the New $200 Competition;

Also The end of the Extension Vote privilege.

It is now or never, candidates, if you want to win big

CAMPAIGN NOTES

Spurred on by the knowledge that the third period of the Gift Distribution ends Friday night and that their most effective work can be done before that time, the leading candidates for the in the campaign and participate in the prizes major prizes put in a busy day yesterday and and the commissions. will be still busier until the closing hour of 9 tonight.

To the callers at campaign headquarters yesterday and today the management made it plain that the race is not yet "in." Nobody, it was stated, has enough credits to be safe for one of the major prizes without further effort. This is so because the race is so close between the several high contenders in each district that effort or the lack of it right now can mean the difference between victory and defeat.

is called to rule 17, that requires each candidate to turn in a weekly cash report to remain active

Bear in mind that you can pile up the winning votes by 9 o'clock tonight.

Candidates, if the time and space we have already spent, in trying to impress upon you the importance of g tting every possible subscription in during the time of the present big vote offer, has not made you see the light, it would seem almost futile to waste further time and energy along this line. We are certain that the major-

The attention of each and every candidate ity of the candidates appreciate the tremendous importance of the present big vote period to them, and will do their very best by 9 o'clock

> Subscriptions turned in by 9 o'clock tonight will count from two to five times as many . votes as they will after tonight. Too, tonight is the last opportunity you have of turning in subscriptions to count on the new $200 competition.

Second payments on subscriptions given earlier in the campaign will count for thousands of votes while the third period is in effect. Candidates and subscribers should keep in mind the fact that second payments will NOT count for extra votes after 9 o'clock tonight.

HOW THE PRIZES WILL BE AWARDED

Every active participent in The Prince Rupert Daily News subscription and prize campaign will receive either a cash commission, a cash prize or one of the two excellent cars. The person polling the greatest amount of votes in the campaign, regardless of which district he or she may be in, will receive the Grand Capital Prize which is a 1928 Model Pontiac 2-door Sedan. Then the candidate who is highest in the other district will receive the Ford Tudor Sedan. Then the candidate who has the next highest number of votes in the campaign-regardless of which distrcit he or she may be in-will receive the prize of $500 in cash. Then after the two prize cars and the $500 cash prize have been awarded, the two persons in the two respective districts with the next highest number of votes will each receive $100.00 in cash. All other active nonprize winning candidates (those who do not win one of the above gifts) in each district, will each receive a cash commission equal to 10 per cent of all money he or she has turned in for subscriptions, according to the rules of the campaign.

This plan assures that each district will receive one of the cars; that either district can win the $500 cash prize; that each district will receive one of the $100 cash prizes, and that each and every active candidate who does not win one of the big prizes will be well paid—on a basis of ten per cent—for every effort he or she puts forth in the campaign.

With the third and last big vote period offer, together with the new $200 competition, coming to a final end promptly at 8 o'clock tonight (Friday, September 7), it is only natural to expect each and every candidate to call at campaign headquarters between now and 9 o'clock tonight, to turn in every possible subscription. The present big vote offer and the new $200 competition will positively end at 9 c'clock tonight and will never be repeated, extended or duplicated at any time during the campaign. After 9 o'clock tonight, the lowest vote offer of the entire campaign goes into

No candidate will be permitted to enter The Daily News office after 9 o'clock Friday night, September 7, for the purpose of turning in subscriptions to apply on the big votes and points of the third period. All candidates in the office by that time, however, will be waited on and their subscriptions will count on the present big vote and point schedules.

ANY subscriptions mailed in ANY post office ANYWHERE which are post-marked not later than 12 p.m. (midnight) Friday, September 7, will also count on the big votes in effect until Friday night only, providing they reach this office not later than Saturday evening. September 8.
