EXTRAORDINARY EXPERIMENT

The experiment of the British Empire is an extraordinary one. Attention is drawn to this by Ramsay MacDonald, the Labor leader, and former Premier of Great Britain, who points out that the Empire is founded on new models, borrowing its principles and institutions from no other previous community.

And Ramsay MacDonald adds that the British Commonwealth that is being built up is fraught with good for the whole world.

There we are. We are one of the most important factors in this British Community and it remains for us to decide what we are going to do with it. Each section has a hand in its formation and in deciding what kind of a community it shall be.

In Prince Rupert there are a great many people who are not of British origin. They have thrown in their lot here. They find themselves in a community that is British, actuated with British ideals and guided by British principles. They are a part of this wonderful new democratic community known as the British Empire, growing, expanding, yet each year the separate units feeling themselves more free to express themselves as distinct units.

This is a great experiment, as MacDonald says, and it remains for the individuals to so carry on that the best possible results will be obtained for themselves and for the rest of the commonwealth.

HELPLESS AND FRIENDLESS

It is pointed out by a Labor member in Scotland that many people who migrate to Canada find themselves in the winter season helpless and friendless in an ungenerous land. It seems often as if the statement were true. And yet how can it be otherwise. The only way to cultivate self-reliance is by feeling that the future of the individual depends on his unaided efforts. It may be a cruel method of developing citizenship and yet we find that it is the most effective. What makes failures in Canada is the sending of remittances here to those who learn to expect them and forget to take care of themselves. To feel oneself wholly cut off from outside help is the only method of treating some of us who need just such training.

The people of Canada are more friendly than most people, especially the people who live in the farming communities of the prairie country. But even there they have no use for a person who is always looking for outside help. They have no use for the dole system which tends to take away a person's self-reliance.

British people coming to Canada must accept her as she is and adapt themselves to her ways. If they do not like it they can always remain at home and we think the Government is foolish to spend so much money in trying to induce people to come here. Let them come by all means and extend the glad hand but let them do as others have done, pay their way and ask permission to enter. Then they will appreciate better the privilege of citizenship.

Highland Group Showing up well—New Camp at Esperanza—Ore in from Chikamin Glacier to Stewart

The Highland group, situated on McGrath Mountain in Alice Arm camp and being developed by the owner, R. Ingraham, is showing signs of developing into an important property. A tunnel is being drifted on the ore body and is in a distance of twenty feet which gives depth on the ore of also twenty feet. The ore body has an average width of 34 feet and is plainly traceable on the surface for long distance. It is zinc-lead ore of a high character. Mining engineers and others who have examined the property are of the opinion that the prospects for developing a considerable tonnage are good. Work extending the tunnel is being vigorously prosecuted. The ground slopes at an angle of about forty-five degrees so that considerable depth on the ore can be obtained at minimum cost.

The new camp at the Esperanza mine at Alice Arm is now completed. It comprises two well appointed buildings and provides accommodation for ten men with all the latest conveniences. Timbering at the mine has been undertaken recently and the compressor plant is expected to arrive shortly. With the installation of the latter, mining operations will be considerably expedited.

Col. A. S. McCullough of Vancouver, managing director of the Revenue Mining Co., recently visited the Independence mine at Stewart and expressed himself as well satisfied with what he saw and with future possibilities. A crew of sixteen men is now employed at the Independence under the foremanship of John Swanson and the development work consists of diamond drilling and open cutting.

O. B. Bush, head of the Bush Consolidated Co., announces that his company has drifted ninety feet on a large north-south vein that has a width of forty feet. So far the vein in the drift is badly crushed but solid ground should be reached within thirty-five feet where an east-west vein intersects the one being drifted on. Surface ore at this point carries good values.

Some of the most spectacular ore from the standpoint of values ever brought into Stewart came last week from the Chickamin glacier, on the Alaska side of the line, running $13,000 per ton in gold and silver, the gold content being 240 ounces. The ore is a quartz gangue, mixed with a green stained rock heavily impregnated with native silver with which the gold is apparently alloyed. The property is owned by Thornton & Lemon of Hyde and is approached by way of Texas Creek. So far the ore has not been found in place but is in the form of float working out from under the glacier with no indication of how far it has come. The owners are making efforts to locate the source of this spectacularly rich ore.

A new vein was recently discovered on the United Empire mine back of Stewart, of which William Dann is managing director and open cutting was immediately commenced. The vein has been open cut fourteen feet and is still in ore the cutting having been commenced at the footwall. A tunnel has been faced and driven six feet in the No. 1 vein on the property for the purpose of drifting on the ore which is exposed on the surface for 650 feet, showing high grade for the greater part. A trail has been cut to connect this tunnel with the tunnel driven by the previous bonders which was put in so to strike No. 2 vein. Everything is in readiness to drive twenty feet in this tunnel during the rainy weather when open cutting becomes difficult. Cutting indicates that this vein dips at the same angle as all other veins on the property and if this is so, twenty feet should tap the vein. The management is well satisfied with results on the United Empire.

CHURCH ORGAN TO BE MODERNIZED SOON AT THE UNITED CHURCH

The Organ Fund Committee of the United Church met on Saturday evening at the home of Miss Way, when in addition to Rev. A. Wilson who presided, there were present Miss Way, Mrs. W. J. Kirkpatrick, secretary, F. Vickers and J. S. Wilson.

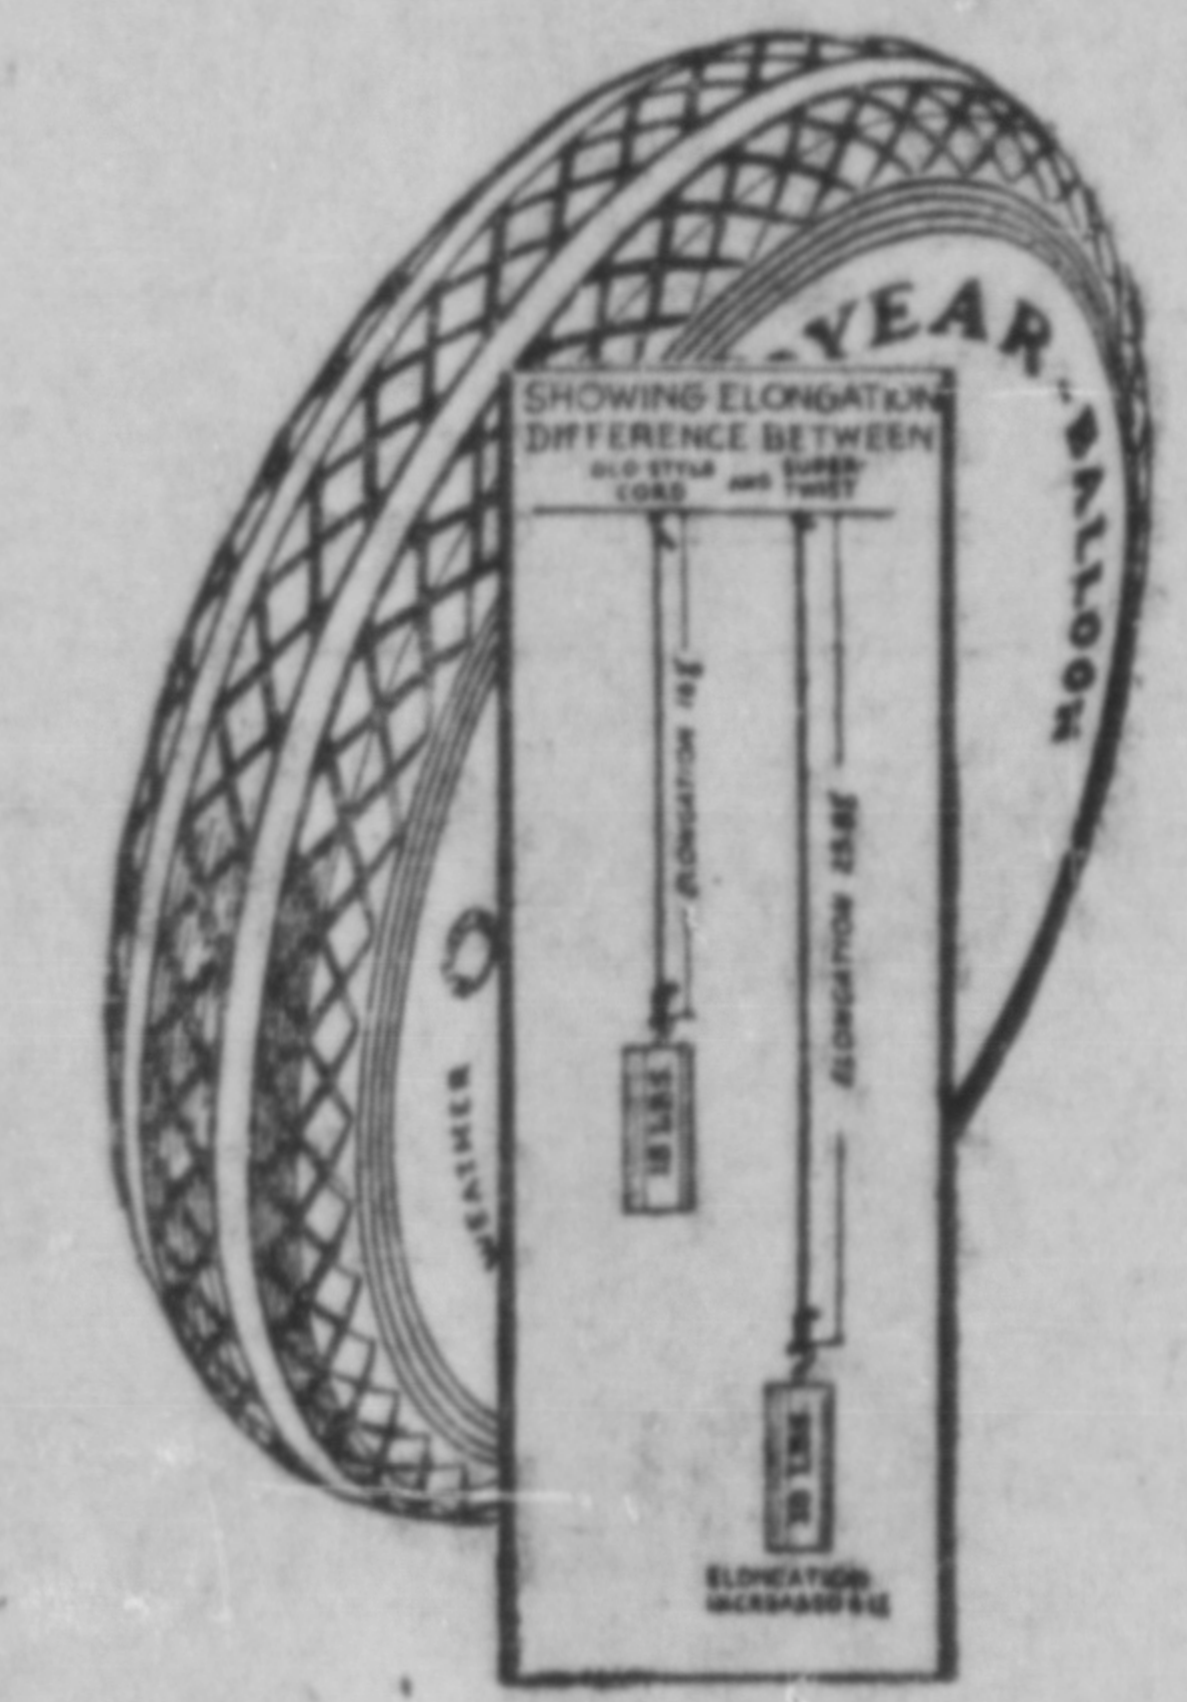

It was decided to purchase an electric blower for the organ and arrangements were also discussed for having electrical connections being made and for having the organ tuned and put in repair.

It is hoped to have the installation completed early next month in good time for the winter work of the church. There is a considerable balance to the credit of the fund, both the Ladies' Aid and the Young People's Society having made handsome contributions.

KEN MAYNARD AND TARZAN TONIGHT

"The Upland Rider," the story of a horse, with all the ingredients of a fast moving and hard riding melodrama, packed with more thrills than are usually found in five pictures, is the advance advertisement of Ken Maynard's latest western feature here tonight. This picture is an original story by Marion Jackson, and features Tarzan, the wonder horse of Ken's who has been seen with Ken in all of his previous westerns. Tarzan is possibly one of the best known equine players on the screen and is actually receiving far more of his own, to such a degree that Charles R. Rogers, the producer of the Ken Maynard features for Firt National and Ken, decided that the public would be given a picture in which Tarzan had more than his usual share of film footage.

The story is typically modern in scope and deals with two rival horse ranches in the west.

SPOOKS GALORE IN "SOMETHING ALWAYS HAPPENS" PICTURE

For the third time in rapid succession, Esther Ralston, the blonde Paramount star, and Neil Hamilton, popular screen juvenile, are again teamed to provide an entertaining story for the public. This time they are the leading pair in an unusual satiric, melodramatic farce mystery-comedy, "Something Always Happens," the picture which will show here Wednesday and Thursday.

Miss Ralston and Hamilton are cast in a new setting, a haunted house, inhabited by characters with much more body than ghosts are credited with. They spend a thrilling night in mad terror, with plenty of laughs for the audience and find little time for romancing throughout the picture.

THE STUDENT PRINCE BEAUTIFUL LOVE STORY

Tender and Romantic Affair To Be Seen Here At The Week-End

In a massive filmization of the celebrated old romance of Heidelberg and the prince who sought happiness there, Ramon Novarro and Norma Shearer come here Friday and Saturday. The picture is called "The Student Prince" and is the latest super-production to come from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

Ernst Lubitch, the director, has treated this most beautiful of love stories in a tender and romantic fashion. It is just a simple plot of a boy and girl, an unhappy prince and his pathetic sweetheart, a maid in the village inn, but they love with a devotion that is greater than royal traditions, greater than life itself, and then because society is what it is and because youth was made for
