Neither Went Through With Ceremony so one was Sued by

VANCOUVER, January 25 .- Attractive young ladies of Jugo-Slavia, where, since the war, husbands are hard to find, appear to have hit upon an ingenious device for obtaining free passage to Canada, a land of more favored marital prospects.

Julius Marcovitch, sturdy Servian citizen of Vancouver, who resides at 750 Union Street, says that he has been twice victimized and the experience has cost him about $900. Marcovitch is a widower and his two children are in the Alexandra Orphanage because he feels he can not give them the care that they should have.

He has been desirous for some time, however, of marrying a suitable girl of his own nationality, so that his little ones may have the benefits of home life and the affection of fond parents. PASSAGE PAID TWICE

Twice, says Marcovitch, he has got into communication with young women in Servia, who appeared to him and to his relatives there, to be suitable mates for himself and mothers for his two children. Twice he says he has provided funds to bring these young women to Vancouver.
