Gruesome Story of Murder Farm In California in Which People From Canada Seem Mixed Up

LOS ANGELES, September 15.—The story of a LOS ANGELES, September 15.—The story of a NO TENDERS IN "murder farm" near Riverside, California, on which four NO TENDERS IN boys met their deaths told by a fifteen year old prisoner is declared by the police to have been verified, at least partly, by inspection of the graves on a three acre lot.

Although none of the bodies, declared by Clark, the fifteen year old lad, to have been buried in and near the chicken house on the ranch property have been found by the detectives, it is said the graves have been located and there are indications that bodies or other objects have either been removed recently or been treated with quicklime. The head of a decapitated body of a boy found near Puente a month ago was found in one of the graves.

The police, after questioning Cyrus Northcott, 57 ter 1 and two million short term P. years of age, owner of the ranch, are on a coastwise hunt G. E. and B. C. University bupilding for his son and mother. The police say young Northcott is believed to have fled to Canada following Clark's arrest by immigration officers, who held him for the Canadian immigration authorities.

Two months ago Clark's sister came from the Clark home in Saskatoon, Canada, for a visit, returning home two weeks later.

Seattle Youths Held Up Number of People and Then Shot Policeman in Head, the Man Dying Little Later

SEATTLE, September 15.—Three youthful bandits shot a policeman fatally when he attempted to cut off their escape after they had held up eleven persons in a drug store in the University district last night. The trio then proceeded to hold up three other pharmacies, two gas stations and a grocery store and finally eluded a policeman who took up the trail.

Patrolman E. R. Shepherd was shot in the head by one volley fired at him after he had fallen. He died early this morning.

London Morning Post Urges More Spirited Policy Toward United States Regard to Fordney Bill

Criticises Attitude of Premier Mackenzie King and Tries Goading Canada to Reprisals

LONDON, September 12.—A Morning Post editorial referring to Canadian complaints against the Fordney Tariff imposed by the United States says: "Evidently Americans intend Canada to remain a hewer of wood and drawer of water to the U.S. Canada has tried the policy of meekness. She has turned the other cheek. Indeed we might say of Mackenzie King that he offered himself in a still more humiliating position to Uncle Sam but it was of no avail. If Canada with her strong trading position were to adopt a more spirited policy we believe she would find it more profitable and then nobody could complain."
